Nature Column - Linda Comando

A tribute to the memory of all of the Townsman Ladies that we have lost and loved so much... Peggy DeWire, Avril Pappa, Joan Hall, Polly Hill, Joyce Lockhart, Jean Helthaler, Karen Curry and Barbara Slater.

Moles – Friend or Foe?

On Easter Sunday we watched our grand daughter hunt for eggs in their backyard. It was quite evident that the moles were busy making unsightly tunnels and heaps of dirt s all through their lawn.

Moles have been around for longer than we can imagine. When dinosaurs were wiped out on earth 60 million years ago, only small prehistoric land mammals remained. Of them, the Mole family Talpidae survived by living underground. They adjusted to darkness, heat or cold, wet or dry conditions. Fossils from the Eocene Period, about 50 million years ago, show that moles were thriving then.

Hardly ever seen above ground, a mole is a small mouse-like animal 4-6" long, weighing 2-5 ounces with strong front feet tipped with long claws, palms turned outward, perfect for digging. Moles have no ears and tiny pinhead size eyes that are covered with thin skin. The nose and tail are pink and naked.

A mole's pointy nose, shovel front feet and short tail have touch-sensitive hairs whose nerve endings enable a mole to tunnel along without bumping into the walls in its constant search for food to satisfy its huge appetite.

Moles belong to the scientific order Insectivora which tells you what their main food is, supplemented by earthworms.

Mole fur is one of the softest animal pelts and shades from silvery gray in the north, brown to ivory in the south.

Moles dig two kinds of tunnels: a deep one down to twenty-four inches where they spend the winter and build a grass-lined nest in spring for several babies.

The little mounds of dirt in your lawn or flower beds were pushed up from below as moles enlarged the nursery and the deep connecting tunnels.

A shallow tunnel at grass root level makes a low winding ridge on lawns, gardens and golf courses. Moles travel along them to find food day and night, all seasons.

Moles have one litter a year when several babies arrive between March and May, depending on where they are located in the states.

The young grow quickly, become independent by one month old, and breed at one year. Moles can live several years if they escape enemies that dig like coyotes, foxes and feral cats, and avoid man-made dangers of traps and poison bait.

Well, it really isn't a serious situation to have these litter critters making themselves know in your garden or lawns with those unsightly tunnels and heaps of dirt, in fact, quite the contrary. Those busy little moles who have been making their path through your flower bed and lawn probably ate its weight in Japanese beetle grubs!

While we may be complaining about the unsightly mole trails just think it is really just another sign of spring. It won't be long and we will all be just as busy as those little critters - mowing our lawns and keeping the flowerbeds just how we like them. And if you really don't want those little fellows in your flowerbeds, you can always make a little solution of castor oil and

Household Hint:

Spring Clean Your Microwave

To clean your microwave, place a glass bowl filled with a solution of 1/4 cup vinegar in 1 cup water inside, and zap the mixture for five minutes on the highest setting. Once the bowl cools, dip a cloth or sponge into the liquid and use it to wipe away stains and splatters on the interior of your microwave. Use full strength white vinegar on a paper towel to wipe fingerprints and grease off the front of your microwave door.

Grahamsville & Sundown United Methodist Churches House Worship Plan

Greetings Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

It's been a year since the pandemic started. The church buildings were closed for a few months and then the church hall was opened for Worship service. The church community has had several challenges with COVID-19, but we followed the strict guidelines with patience, to be an example for all. There were differing opinions within the church, but we listened to other's voices with open hearts and minds. Moreover, our faith community started to rethink the church's fundamental ideas, mission, and ministry's destination in Christ's name. The processes weren't always easy steps, but they helped to rebuild our spiritual backbone. It does not mean the end to hardships in life, but it is a long voyage to learn and understand the infinite and mysterious Divine will. I remember Easter Sunday Worship last year. It wasn't like it used to be before the pandemic. It won't be this year either. But this year, we can gather in the church sanctuary on Sunday morning to have Easter Worship Service. We didn't realize what a huge blessing it was for us to be in the sanctuary, but now we appreciate it even more. As an example, until we find ourselves with a health issue, we don't realize how blessed our bodies were.

Grace and peace,
Pastor Seung Jin Hong

Hinton Hollow Death Trip Mysterious Book Report No. 443

by John Dwaine McKenna

A novel whose first three words are DON'T READ THIS is unique, cocky and almost irresistible . . . but that's exactly how Hinton Hollow Death Trip, (Orenda Books, PB, $15.95, 400 pages, ISBN 978-1-913193-30-0) by Will Carver starts out. Those three words are a warning from the yarn's narrator: Evil. It's letting the reader know they won't be quite the same once they've read the whole story. And it's true. You will be different. Feel different. Think different.

