Film Premiere: The Good Gift of Water Sunday, March 12th 2 p.m. Time and the Valleys Museum

[Grahamsville, N.Y.] - The Good Gift of Water, a 30 minute film created by the Time and the Valleys Museum, will have a premiere showing on Sunday, March 12th at 2 p.m. at the Time and the Valleys Museum on St. Rt. 55 in Grahamsville.

Created by talented filmmaker John Hazard, this visually beautiful and engaging film explores the importance of clean water, how much drinkable water there is on earth, and the many challenges that endanger clean water all over the globe. Mr. Hazard will present the film and answer questions after the screening. The film is narrated by Museum President Richard Coombe and written by Museum Educator Phyllis Coombe, both of Grahamsville.

Funded through the Catskill Watershed Corporation and NYC DEP, the Museum has many uses for this informative film on the importance of clean water. (Contd. Pg. 8)

NYC Increases Use of Downstate Reservoir Water for Two Weeks During Preparation for Work on Delaware Aqueduct

Increased Amount of Water from Croton Watershed from March 6th to 19th May Resulting in Temporary Taste Difference in NYC's Drinking Water

The New York City Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) today announced that from March 6th to 19th there will be a significant increase in the amount of water coming from the Croton Watershed, a group of 12 reservoirs in Westchester and Putnam Counties, to feed New York City's water supply as engineers prepare for planned work on the Delaware Aqueduct this fall. Due to the increase in Croton water, New York City residents may notice a slight taste difference in their tap water due to different characteristics between upstate reservoir systems.

The increased reliance on Croton water is part of DEP's largest-ever capital repair project, which calls for connecting a bypass tunnel around known leaks in the Delaware Aqueduct, the world's longest tunnel. As part of the project, engineers will temporarily shut down the aqueduct for two weeks in March, as a planned test, and then for several months starting in October to make the repairs.

Days of Yore....

Today's History

March 18, 1953

Elmer Houghtaling, 73, for many years a farmer at Willowemoc, died at Middletown last Monday after a long illness. He had made his home at Liberty after leaving the farm. Mr. Houghtaling is survived by his wife, the former Fannie Davis, one son and two daughters, several sisters and brothers, among them Oscar of Claryville.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Dean of Neversink on the arrival of a baby son at the Liberty Loomis Hospital last week.

March 20, 1963

Funeral services for Harry B. Cole of the Branch will be held on Thursday at 2.p.m. in the Claryville Dutch Reformed Church. He died Monday at Hamilton Avenue Hospital, Monticello. Born January 1, 1895 at Claryville, he was the son of DuBois and Augusta Crawford Cole. He married Pearl VanValkenburg on Nov. 28, 1912. Surviving besides his wife are four sons, Percy and Warren of Claryville, Robert of the state of Florida and Harold of Hasbrouck.

Miss Karen Mickelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mickelson, Sr. of South Hill Road, Grahamsville, became the bride of Mr. William Exner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Exner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Exner of Ulster Heights on Sunday. The ceremony took place at the Grahamsville Methodist Church. The couple will make their home in Ulster Heights.

March 14, 1973

History was made last Sunday in the Reformed Church in Grahamsville. For the first time, a woman, Miss Kathryn E. Moore, was ordained and installed as a member of the consistory, the governing body of that church. 1973 is the first year that women have been permitted to be elected to any consistory of the Reformed Church in America.

Revonah Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star traveled to Masonville on Thursday, March 1st, to honor and surprise Mrs. Beverly Youmansr. Members of the Grahamsville area attended.

Grahamsville Scout Troop 187, sponsored by the Grahamsville Fire Company, will hold an Eagle Scout Court of Honor on Friday, April 6 at the Tri-Valley School auditorium for Eagle Scout Greg Pond. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pond of Grahamsville. He will be presented, officially, with his Eagle Scout medal, the highest rank in scouting.

March 17, 1983

If you're worried about paying your fuel bill this winter, just feel for those poor folks in the White House. This year the 182 year old executive mansion, which is home to the first family, a museum and an office building, must get by on a measly budget of $3.8 million and a separate $600,000 budget for maintaining the 18 acre lawn. I really don't know how those poor people get by! (If it cost that much in 1983, I'd hate to even think about what it costs today.)

Household Hint:

Quick Test to Determine Soil acidity or Alkalinity

To test for excess alkalinity in the soil in your yard, place a handful of earth in a container and then pour in 1/2 cup white vinegar. If the soil fizzes or bubbles, it's definitely alkaline. Similarly, to see if your soil has a high acidity, mix the earth with 1/2 cup water and 1/2 cup baking soda. This time, fizzing would indicate acid in the soil. To find the exact pH level of your soil, have it tested or pick up a simple, do-it-yourself kit or meter.

The Magic of a Snowflake

With the snow last week, you may have caught a moment to escape back to simple winter childhood memories -sleigh riding, making one more snowman before spring or maybe just catching a beautiful snowflake on your tongue.

The birth of each snowflake is not simple. A snowflake begins when a tiny dust or pollen particle comes into contact with water vapor high in Earth's atmosphere. The water coats the tiny particle and freezes into a tiny crystal of ice - the "seed" from which a snowflake will grow.

There are two basic ways that water vapor condenses to become a snowflake. The first way is to form facets, like a flat face on a 3D shape such as a prism. The crystal structure of frozen ice is a six-sided shape which is where the symmetry in a snowflake comes from. The second way a snowflake grows is to form branches as water vapor condenses on the first thing it touches.

