A collection of photos of this year's crafters, artists and vendors

Cheryl Bertholf and daughter, Brianna Comando offered a unique variety of fabric arts including children's clothing, super hero children's jewelry, specialty items such as calico change purses, sewing kits and more all designed and handmade by Cheryl. Brianna had on display a collection of her quilted items that included mug rugs, pot holders and infant and toddler toys. She also had a nice collection of painted river rocks.

Below, Laura Entennmann shows off her collection of handmade one of a kind items. You will see some of her items at her new virtual shop Only Once, that will be opening soon. Watch The Townsman for an announcement. Joining Laura is Stacey Sanabria, a/k/a Aunt Stacey who also specializes in one-of-a-kind items, but her real talent lies in crocheted afghan quilts and baby blankets.

Mary Osterhoudt had phenomenal display of her crafts that included beautiful crocheted afghans, winter hat and scarf sets, toys, Christmas items and so much more. Mary is one of those people who can continue to crochet while she is looking at you, smiling and talking, too! Amazing!

On the left and on the right were two different tables with colorful collections of fall items. There were beautiful wall hangings, floral pieces, some Christmas, quilted items and hand-painted plates -one even had a gnome on it!

To the left, a delicious display of homemade jams and jellies. On the right, more of Mary Osterhoudt's crocheted items. Pictured below a very busy lady, Michelle Richardson who had several tables.

Above is a display of Micelle's Canvas Creations. To the left, Michelle's, Blowout Sale - candles and more... She also had a table with Tupperware and a display of Color Street Nails (below) and she also is an Avon Lady! Michelle did have a helping hand, her husband was there, too.

... onto the next room, All kinds of goodies!

Inside and out, there was so much to see and buy! Under the pavillion, Kate's Herbs, author Frederick Doot had his books for sale and coin dealer, Don Kath (wdonkath@gmail.com) had a handsome display of coins. I know we missed a few. There was so much more...!

If you missed this year's event, it will happen again next year, so plan ahead! Who knows, maybe you will have a table at the Claryville FD Annual Craft Fair 2023!