The first thing that happens is when an eight year-old boy named Henry Wallace gets put on a train by his mother with a sign around his neck on a string. It asks that whoever finds the boy, keep him safe and away from home for the next week. Henry, who always obeys his mum, has strict instructions from her, to NOT tell anyone who he is or where he's from for seven sleeps. Mrs. Wallace isn't crazy . . . she's afraid. She knows something bad is coming to the small town of Hinton Hollow, population 5,120. She just doesn't know what it is. It's Evil. Evil itself is coming to the small and unaware hamlet where nothing much ever happens. That's all about to change though, because a disillusioned, burned-out and depressed big city police investigator is coming back to the place where he was born and raised. His name is Detective Sergeant Pace . . . and Evil is accompanying him. Things will change because Evil will be bringing out the worst in everyone and mayhem will be the result. People will act in unnatural ways with some encouragement from Evil that prods their insecurities, nudges at their secrets and desires . . . coaxing out the malevolence that's suppressed within all humans . . . who will lie, cheat, steal, and kill. Hinton Hollow will never be the same after darkness comes to call in one of the most original and exciting works of crime fiction to come along since Goodman Brown found out what his wife was up to, out in the forest.

Will Carver is already a bestselling sensation in England, Scotland and Ireland. He'll soon do the same here in the USA and Canada too . . . because he's so damned good! If you're already a fan of Peter Straub, Stephen King or John Connolly, you'll love Will Carver. Believe me. You will!

Like the review? Let your friends know, You saw it in the Mysterious Book Report, because the greatest compliment you can give is to share our work with others.

And Hey! Check out our combined website that's simple to use and easy as pie to leave your comments! We're looking forward to hearing from all of you.

Interview With The Author: Will Carver

by
John Dwaine McKenna

Our interviewee today hails from Great Britain. His name is Will Carver and he's a writer with the ability to pack more original ideas into a single paragraph than most of us are able to conjure up in an entire chapter . . . so with great pleasure, it's my honor to introduce him to our Mysterious Book Report audience, by submitting this first question:

Will Carver

Why do you write?

I still hold on to this crazy idea that words can change the world, that ideas can make a difference, alter a mindset or way of thinking. Language is the perfect weapon for change. What one says is important but so too is the way that it is being said.

As writers, I believe it is our job to pay more attention to the world and the people in it than anyone else. We then have to capture these moments, record them and make readers question everything.

I write because I have to get these words down. Because I see people in a way that not everyone does. And I want to share this. I want people to question.

What makes a character endearing?

I have no idea. I'm constantly being told to have a character that a reader can root for. 'None of your characters are likeable'. I get that one a fair amount. For me to be endeared to a character, I have to see them struggle, I have to see them try. I think these are the things most readers go for but it's made more endearing to see them triumph in some way. I don't need that, and I don't write that. It doesn't feel true to have a character overcome every obstacle. (Contd. Pg. 13)

The Olive Jar

By Carol Olsen LaMonda

“Dressing Up for Easter”

If I could enter a time machine and travel back some seventy years to when I was seven, I would be preparing for Easter. I would have a new dress, white gloves, patent leather Mary-Jane shoes, white socks with lace, and a soft, fuzzy jacket called a topper. I would probably use my old straw Easter hat, but it might have fresh artificial (oxymoron) flowers that my mom got at a Five and Ten.

It would all be laid out on my bed anticipating the big day.

On Easter Day, we would hunt for the colored eggs indoors. There would be an Easter basket with a hollow chocolate bunny, more colored eggs, and jelly beans. I also remember a boxed, solid, milk chocolate cross.

We always spent Easter at my Nana and Poppop's house in Norseville, New Jersey. My dad always stopped at a nursery to buy an Easter plant. I can remember my Nana insisting, "Give me flowers while I can smell them."

Dinner would be fried steak, mashed potatoes with the steak au jus gravy with some vegetable. The day would be spent with cousins nearby.

What I would give to go back in time.

Speaking of going back in time, my last column introduced "old-fashioned" words and sayings. My email was alive with friends and readers offering their own suggestions. Here are some more to complete the rich, expressive vocabulary of yesteryear:

- thingamajig
- scallawag
- jalopy
- mish-mosh
- gizmo
- whatchamacallit
- schmooze
- skedaddle
- kerfuffle
- horsefeathers
- fiddle-faddle
- tommyrot
- claptrap
- humbuggery

"If it grows by day, have it cut & split by Knight"

Sullivan County Welcomes New Citizens (From Pg. 1)
Monticello, NY - Sullivan County Clerk Russell Reeves and Supreme Court Judge Stephan Schick were pleased to swear in 14 new American citizens on March 31 in the Sullivan County Government Center in Monticello.

In lieu of handshakes, elbow bumps were exchanged at the March 31 Naturalization Ceremony where new citizens like Amandine Jeanne Caroline Peter were congratulated by County Clerk Russell Reeves (right) and Judge Stephan Schick.

"I'm filled with joy, happiness and gladness to see so many new faces becoming citizens of our wonderful country," Judge Schick observed. "I see that these faces obviously come from far and wide from different places throughout the world. Our country is indeed a great melting pot ... which makes our country so diverse and so rich. It's a wonderful thing to behold."