The newly-formed ice crystal is heavier than the surrounding air and begins falling. While falling toward Earth through humid air, more water vapor freezes onto the surface of the tiny crystal. The water molecules of the vapor arrange themselves so that the hexagonal crystal structure of ice is repeated. The snowflake grows larger and larger as it falls. No two snowflakes are the same as each represents the conditions of temperature and humidity and water vapor the snowflake encountered during its fall. Some combinations produce flakes with long needle-like arms, flakes with wide flat arms or branching arms all emanating from the six-sided crystal structure of frozen ice.

Scientists have pondered the mystery of snow crystals since the early 1600s. In 1611 Johannes Kepler published a short treatise On the Six-Cornered Snowflake, which was the first scientific reference to snow crystals. Kepler wondered why snow crystals always exhibited a six-fold symmetry. He speculated that the hexagonal close-packing of spheres may have something to do with the morphology of snow crystals. Kepler was astute in recognizing that the beginning of crystalline symmetry was an interesting scientific question, and he also realized that he did not have the means to answer it. "Does some property of water vapor, or impurities in it account for its six-cornered shape, or must an external cause be sought? And why is the snowflake flat? Why does it not assume a three dimensional shape?" he wondered.

"Each single plant has a single animating principle of its own, since each instance of a plant exists separately, and there is no cause to wonder that each should be equipped with its own peculiar shape. But to imagine an individual soul for each and any starlet of snow is utterly absurd, and therefore the shapes of snowflakes are by no means to be deduced from the operation of soul in the same way as with plants." -- Kepler, 1611

During the mid twentieth century Ukichiro Nakaya performed a true systematic study of snow crystals by growing artificial snow crystals in the laboratory under controlled conditions. From his study Nakaya was able to describe the crystal morphology under different environmental conditions, which provided a clue, however, it still stands there is no complete scientific understanding of the physics of 'snow crystal formation' - a snowflake.

Isn't it amazing with all of the technology of today, a tiny snowflake still keeps this secret hidden? Perhaps that is why it seems so quiet and peaceful after a new snowfall. Maybe each little snowflake is put here just to let us know, we don't have all the answers - but rather just to enjoy its beauty and the magic of our own emotional memory bringing back lighthearted recollections of our own childhood.

NYC Increases Use of Downstate Reservoir Water for Two Weeks During Preparation for Work on Delaware Aqueduct

“Nearly 10 million New Yorkers count on us to provide them with high-quality water every single day of the year, without fail, and this complex repair of the Delaware Aqueduct will ensure that we can continue to meet that essential mission for generations to come,” said DEP Commissioner Rohit T. Aggarwala. “The testing being done in March will ensure that all of our equipment and procedures are in place and ready for major work to begin this fall.”

Nora, the TBM
by NYC Water

About the Delaware Aqueduct repair project

The 85-mile-long Delaware Aqueduct delivers about half of New York City's water supply - about 600 million gallons a day - using only gravity, from four Catskill Mountain region reservoirs. The water is held in the Rondout Reservoir in Ulster County, then goes to Hillview Reservoir in Yonkers.

The aqueduct was put into service in 1944 when New York City Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia opened a set of emergency gates to channel the Rondout Creek directly into the new aqueduct.

In 2010, New York City announced a $1 billion plan to repair the aqueduct by connecting a 2.5-mile-long bypass tunnel around known leaks discovered in the 1990s - one in Newburgh, the other in the Ulster County town of Wawarsing. The new bypass, being connected 600 feet beneath the Hudson River, is the first tunnel built under the Hudson River since 1957, when the south tube of the Lincoln Tunnel was completed.

Since 1992, DEP has continuously tested and monitored the leaks, which can release upwards of 35 million gallons per day. Nearly all of the water escaping the leaks happens near the Hudson River in Newburgh.

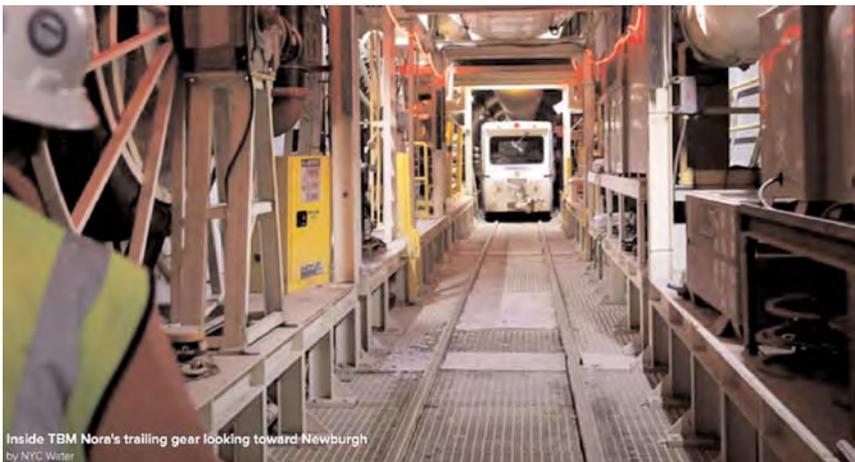

DEP has been working closely with Hudson Valley municipalities that rely on the Delaware Aqueduct for their water supplies to activate backup plans during the temporary shutdown as well as working with the U.S. Geological Survey to continually monitor groundwater levels in communities where the Delaware Aqueduct leaks are located.