"Hosting these ceremonies is a treasured duty of my office and one of the best parts of my job," affirmed Reeves. "It is a pleasure and an honor to stand witness to the culmination of months and even years of effort to gain the precious status of citizenship."

NYC DEC Officers' Highlights

The Goose is Loose

On March 15, ECOs Michalet and Milliron were conducting U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) shellfish checks during low tide at the Jamaica Bay Wildlife Refuge in Queens County when they noticed a Canada Goose struggling to walk. After a closer look, the ECOs discovered the goose had fishing line wrapped around each leg. The Officers successfully removed the lines without injury and the goose flew away. ECO Milliron collected the green braided line and now uses it as a teaching aid about the effect of litter and pollution on the environment and the species directly affected.

Turkey Caught Breaking and Entering

Turkey perched atop the mess created in bathroom of Erie County home

On March 23, an Erie County woman had a rude awakening when a turkey broke into her home. The woman heard a large bang and crash from her upstairs bedroom and discovered a turkey had busted through a glass window. The woman confined the bird to an upstairs bathroom by closing the door until ECO Machnica arrived to assist. The turkey flew around the bathroom, crashing into mirrors and walls, leaving broken glass everywhere. ECO Machnica contacted ECO Koepf for assistance to remove the turkey. The two Officers used a neighbor's fishing net to pin down the turkey and then grabbed the bird and brought it outside before it could cause further damage. The ECOs then set the turkey free and helped the woman clean-up the mess left behind.

An ECO holds the large turkey inside a bathroom

Pups on Thin Ice

On March 24, ECO Smith received a call from State Police in Catskill about two dogs that fell through the ice on the Potic Reservoir in the town of Cairo. A motorist driving by the reservoir saw the dogs struggling in the broken ice and called police for help. ECO Smith responded to the location and found one of the dogs had freed itself from the ice

Throw bag used during rescue was extended approximately 50 feet from the shoreline; Arya the dog was stuck 20 feet further out on the ice and made it to shore while the other animal was still stuck on the broken ice approximately 70 feet from the shoreline. Utilizing a throw bag and Personal Flotation Device (PFD), ECO Smith accessed the ice and shuffled out to the dog. The Officer pulled the dog from the water and slid her off the ice on the PFD. ECO Smith eventually located the owner of the dogs and returned the pets to their home. The owner said the dogs had escaped their home by digging and removing a barricade.

Arya safely returned to her owner

NYS DEC Wilderness Rescue

On Mar. 25 at 5:14 p.m., DEC's Ray Brook Dispatch received a call from a hiker reporting he was concerned that his 18-year-old friend was lost after the pair were separated on the trail for Mount Marcy in the High Peaks Wilderness Area. After speaking with the caller, Forest Ranger Prackajlo advised that he and Forest Ranger O'Connor were responding to assist. Once on scene, Ranger Prackajlo notified Dispatch that he and Ranger O'Connor made contact with the reporting party at Marcy Dam. Ranger Prackajlo continued up the trail to locate the lost hiker while Ranger O'Connor began to escort the friend out of the woods. Lt. Burns advised that Ranger Lewis would respond to the Garden parking lot and begin to hike up the Mount Marcy trail from Johns Brook Valley. Ranger Lewis was forced to posthole while walking with snowshoes. At 12:46 a.m., the lost hiker from Southbury, Connecticut, texted Ray Brook Dispatch, advising that he was on the yellow trail that leads to the Adirondack Loj.

The subject also provided his coordinates. At 2 a.m., Ranger Lewis located fresh snowshoe tracks leading to the lost hiker. The hiker was suffering from exposure due to the high number of stream crossings. Two additional Rangers also responded but were turned around by high water levels and deteriorating trail conditions while attempting to reach the Johns Brook interior outpost. Ranger Lewis provided the subject with warm clothing, food, and water. Together the Ranger and the subject reached the outpost safely at 6:15 a.m. After resting for a few hours, the Ranger and the subject hiked back to the trailhead and the hiker was released to his parents at 10:45 a.m.

Board of Elections Announces "I Voted" Sticker Art Contest for Ulster County Students

Commissioners Dittus and Quigley are excited to announce a new community initiative for Ulster County students. In order to promote the voting process and give young people a platform for civic engagement we are launching our first "I Voted" sticker art work contest. The contest is open to any Ulster County students ages 13-18 years old. We are asking for contestants to complete a logo which will then be used to create "I Voted" 2 inch stickers and digital graphics that will be produced and used for sharing for the November 2, 2021 General Election. "I Voted" must appear somewhere in the design. Artwork may be submitted between April 1, 2021 with a deadline of June 1, 2021.

"We are excited to launch this project and give a platform for young people to engage with the voting process. I am excited to see how our area students interpret the concept of voting in a creative way," said Commissioner Ashley Dittus. "The Board has been looking for different ways to engage with the community and foster a deeper connection between our office and the voters we serve, especially for young people who are thinking of voting for the first time," added Commissioner John Quigley.

The Ulster County Board of Elections Commissioners will select the top design and then the contest will be up for a vote on our website; voteulster.com during the month of July. The winning designs will be selected from the top vote getters and posted on September 10, 2021 with stickers being distributed during the November 2nd General Election.

For more information please contact Deputy Commissioner Jen Fuentes or Keri Williams at 845-334-5470.

Gillibrand, Colleagues Push for $55B in Capital Investments for Northeast Corridor Passenger Rail Effort Seeks to Address NEC Repairs Backlog, Invest in Passenger Rail as 'Top Priority' for Infrastructure Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. - U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand joined a group of 12 other senators from states along the Northeast Corridor (NEC) in a letter urging President Biden to support $55 billion in long-term funding for passenger rail infrastructure in order to repair the NEC rail network. The letter also calls for robust support to expand Amtrak passenger rail service nationwide. The senators are calling for an ambitious $55 billion over 10 years in dedicated federal funding to expand commuting zones, create better access to jobs, and provide more sustainable transportation to Americans.

"The state-of-good-repair backlog in the NEC has climbed to over $40 billion, and Amtrak and other infrastructure owners lack the long-term funding to address it. Unlike our highway and airway systems, our rail system lacks a dedicated funding stream, and instead relies on Congress to appropriate sufficient funds each and every year," said the senators.

The senators concluded, "We encourage your Administration to support the long-term funding needed to restore and revitalize the NEC in your infrastructure proposal, and ensure that stakeholders in the corridor are empowered to identify, prioritize, and sequence projects in the state of good repair backlog. Investing in rail infrastructure will open up corridors of booming economic growth, help meet our climate goals, and increase our international competitiveness. Expanding passenger rail service across the country should be a top priority for any clean infrastructure agenda."

Attorney General James Statement on Vote to Legalize Marijuana in New York

NEW YORK - New York Attorney General Letitia James released the following statement in response to the passage of marijuana legalization in New York:

"The legalization of marijuana is a racial and criminal justice imperative, and today's vote is a critical step towards a fairer and more just system. For too long, people of color have been disproportionately impacted by an outdated and shortsighted marijuana prohibition, and it's past time we right this wrong. We must also engineer an economy that will provide a much-needed boost to communities devastated by the war on drugs and COVID-19, and I am hopeful this will help to achieve that for New Yorkers."

As New York City Public Advocate, Attorney General James was among the first elected officials in the state to call for the legalization of recreational marijuana, citing the need for a fairer justice system and a significant boost to the economy. Attorney General James has also advocated for expunging the records of those who have been arrested, detained, or convicted of marijuana-related possession.

Ulster County Executive Ryan Statement in Anticipation of the Passage of the Legalization of Marijuana in NYS

"The legalization of adult-use marijuana in New York State represents a tremendous economic opportunity for Ulster County that fits within our Ulster 2040 strategy to establish a more 'People-Centered Economy' by boosting our agriculture community, generating good paying jobs in an emerging market, and creating additional revenues to support all of our county's critical programs in addition to helping those disproportionately negatively impacted by marijuana laws. In the coming weeks, Ulster County will be working with our agricultural, businesses communities, law enforcement and localities to ensure an equitable and safe implementation."

Interview With The Author: Will Carver

(From Pg. 5) (What's the most important element for writing success?)

You can talk for ever about the book idea you have and will write one day but it takes work. You have to sit in that seat and get the words down. That's what it takes. It will, actually, take you hundreds of days. You will hate what you write a lot of the time and you will hate yourself, too, but you have to get the words from your mind onto a piece of paper or a screen. It takes more discipline that most people realise.

You need luck, too. You need an agent, editor, publisher to see your writing at the very right time. Then you need a sales team to get behind your idea. Then you need readers to engage and spread the word. You can spend money on marketing but it all comes down to luck.

Great writers don't get the success they deserve because they haven't had the luck. And bad writers can make it because they have had it. But even the bad ones have to put in the work and finish their novel first.

It takes both things.

But it also depends on what you call 'success'.

What makes a character compelling?

Flaws. It's the same thing that makes real people compelling. Nobody wants to scroll through their social media feed and see pictures of the perfect family. They don't want to see a couple in love with gorgeous children frolicking with an obedient dog. Yes, it's lovely to witness but it isn't compelling. When you know that a couple has some underlying issues and relationships are strained behind closed doors, and their kids are not always well-behaved and the dog relieves itself on the bed every morning, your relationship with that person or character hits a deeper level than the surface.

Struggling is compelling. And imperfections are always far more interesting.

Do you write in more than one genre? If yes: which ones?

My last book, Nothing Important Happened Today, was about an invisible suicide cult. It was half fiction and half instruction manual on how to set-up a successful cult of your own. Hinton Hollow Death Trip is about a fictional, idyllic town with a seedy underbelly. But it is narrated by Evil itself. A crime thriller narrated by a concept.