The major repairs are being done in October because demand for water is at its lowest all year. Even during the testing and shutdown, DEP will continue releasing water into Delaware River tributaries pursuant to the Flexible Flow Management Program, a water allocation agreement between the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware and the City of New York.

About DEP and NYC's Water Supply

DEP manages New York City's water supply, providing approximately 1 billion gallons of high-quality drinking water each day to nearly 10 million residents, including 8.8 million in New York City. The water is delivered from a watershed that extends more than 125 miles from the city, comprising 19 reservoirs and three controlled lakes. Approximately 7,000 miles of water mains, tunnels and aqueducts bring water to homes and businesses throughout the five boroughs, and 7,500 miles of sewer lines and 96 pump stations take wastewater to 14 in-city treatment plants. DEP also protects the health and safety of New Yorkers by enforcing the Air and Noise Codes and asbestos rules. DEP has a robust capital program, with a planned $29 billion in investments over the next

Nothing Short of Dying

Mysterious Book Report No. 310

by John Dwaine McKenna

We're excited here at the MBR, to bring you part I of an event that only comes along once in a blue moon and is scarcer than two-buck Chuck at a gang-banger's ball. It's our awesome two-fer . . . just like the five-to-seven happy hour at the He Ain't Here Lounge . . . we're giving ya two for the price of one and doing the same author two weeks in a row!

The first, Nothing Short of Dying (Simon and Schuster, PB $9.99, 392 pages, ISBN 978-1-5011-6073-8), by Erik Storey is one of the most exciting debut novels that the MBR has ever reviewed. It introduces a character named Clyde Barr who's part mountain man, part mercenary and part American hero. After serving a short prison sentence in Mexico and being away from his beloved western home for sixteen years, world traveler and freedom fighter Clyde Barr makes it back to the USA, where he is decompressing, by himself, in the western Colorado wilderness, out near the Utah border. He's enjoying a venison dinner by the campfire when he gets a panicked cell phone call from his sister Jen. Frantically, she begs him for help. The last thing she says is, They're going to kill me . . . and then the phone goes dead. So begins the first chapter of a desperate search for the sometimes drug addicted sister he hasn't seen in more than a decade. Having no other alternative, Clyde begins by looking in the western Colorado village that he grew up in, and swore he'd never go back to. That's where he meets Allie. She's the woman who'll change his life, and make a stand with him, fighting a host of drug lords and their henchmen. Clyde doesn't know where his sister's being held, by whom, or how he's going to rescue her. He only knows that nothing short of dying will prevent him from saving her. The non-stop action begins on page one and carries through to the stunning end of this electrifying novel. Clyde Barr is a character all crime-fiction enthusiasts are going to want to be in touch with. The MBR, like Lee Child's Jack Reacher, "Is gonna keep an eye on this guy." Author Erik Storey is a natural-born storyteller and world-class talent who'll keep us all engrossed, entertained and enthused for a long, long time! Oh yeah. He's just that good . . .

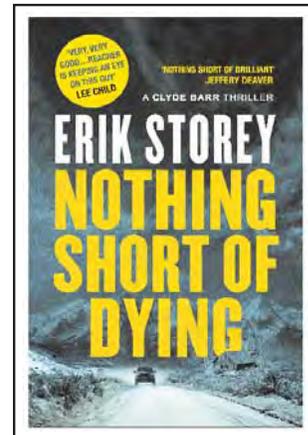

Like the review? Let your friends know, you saw it in the Mysterious Book Report, because the greatest compliment you can give is to share our work with others.

And Hey! Check out our combined website that's simple to use and easy as pie to leave your comments! We're looking forward to hearing from all of you.

Jabberwocky

The Covid 19 Pandemic inspired a whole new vocabulary of words and phrases that seem to be repeated and repeated. Here are the ones that come to my mind:
 food insecurity (euphemism for hungry) woke (a derogatory term or a badge of courage...depends!)

fully boosted (meaning your arm is a pin cushion with shingles shot, flu shot, and four vaccines or boosters)

RSV (Respiratory Syncytial Virus (a snotty nose and cough that hasn't made it down to your chest--thank goodness)

Paxlovid ( Five pills that shorten the life of Covid 19 but causes you to lose all taste except that of metal) herd immunity (when most of the people develop antibodies to a virus that, unfortunately, keeps mutating)

N-95 or KN-95 ( masks that were considered better than the cloth ones we were wearing)) food and drug availability (baby formula, medicine, toilet paper, wipes, and elastic)

Interesting how the English language adapts to new situations. It does, however, remind me of a poem I had many students memorize and interpret. Beware the Jabberwocky, my friends.

Jabberwocky

BY LEWIS CARROLL

'Twas brillig, and the slithy toves
 Did gyre and gimble in the wabe:
 All mimsy were the borogoves,
 And the mome raths outgrabe.

“Beware the Jabberwock, my son!
 The jaws that bite, the claws that catch!
 Beware the Jubjub bird, and shun
 The frumious Bandersnatch!”

He took his vorpal sword in hand;
 Long time the manxome foe he sought-
 So rested he by the Tumtum tree
 And stood awhile in thought.

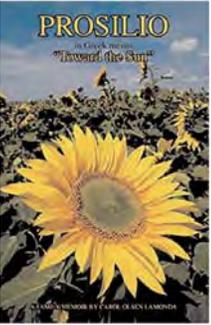

And, as in uffish thought he stood,
 The Jabberwock, with eyes of flame,
 Came whiffling through the tulgey wood,
 And burbled as it came!