My books turn up in all different sections of bookshops and I tend to get marketed as something 'different'.

So, my answer is that I don't strictly sit in a genre at the moment. I tend to straddle crime, literary, thriller, dark humour and horror. Most people called Good Samaritans 'domestic noir', while I saw it as a love story. A dysfunctional one, of course, but a love story nonetheless.

I write the stories that interest me, it's up to others to try to fit them into a pigeonhole.

Do you use humor in your work?

I have to. I write about very dark things and there's a lot of social commentary - particularly in my last three books. Talking about these things can feel like an assault on the reader. They could come across as preachy. It can seem like an idea is being hammered into your face repeatedly with a fry-pan.

I use humour - albeit dark humour - to add contrast. You can't have a book that is all shade, it has to be injected, or at least peppered, with some light. It can act as relief for a reader but it's also very useful to use this contrast to accentuate a point. One can write humorously in order to make a more serious statement.

Are you more comfortable writing in the first, or third person POV?

I feel comfortable with all points of view, it really depends on the story and the best way to tell it. I also like writing in the second person because it is a useful tool to bring a reader into the book and make them a part of the story. I used this a lot in Hinton Hollow Death Trip because I wanted the reader to have a relationship with Evil, who narrates the story.

My next book, The Beresford, takes place in an old apartment building and is third person all the way through because I want the reader to feel like they are peering in on what is happening. But my original series of books was all first person from every character, the detective, the killer and, most importantly, the victims leading up to their death. I do not prefer one to the other, it all comes down to what works best for each story and will get the message across in the most effective way.

Bonus questions, and your last chance for brilliance . . .

Do you have any other comments, suggestions, tips, anecdotes, quotes or inspirational material you'd like to share?

A quote I tend to live my life by is attributed to George Bernard Shaw and goes something like, 'The reasonable man adapts himself to the world. The unreasonable man attempts to adapt the world to himself, therefore, all progress is made by the unreasonable man.'

I think this is especially true when it comes to writing or any kind of art. There are topics that most steer clear of, and few like to steer into. The reasonable and the unreasonable.

And that leads me into something my favourite contemporary writer, Chuck Palahniuk, said, 'Don't write to be liked, write to be remembered.' Sage advice.

Where could you be reached on the World Wide Web?

My new website www.willcarver.co.uk is under construction as I let the previous one expire but I can be found on twitter most days talking about books and whisky. @will_carver

Many thanks Will, for your time, for your insights . . . and most of all, for your thought-provoking kick-ass novels!

VIRTUAL Program by the Time and the Valleys Museum

[Grahamsville, N.Y.] - Join the Time and the Valleys Museum for an on-line virtual program: Mastodons of Orange County on Sunday, April 11th at 2 p.m..

A large, extinct, elephant-like mammal of the Miocene to Pleistocene epochs, more than eighty mastodon remains have been recovered in New York State. Several mastodons have been recovered in the Orange County area, the first in 1811 by American painter, soldier, scientist and naturalist Charles Willson Peale in Montgomery, Orange County.

Speaker Gary Keeton has participated in several exhumations of New York state mastodons in the local area. Join Gary to learn about the modern recovery of these creatures that roamed the area more than 10,000 years ago.

Attorney General James Urges Department of Education to Forgive Loans of Defrauded ITT Tech Students

NEW YORK - New York Attorney General James, as part of a bipartisan coalition of 24 state attorneys general, today urged the U.S. Department of Education to cancel federal student loan debt of defrauded ITT Technical Institute (ITT Tech) students. The now defunct for-profit school lured students with deceptive claims about the value of an ITT degree and empty promises of high-paying jobs after graduation. The coalition of attorneys general today submitted an application to the Department of Education for federal loan discharges for students who attended ITT Tech between 2007 and 2010, when these deceptive tactics were used to convince students to attend the school and borrow federal student aid. Federal law permits the Department of Education to forgive federal student loans when borrowers were deceived in obtaining loans. The attorneys general are demanding full relief for ITT students, including refunds of the money students already paid on those loans.

“ITT lied to and exploited students who were simply trying to further their education with false promises of high-paying jobs,” said Attorney General James. “But all this sham school provided was an education in how to defraud honest, hard-working students. Students should not be on the hook for debt that resulted from ITT's lies, which is why our coalition is calling for the Department of Education to wipe the slate clean for these students. They shouldn't have to pay off years of debt on something they never received.”

Between 2007 and 2010, ITT made misrepresentations to prospective students concerning ITT graduates' salary outcomes in an effort to lure them into enrolling and borrowing thousands of dollars in federal student aid. ITT, specifically, even provided prospective students with a chart showing a projected annual salary over an estimated work life, which overstated the projected annual earnings for ITT graduates by more than $100,000.

ITT eventually closed its doors in 2016.

Today's action to support former ITT students follows Attorney General James' multistate agreements with loan companies Student CU Connect CUSO in June 2019 and PEAKS in September 2020 - two companies that preyed on ITT students by deceiving them into taking out private student loans. These agreements resulted in $7.5 million in debt relief to nearly 900 New York ITT students.

Just last week, Attorney General James urged Secretary of Education Dr. Miguel Cardona to make additional reforms to ease the process of paying student loans, as well as to protect student loan borrowers from paying back debt to for-profit and now defunct colleges.

Attorney General James has also been actively working to protect student loan borrowers. In July 2020, Attorney General James and a multistate coalition sued the Trump Administration's Department of Education and former Education Secretary Betsy DeVos to block their efforts to repeal critical protections for student-borrowers who have been misled or defrauded by predatory for-profit schools.

Additionally, in June 2020, Attorney General James filed a multistate lawsuit to stop the Department of Education and former Secretary DeVos from repealing the “Gainful Employment” rule, which provides critical protections to students considering enrolling in for-profit colleges and vocational schools that promise students “gainful employment in a recognized occupation” after graduation.

Joining Attorney General James in submitting today's application to the Department of Education were the attorneys general of Connecticut, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin, and the District of Columbia.

Why wear a mask?

Out of respect.

When you wear a mask you are saying,
I respect my neighbors.

When you wear a mask you are saying,
I respect nurses and doctors.

When you wear a mask you are saying,
I respect other people.

We all need to show respect to one another in difficult times.

Wearing a face covering is a small inconvenience to protect others. We have gotten through this crisis by standing together and doing the right thing. The right thing - the respectful thing - is to wear a mask.

A Note From Neal...

We've been extremely successful immunizing our community-at-large solely due to the help from dozens and dozens of volunteers.

The "Volunteer Army" started with my closest friends and family having my back as I threw myself headfirst into this ocean of a problem. Those good deeds have, themselves, become viral. (Contd. Pg 25)

Kingston Emergency Food Collaborative (KEFC)

The KEFC is a grassroots coalition of area organizations and individuals working to ensure our community has access to food. We initially arose to address food insecurity in the community which was exacerbated by the pandemic shut-down in March. We continue to serve our community, delivering more than 85 prepared meals daily to folks living in motels and boarding houses plus groceries to 60+ households on a weekly basis. Currently, we are looking for volunteers who are willing and able to assist with a variety of tasks: food deliveries, handling the food request hotline, scheduling volunteers and other needs as they arise. Complete the Volunteer Interest Form here. For more info about KEFC, visit our website. If you or someone you know is in need of food, call and leave a message at the 24-hour hotline (888) 316-0879.

SAFETY NOTE: It's our goal to support containment and to prevent further infection. Please only volunteer if you are: 1) symptom free, and 2) have not been exposed to anyone expressing symptoms of COVID-19. Dwyer "Vet2Vet" of Ulster County Program seeks Volunteers

The Dwyer "Vet2Vet" of Ulster County Program that is under the Hudson Valley National Center for Veteran Reintegration (HVNCVR) is seeking volunteers. We provide peer support, advocacy, and other services to our military community. Our office is located within Tech City and through these difficult times we have our doors open. We are able to provide essential services which allows participants and community members to address their mental health.

If a volunteer is able to dedicate at least one hour at our office weekly, it would permit us to keep our doors open during these difficult times. The office is open 10am-4pm Monday- Friday by appointments. There is inconstant foot traffic, so some days the office may be empty and others days there might be a few individuals.

In addition, we are seeking volunteers to assist HVNCVR with our technology needs such as website maintenance and social media as well as administrative tasks outside of the office.

For additional information email or phone at 845-288-1951 and Gavin.Walters@HVCVR.org.

Catskill Center Statement on the Proposed Premium Energy Ashokan Pumped Storage Plan

Premium Energy Holdings, a company in California, recently submitted a proposal to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, to create a pumped storage hydroelectric plant utilizing the Ashokan Reservoir as its lower reservoir and proposed 3 upper basin alternatives, all with significant impacts to natural resources, public lands, and communities. This plan was submitted with no input from New York City's Department of Environmental Protection (NYCDEP), New York State's Department of Environmental Conservation, or from local leaders and stakeholders. While the Catskill Center supports clean energy initiatives, we are opposed to this project.

As the maps below indicate, the plan would call for the creation of additional dams, reservoirs, and tunnels in surrounding areas, which would threaten homes, local infrastructure, water quality, and natural habitats on public and private lands. Recreational use of the land, tourism, and local economies would be impacted, as well.

We are currently researching this proposal, will be engaged in the comment process with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), and will be making a motion to intervene.

While we are supportive of renewable energy generation opportunities, this project is ill-conceived and does not take into account a number of barriers to its implementation including the NYC water supply, NYS Forest Preserve Lands, and the presence of communities within areas where upper basins are proposed. Our comments will speak to those barriers, and the reasons why this project should not move forward.