One, two! One, two! And through and through
 The vorpal blade went snicker-snack!
 He left it dead, and with its head
 He went galumphing back.

“And hast thou slain the Jabberwock?
 Come to my arms, my beamish boy!
 O frabjous day! Callooh! Callay!”
 He chortled in his joy.

'Twas brillig, and the slithy toves
 Did gyre and gimble in the wabe:
 All mimsy were the borogoves,
 And the mome raths outgrabe.

The Scene Too

By Jane Harrison

I hope all that mess of the last two weeks is over for a while. Snow? Ok. Ice? Ok. But a combination of in layers? Not a fan at all!! Especially after the sun goes down.

I did get to do one fun thing, though. Dinner with BILL GRIESBECK, LIL SCOLES, JOHNNY JULES and JOE POST. This was to be a continuation of BOBBY D's birthday weekend but he was a bit under the weather and couldn't be there with us. So even though this gathering didn't become a living room concert after dinner as usual, the talking and laughter was priceless. Plus, that LIL SCOLES is as good a cook as she is a fiddle player!

One of the things I learned from the conversations was that Bill's late son John made guitars from scratch. The one he brought out was termed 'Masterpiece' and it certainly made me catch my breath. Visually it is a stunning piece of art. Next time, when the amps (amplifiers) are set up, I hope to hear it played.

And a shout out to new friend JOE POST (and not just because you told me you read my column hahaha).

ALBI BELULI was voted the BEST SOLO MUSICIAN in Sullivan County as reported in the RIVER REPORTER. Congratulations, my friend!!

And my dearest friend, Assistant District Attorney for Ulster County, FELICIA RAPHAEL has received an award for her prosecutorial work of animal abuse from THE ANIMAL LEGAL DEFENSE FUND during their recent NATIONAL JUSTICE FOR ANIMALS WEEK 2023. Abuse and cruelty is particularly heinous when it is perpetrated against those who have no voice (this includes women, children, the impaired or disabled as well). Congratulations!!!

Here's what I have so far to give you of who's playing where, as venues get their schedules together.

This weekend, FAR BEYOND GONE will be at the ROSCOE BREWERY, 145 Rockland Road, Roscoe on Saturday, February 11 at 2pm

Also on that Saturday, A TRIO OF DUOS at the SULLIVAN COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY AND MUSEUM, 265 Main Street, Hurleyville; 2pm. Join LITTLE SPARROW, ANNE AND MIKE BAGLIONE and STEVE and CLANCY LANE for an afternoon of Americana, Bluegrass and folk music

March 25: POISON LOVE, CON QUESO and many more at the CREATIVE COMPOUND, 630 Main Street, Honesdale, PA; 6pm

April 3: SULLIVAN COUNTY COMMUNITY CHORUS at CARNEGIE HALL, NYC; time to be announced

April 15th: JAKETOWN ROAD will be at the 17 WEST BREWERY, 125 Sullivan Street, Liberty, time to be announced.

Stay well, stay safe and keep a mask and hand sanitizer handy!

Until next time.....

He was shooting when the body of Egypt's only femal pharaoh, Hatshepsut, was discovered. He's been to the base of Manhattan bedrock for a massive water tunnel project that features the workers known as sandhogs, and to the heights above New York with Philippe Petit, known for having walked high wire between the World Trade Towers. He shot "Secrets of Florence," which explores the physical and artistic wonders of that city during the Italia Renaissance, including secret passages of the Medici that are featured in Dan Brown's novel "Inferno."

For the New York Times, he shot pieces on Mayan pyramids in Belize, beached whales in the Bahamas, and disappearing glaciers on Kilimanjaro.

For PBS, he has worked on definitive biographies about Richard Nixon, the Kennedys, and George Wallace. He shot major portions of "I'll Make Me a World," a history of African-American artists in the twentieth century, and "Rock and Roll." He was a DP on "History Detectives" for nine seasons.

For HBO, he shot "Triangle," the documentary that commemorates the 100th anniversary of the deadly fire at the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory that won Peabody Award. He worked with Lisa Jackson on "Sex Crimes Unit," as well as her earlier efforts for Hallmark Channel called "Heroes," involving true stories o real people who found themselves suddenly in the position to save someone's life. He shot "Fight to Live," Barbara Kopple's documentary about terminal patients seeking access to experimental drugs.

He was Director of Photography on "A Stitch for Time" and "Adam Clayton Powell." Both films were nominated for Academy Awards.

John shot "Dream On," Roger Weisberg's documentary for PBS that traces Alexis de Tocqueville's route through the USA in 1831, and examines the status of the American Dream.

SCCO presents Ladies Weekend: Everlasting Impressions

(Hurleyville NY, Narrowsburg, NY) The Sullivan County Chamber Orchestra (SCCO) is celebrating Women's History Month through two performances of four monumental composers. These women have left a lasting impact on their colleagues, community and the world around them. The performances of, "Ladies Weekend: Everlasting Impressions" highlight works by Clara Schumann, Amy Beach, Reena Esmail and Lili Boulanger.