Ulster County Legislature Deliver Letter to New York City Regarding Turbid Ashokan Discharges

Ulster Co Legislature Deliver Letter to New York City DEP Regarding Turbid Ashokan Discharges Kingston, NY – Legislator Brian Cahill, Chairman of the Ulster County Economic Development, Tourism, Housing, Planning and Transit Committee and 21 members of the Ulster County Legislature delivered a letter to Vincent Sapienza, Commissioner of New York City Department of Environmental Protection (NYCDEP) detailing ongoing adverse effects created by turbid water releases from the Ashokan Reservoir into the Esopus Creek.

Cahill stated "Turbid water discharges have been an issue for the Towns along the Lower Esopus for over a decade. It is imperative that we continue to advocate for Ulster County and hold the NYC DEP to their word that they will be a 'good neighbor and partner with upstate communities'."

The letter will also be submitted to the NYS Department of Environmental Conservation as public comment for the NYC DEP's current application to amend their Catalum SPDES Permit (Permit No. 026 4652).

The full letter is follows on Pages 26-a, 26-b, and 26-c

Commissioner Vincent Sapienza, P.E.
New York City Department of Environmental Protection
59-17 Junction Boulevard, 13th Floor
Flushing, NY 11373

Dear Commissioner Sapienza,

We, as the Chair and Vice Chair of the Ulster County Legislature's Standing Committee on Economic Development, Tourism, Housing, Planning and Transit, along with the below signed members of the Legislature, are reaching out to, once again, express our concerns with the adverse effects of the New York City Department of Environmental Protection's turbid water management in the Ashokan Reservoir on Ulster County.

Every day scientists and climate experts provide more and more data stressing exactly how fragile our environment is and how vital it is that we do everything we can to safeguard it. As Ulster County policy makers, we continue to learn exactly how fragile our economy is and how important it is that we do everything we can to strengthen it. It seems more and more common that these two imperatives meet and require a true partnership between governments, organizations, and stakeholders to preserve and protect both.

Counties like Ulster have inherently limited resources for economic development. Our ability is even further limited by the fact that New York City owns somewhere around 118,000 acres in Ulster County, and the state itself owns upwards of 250,000 acres more. One tried and true economic stimulator has been the Esopus Creek and the fishing and recreational opportunities it provides, as well as serving as an invaluable resource to area farmers. We cannot afford to jeopardize the valuable economic stimulation provided to the residents of Ulster County or harm the precious habitat offered to wildlife and cold water wild trout fisheries.

We recognize that the NYC DEP's current application to amend the Catalum SPEDES Permit seeks to, among other things, "incorporate turbidity control measures, including operation of the Ashokan Reservoir in accordance with the Interim Ashokan Release Protocol (IRP.)" With that said, we would be remiss if we did not continue our efforts to advocate on behalf of the residents of Ulster County, especially those who live and work along the Esopus Creek, and the countless others who find recreation in and along the waterway. Amendments to the IRP, as well as projects currently being discussed regarding hydroelectric power generation and the creation of additional reservoir(s) must be cautiously evaluated for effects on communities bordering the Esopus Creek, especially the Lower Esopus.

It goes without saying that since the DEP began regularly using the Ashokan Release Channel to mitigate turbidity in the Ashokan Reservoir, the effects on the Lower Esopus have been damaging and measurable. For more than a decade the NYC DEP has abdicated responsibility and denied a correlation between turbid water management in the Ashokan and the resulting turbidity and compromised water quality in the Lower Esopus. Effects which can be readily observed by an unaided and untrained eye. We are pleased that the DEP is beginning to recognize the severity of the situation.

As compared with naturally occurring erosion in nearly all other watershed reservoirs, the easily erodible lacustrine clay deposits prevalent in the Ashokan Reservoir, as reported in your 2018 Watershed Water Quality Annual Report, puts Ulster County in a unique and compromised position. Despite this additional challenge, the City's investment in stream bank restoration and flood resilience upstream of the Ashokan have resulted in decreased turbidity in the waters of the Upper Esopus resulting in easier management of the City's drinking water and fewer harmful impacts on the Lower Esopus.

A renewed commitment to funding for stream bank restoration and flood resilience projects in the Upper Esopus, coupled with additional data supported engineered solutions to the current IRP will go a long way to solving turbidity issues in both the Ashokan and the Lower Esopus. We call on the NYC DEP to continue to explore turbid water mitigation solutions in the Ashokan Reservoir with particular concern and regard for the adverse effects on Ulster County residents, visitors and economic viability.

We appreciate your time.

Sincerely,

Brian B. Cahill, Chair
Economic Development, Tourism, Housing Planning & Transit Committee

New Hope Community Welcomes Golfers and Sponsors to 11th Annual Wallace Berkowitz Outing on May 17th

Loch Sheldrake, NY (April 1, 2021): The 11th annual Wallace Berkowitz Golf Outing will be back in full swing on Monday, May 17th at West Hills Country Club, in Middletown, NY, to benefit the NHC Foundation at New Hope Community, a leading human services organization in Loch Sheldrake, NY, supporting and empowering the lives of men and women with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Registration is now open and foursomes are expected to fill up quickly.

The Outing will follow COVID-19 safety protocols, as it did during the 2020 event, without sacrificing the level of challenge or excitement. In addition to 18 holes of golf, guests will be treated to breakfast and lunch on the course, gifted with a Callaway putter and can enter a raffle for a chance to win a Callaway Mavrik golf club set valued at $2,350! Proceeds from the event support the New Hope Foundation.

“The Wallace Berkowitz Cup is the NHC Foundation's most significant fundraising event of the year and helps to fund innovative programs and essential services that empower men and women with disabilities to live more full, independent lives, including residential services, holistic health, innovative arts, sports and recreational activities, adaptive technology, supported employment and volunteer opportunities,” said Tom Burnham, Executive Director of the NHC Foundation. “We truly appreciate all the support of our sponsors and golfers each and every year.”

The event honors the late Wallace Berkowitz - an esteemed local accountant and former Trustee of New Hope Community who was a lifelong advocate for people with disabilities. The outing in his memory is one of New Hope Community's most popular and successful events of the year, bringing together generous community members and corporate sponsors.

“This has been a challenging and isolating year for all of us, and this is the perfect opportunity to get out and safely do something fun that will have a positive impact,” said Debra McGinness, Chief Executive Officer of New Hope Community. “We are looking forward to another successful day out on the course among friends which will allow us to continue to deliver high quality services uniquely tailored to the people we support.”

To find out how you can register to golf in the outing, participate in the raffle or provide support as a sponsor, visit our website <http://www.newhopecommunity.org/2021golf/> or call us at 845-434-8300.

KNARF'S CLASSIC MOVIES
MGM PRESENTS W.S.VAN DYKES
PRODUCTION OF “Eskimo”
PRODUCED BY HUNT STROMBERG

I viewed this film on Turner Classic Films /TCM. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer did humanity a great favor by producing this epic film that preserves the indigenous culture of the Eskimo's. Translated by John Lee Mahin, from the books, "Der Eskimo," and "Die Flucht ins Weisse Land, by Peter Freuchen, - published by Horace Liveright, Inc.

THE FILM “Eskimo,” WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE CHARACTERS OF THE ROYAL CANADIAN POLICE, INVOLVES NO ACTORS. THE ENTIRE STORY IS TOLD BY PRIMITIVE ESKIMOS IN NATIVE TONGUE, AND IN NATIVE CUSTOM, WITH TITLES AND NARRATION.

THIS EXPEDITION TO THE ARTIC BEGAN IN APRIL 1932, AND IN NOVEMBER OF 1933 A RECORD OF THIS ODYSSEY WAS PRESERVED AND COMPLETED, ENJOY...

The books by Peter Freuchen were notable for their “frank” discussion of the moral code of the Eskimos. This chronical attempts to express the code of a strange, to some of us, lifestyle that was the primeval lifestyle and creed belonging to the indigenous peace loving Eskimos. It exposes their tall on integrity and their high respect of all life and peoples from the farthest wilderness of the endless North. Strangely enough this moral code is still alive today and continues to be practiced by hundreds of millions of people around the world, with close to two-million practicing this moral code in north America alone. That does not include the data of the hundreds of millions of the millinal population of today – a good example is the film, “FLUIDITY,” THAT HAS A SIMILAR MORAL CODE.

Look for “Eskimo” on TCM, Netflix, Amazon prime, Imob, or your preferred viewing choice...enjoy...

you one of the truest films about

AL CAPONE

(Crime / Biography / 1959 / 1hr 44min)

This is a chronicle of the rise and fall of Chicago crime boss Al Capone during the Prohibition Era. In this unusually accurate biography, small-time hood Al Capone comes to Chicago at the dawn of Prohibition to be the bodyguard of racketeer Johnny Torrio. Capone's rise in Chicago gangdom is followed through murder, extortion, and political fraud.

Al Capone is a 1959 biographical crime drama film directed by Richard Wilson, written by Malvin Wald and Henry F. Greenberg, and released by Allied Artists. It stars Rod Steiger as Al Capone .

This 1959 picture is yet another cinematic retelling of the life of mobster Al Capone. Rod Steiger as Big Al is at his very best that I have ever seen. Steiger was born for this part. The superb performance of this fine actor of many varied fine performances is once again putting us in an entertaining state that is almost hypnotic by his superb convincing performance.

Time Out says "One of Corman's best films, far superior to Richard Wilson's Al Capone as a study of Capone's Chicago. The film revels in the mythology of the genre, both paying homage to it and reinterpreting. It was one of the few films up to that time, for example, to stress the purely Sicilian nature of the Mafia and its relations with non-Sicilians like Capone. The elaborate intrigue of the gang warfare is treated in a hard, almost documentary style, with newsreel-type commentary. It also remains unmarried by spurious moralizing: morality, in fact, is suspended in favour of mythology.