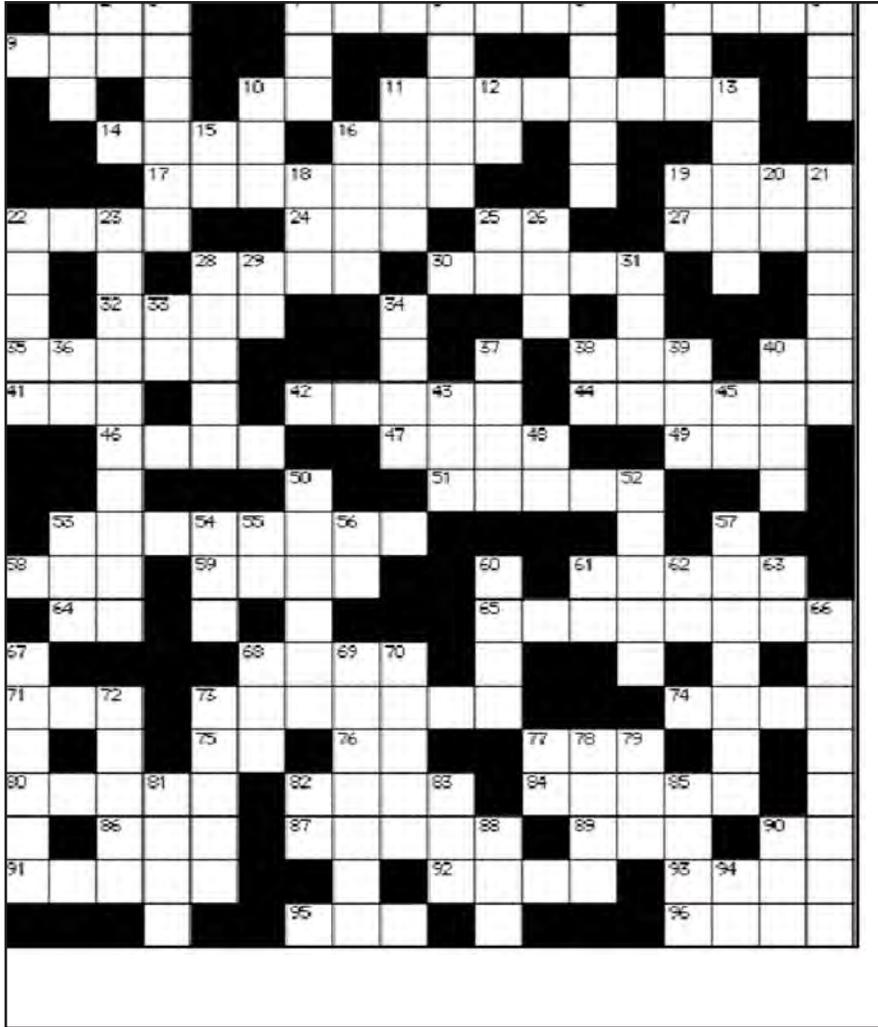

Clara Schumann had an extensive performing career but her brilliance as a composer was often overlooked. Amy Beach amassed a brilliant catalogue of compositions and is one of the first successful American female composers without the benefit of European training. Meanwhile, a short time later and across the pond, Lili Boulanger was the first female winner of the coveted Prix de Rome. Reena Esmail, through promoting cross-cultural music collaboration between the music tradition of India and the West in her compositions, will leave remarkable contributions to music history. To celebrate women's enduring and underrepresented contributions to music, women who attend the performance will receive a small gift of appreciation.

The SCCO performers include: Akiko Hosoi - Violin, Kirsten Jermé - Cello and Matthew Graybil - Piano. The performance on Saturday, March 25th is at the Hurleyville Performing Arts Centre in Hurleyville, NY at 6:00 PM. For ticket pricing & purchasing, <https://hurleyvilleartscentre.org/scco-22-23/>. The performance on Sunday, March 26th is at the Krause Recital Hall, Delaware Valley Arts Alliance in Narrowsburg, NY at 2:00 PM. For tickets visit <https://dvaa.givecloud.co/buy-tickets>.

SCCO is a Nesin Cultural Arts supported project. This program is made possible in part by funding from the New York State Council on the Arts with the support of Governor Kathleen Courtney Hochul and the NY State Legislature, Episcopal Charities, Cornelia T. Bailey Foundation, Laura Jane Musser Fund, Sullivan County Legislature, M&T Charitable Foundation, Delaware Valley Arts Alliance, NY Life Foundation, Walmart Community Foundation and Stewart's Shoppes.

Make Your Own Quick Biscuit Mix

- 2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 2 tbs butter

Sift flour into a bowl; add baking powder and salt and whisk until fully incorporated. Cut butter into flour mixture using a pastry cutter until evenly combined.

Shortening or oil can be used in place of the butter, if desired. If using melted butter, be sure to evenly disperse the butter as much as possible.

Homemade Biscuit Mix comes together in a food processor in less than 5 minutes and requires 4 ingredients that I'm betting you already have in your pantry. And it keeps within the refrigerator for up to 3 months

Notaries Must Log Every Time They Sign, According to New State Regulations

Monticello, NY - A new State law requires notaries to now keep track of every instance in which they provide their services.

Section 182.9 of the Notary Public License Law states that notaries public must make a record at the time of the performance of the notarial act, to include:

- The date, approximate time, and type of notarial acts performed
- The name and address of any individuals for whom a notarial act was performed

- The number and type of notarial services provided
  - The type of credential used to identify the principal, including the names of the witnesses and, if applicable, the type of credential used
  - The verification procedures used for any personal appearance before the notary public
  - For electronic notarial acts, identification of the communication technology and, if not included as part of the communication technology used by the electronic notary, the certification authority and verification providers used
- “These records must be kept by the notary for at least 10 years, to be produced upon demand of the NYS Secretary of State or other authority,” notes Sullivan County Clerk Russell Reeves, whose office handles notary license renewals.

Loch Sheldrake Couple Falls Through Ice and Perish

On February 27, 2023 at approximately 8:15 PM, the Sullivan County Sheriff's Office received a call from an individual in New York City who was concerned that she was unable to reach her parents. The Sheriff's Office asked the Town of Fallsburg Police to check the parents' residence at Foxcroft Village in Loch Sheldrake. When the Fallsburg Police advised that no one was home, an extensive search of the local area ensued. The daughter advised that her parents may have gone ice fishing at around 1:00 PM. Police checked numerous lakes and ponds in the local area during the evening's intense snow storm.

The Loch Sheldrake Fire Department was called to the scene but thin ice prevented rescuers from venturing out onto the pond. At day break the Sullivan County Fire Coordinator's Office responded with equipment to facilitate the search. Sheriff's deputies used a drone to inspect the pond and spotted an area of open water near the tip-ups. New York State Police divers responded and recovered two bodies that were submerged in about 10 feet of water approximately 100 feet from the shore.

The two victims have been identified as Viktor Nikitin, age 63 and Svetlana Nikitin, age 70, both of Loch Sheldrake. They were pronounced dead at the scene by Sullivan County Coroner Elton Harris. The official cause of death is pending an autopsy.

Divers cut a path through the ice to reach the victims.

On February 28, 2023 at about 2:40 AM, a deputy located the couple's 2021 Nissan Murano near a pond on Hutrat Road off RT-52 between Loch Sheldrake and Woodbourne. Deputies could see ice fishing tip-ups out on the pond but there was no sign of the missing couple.

Sheriff Mike Schiff said, "the cooperative effort of all agencies brought this tragic event to a timely conclusion despite the extreme weather conditions". The Sheriff reminds residents that, "we have had a stretch of warm weather and the ice on our lakes and ponds is not that thick. Use extreme caution and always let someone know where you are going".

Count-down to Tri-Valley Lions Journey For Sight Walk & TAG DAY - May 6, 2023

2015 Tri-Valley Lions Journey For Sight Walk

The Tri-Valley Lions Journey For Sight Walk will be held on Saturday, May 6, 2023. Registration will be at 8:30am at the Grahamsville First Aid Squad Building, with The Journey For Sight Walk starting at 9am around the Fairgrounds. The Walk is variable length, so whether you walk one loop around the fairgrounds or multiple, you are a Winner. We ask that all volunteers, Walkers, and Tri-Valley Lions members meet in front of the First Aid Squad Building for a Group Photo at 8:50am. This is our first walk since Covid hit, but we hope to have a good turnout this year. Coffee, water, juice boxes for the kids, snacks and pastries will be available to all Walkers and Volunteers starting at 8am at the First Aid Squad Building.

As you will see by the photos of the 2015, 2016, and 2017 Journey For Sight Walks, (watch next week's Townsman for the 2016 Journey For Sight participants) all our friends and neighbors are encouraged to join the Tri-Valley Lions for the May 6th Walk. We encourage all Walkers to collect pledges and bring the pledges and completed pledge sheets to the First Aid Squad Building at 8:30am on May 6, 2023. I've attached Pledge Sheets, and a Journey For Sight Poster in this week's Townsman. Pledge sheets will also be available on the morning of the Walk. Your pledges for the Walk and donations to our Tag Day enables the Tri-Valley Lions to continue our support donations to 5 local food pantries, the Heart-A-Thon, Leukemia and Lymphoma contributions to The Rhulen Walk and Trevor Loughlin Fund, perform eye screenings for local youth at our neighborhood Schools, Juvenile Diabetes, The Guiding Eyes for the Blind and so many more worthy organizations.

I will be contacting many of the past walkers to see if they will join us once again this year and to help make our 2023 Journey For Sight Walk a success. Bring the kids. Bring the family. You can reach me at 845-866-1579 or ejacob4848@gmail.com if you have any questions, would like to walk with us, or volunteer at this event. Thank you in advance and stay well and safe.

NEW TIME for Weekly Wednesday Caregiver Support Group

Liberty, NY - The Caregiver Resource Center's support group that assists family caregivers cope with their multiple responsibilities announces a new virtual meeting time of 6 pm beginning March 1 and continuing every Wednesday.

Facilitated by Bonnie Lewis, long-time Cornell Cooperative Extension educator, the meetings invite family caregivers to pose questions, ask for advice, share their success stories and brainstorm while comfortably at home with the person they care for. Caregivers who attend can find or be reminded of existing aging and health services, new programs and upcoming events and share with other caregivers new strategies to cope. "Caregivers run errands, prepare meals, drive loved ones to appointments, manage medications, provide hands-on care and so much more in this demanding role," said Lewis. "The support group is there for the caregiver, and it is an opportunity to take a break and recognize that they too need relief and a space to seek others on the same journey."

Caregivers are encouraged to register in advance for this meeting at Cornell Cooperative Extension's website: <http://sullivan-coe.org/events>. After registering, participants will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the meeting.

The Caregiver Resource Center is a co-partnered program of Cornell Cooperative Extension and Office for the Aging of Sullivan County.

All support groups are free and confidential. For questions, please call Cornell Cooperative Extension Sullivan County at (845) 292-6180.

The public can contact the office to request accommodations.

Ulster County Executive Jen Metzger has released the following statement:

"As of 2:30 pm today, Finance Commissioner Burton Gulnick has resigned from office. I have appointed Ken Juras, Director of Budget and Innovation, as Interim Commissioner of Finance.

I have directed our staff to work with the County Legislature to contract with an outside auditing firm to conduct a rigorous review of the county finances as well as our internal controls. This investigation will be thorough, independent, and transparent, and I will do everything in my power to ensure that taxpayer dollars are protected."

UC Executive Jen Metzger Responds to Letter From Municipalities On HazMat Trains

KINGSTON, NY - Ulster County Executive Jen Metzger responded today to a letter sent by Ulster County Town Supervisors and Mayors reacting to the train derailment in East Palestine, Ohio and the ensuing environmental disaster caused by the leak and combustion of hazardous materials transported by the train. The response from the County Executive outlined the roles and responsibilities of the various layers of government and invited the Mayors and Supervisors to attend an educational roundtable discussion in the near future to help them understand the readiness plans created and maintained by local fire departments and municipal agencies.

In the letter, Ulster County Executive Jen Metzger wrote, "The health and safety of Ulster County residents is my first priority, and I understand your concerns and the concerns of the public to make sure that we are well-prepared to respond to a human-made disaster of this kind. I will do everything possible within the purview of my office and the County to protect our communities. This includes demanding regulatory action at the federal level to improve rail safety and prevent such a catastrophe from happening in the first place. At the local level, the County has plans in place to respond to these types of emergencies and stands ready to implement them."

The full text of the letter is below:

February 27, 2023

Dear Supervisors and Mayors,

I write in response to your letter dated February 21, 2023, regarding the Ulster County Multi-Jurisdictional Hazard Mitigation Plan, and your request that this plan be updated and communicated to the public in response to the recent train derailment in East Palestine, Ohio.

The health and safety of Ulster County residents is my first priority, and I understand your concerns and the concerns of the public to make sure that we are well-prepared to respond to a human-made disaster of this kind. I will do everything possible within the purview of my office and the County to protect our communities. This includes demanding regulatory action at the federal level to improve rail safety and prevent such a catastrophe from happening in the first place. At the local level, the County has plans in place to respond to these types of emergencies and stands ready to implement them.

As a clarification, the multi-jurisdictional plan referenced in your letter and the associated request for hazardous materials locations is a plan created for natural disasters and not for derailment or transportation incidents. The inventorying of hazardous materials within each municipality is to ensure that we have a clear picture of how those areas would be impacted during a natural disaster. For example, in an area prone to flooding during hurricane events, it is vital that we know what materials are in that zone and have the potential for additional impacts, environmental or otherwise, so that protective measures can be taken in advance of a natural disaster. With regard to rail shipments of hazardous materials, we are requesting that federal authorities notify the County government when such materials are scheduled to be transported through our communities.

The Ulster County Department of Emergency Services has a well-established hazardous material response plan in place in conjunction with local first responders. The response procedure involves determining objectives and response strategies, ensuring joint planning and application of tactical activities, and undertaking integrated planning and application of operational requirements, including emergency protective measures, containment, safety and security, and public information. Emergency service personnel at all levels are called upon to assist in the response operation, including industry representatives, private contractors, volunteer organizations, and State and Federal partners, such as the NYS Department of Environmental Conservation and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Further, in response to Executive Order 125 issued by the State in 2014 regarding crude oil movement across New York State, Ulster County created Geographic Response Plans (GRPs). GRPs are map-based, location-specific incident plans that provide guidance to first responders to maintain situational awareness during the initial stages of incidents involving the transportation of crude oil and other hazardous substances. These are reviewed on a yearly basis with local first responders, with the most recent review at the beginning of this month.

I would also like to highlight the work of the County Hazmat Response Team, in which Ulster County coordinates with the City of Kingston Fire Department to provide hazardous materials response throughout Ulster County. The team is composed of highly trained hazardous materials technicians and advanced hazardous materials technicians and is at the ready 24/7 to respond to incidents throughout the County as part of a shared services agreement between the County and the City of Kingston.

Finally, it is important to note that while the Ohio derailment disaster has elevated public awareness of the dangers of train derailments involving hazardous materials, Ulster County has been preparing for such incidents for some time. The Ulster County Department of Emergency Services hosted an AWR 147 Rail Car Incident Response Training the first week of February 2023, and I am pleased to report two 8-hour trainings were held, one each in the Town of Ulster and the Town of Marlborough, and were well-attended by over 60 first responders from municipalities across the county. This awareness-level course is designed to increase the knowledge of first responders in recognizing and characterizing the different types of rail cars, potential leaks, and courses of action to be taken based on initial site assessment. I appreciate your desire to have a greater understanding of the plans that have been created by and with your first responders and fire chiefs. To that end, I invite you to join us for an educational round table forum with representatives of your respective Fire Departments in jurisdictions with rail corridors in the municipality. We will be reaching out with details about this forum soon.

The Ohio train derailment points to the need for federal regulators to double down on regulatory efforts to prevent these types of accidents from happening in the first place by holding companies to stronger standards when it comes to train equipment and maintenance, as well as track repair in Ulster County and elsewhere, among other preventive actions. We are preparing a letter to the National Transportation Security Board, Federal Railway Administration, Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration, and our Congressional representatives urging that tougher regulatory standards be put in place to prevent disasters like this from occurring in the future, and we will invite you to sign on to this letter.

I look forward to our continued work together to protect the health and safety of our Ulster County residents. We will be reaching out to you soon about the time and location of the educational roundtable. In the meantime, if you have any questions, please do not hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,
Jen Metzger

DEC Issues Guidance to Avoid Coyote Conflicts Sightings Anticipated to Become More Prevalent as Spring Approaches

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) today issued guidance to help prevent conflicts between people and coyotes. Coyote sightings are likely to increase in the coming months and DEC encourages New Yorkers to be aware of the potential for conflicts and follow DEC guidelines to prevent negative encounters.

Coyotes inhabit a variety of habitats throughout the state, from rural farmland and forests to populated suburban and urban areas. For the most part, coyotes will avoid human contact. However, conflicts with people and pets may occur, particularly during the spring denning and pupping period when coyotes tend to be more territorial and protective of pups. Furthermore, if coyotes learn to associate food, such as garbage or pet food, with people, these animals may lose their natural fear of humans, increasing the potential for close encounters or conflicts.

To reduce or prevent conflicts with coyotes, New Yorkers are encouraged to take the following steps:
Never feed coyotes.

Do not leave food outside. Pet food and garbage attract coyotes and other wildlife and increase risks to people and pets. DEC encourages people to:

- Feed pets indoors.
- Prevent access to garbage.
- Fence or enclose compost piles.
- Eliminate availability of bird seed. Concentrations of birds and rodents that come to feeders can attract coyotes.

Do not allow coyotes to approach people or pets. If you see a coyote, be aggressive in behavior, stand tall and hold arms up or out to look as large as possible. If a coyote lingers for too long, make loud noises, wave arms and throw sticks and stones. Teach children to appreciate coyotes from a distance.

Do not allow pets to run free. Supervise outdoor pets to keep them safe from coyotes and other wildlife, especially at sunset and at night. Small dogs and cats are especially vulnerable.

Fence yards to deter coyotes. The fence should be tight to the ground, preferably extending six inches below ground level and taller than four feet.

Remove brush and tall grass from around homes to reduce protective cover for coyotes as they are typically secretive and like areas where they can hide.

Ask neighbors to follow these steps to prevent coyote conflicts.

In spring, coyotes tend to be more active and may be more visible. Just seeing a coyote occasionally is generally not a cause for concern. However, if they exhibit bold behaviors and have little or no fear of people, or if they are seen repeatedly during the daytime near residences, contact your Regional DEC Wildlife Office for assistance. In emergency situations, contact your local police department.

DEC Forest Rangers - Week in Review Recent Statewide Forest Ranger Actions

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) Forest Rangers respond to search and rescue incidents statewide. Working with other state agencies, local emergency response organizations, and volunteer search and rescue groups, Forest Rangers locate and extract lost, injured, or distressed people from across New York State.

In 2022, DEC Forest Rangers conducted 359 search and rescue missions, extinguished 162 wildfires covering more than 1,300 acres, participated in 53 prescribed fires that served to rejuvenate nearly 900 acres of land, and worked on cases that resulted in hundreds of tickets and arrests.

"With more people visiting State lands and enjoying New York's myriad, world-class outdoor recreational opportunities, DEC's Forest Rangers are on the front lines to help visitors get outside responsibly and get home safely," said DEC Commissioner Basil Seggos. "Each day, these highly trained first responders are protecting irreplaceable natural resources and utilizing their expert knowledge of wildland fire suppression, wilderness first aid, land navigation, law enforcement, and technical rescue techniques to successfully execute critical missions, for DEC and our countless local, state, and national partners."

Because of the warm and dry winter season, DEC is urging New Yorkers to take extra caution when burning. While the statewide burn ban doesn't take effect until March 16, the majority of the state's land is dry and brown. Without any new or additional snowfall, the dry, dormant vegetation is primed to burn and facilitate the spread of a wildfire. For more information about fire safety and prevention, go to DEC's FIREWISE New York webpage.

Town of Olive Ulster County

Wilderness Rescue: On Feb. 20 at 6:30 p.m., Forest Rangers Horn and Martin responded to a call for a lost hiker in Sundown Wild Forest. The 75-year-old from West Shokan lost the trail and her cell phone battery died, leaving her with no other source of light. Rangers reached the subject 15 minutes later and helped her back to her vehicle at the trailhead. Winter hikers are encouraged to come prepared for the outdoors. To learn more visit DEC's Winter Hiking Safety webpage.

Woodstock Ulster County

Wilderness Rescue: On Feb. 23 at 1:30 p.m., Forest Rangers Franceschina, Horn, Martin, and Sweeney responded to a call for a camper in need of assistance in the Overlook Mountain Wild Forest near Echo Lake. The 18-year-old from Brooklyn ran out of food and water and was struggling walking to the trailhead. Rangers reached the subject at 2:35 p.m., provided food and water, and helped him back to the trailhead. Resources were clear at 4 p.m.

Be sure to properly prepare and plan before entering the backcountry. Visit DEC's Hike Smart NY, Adirondack Backcountry Information, and Catskill Backcountry Information webpages for more information.

If a person needs a Forest Ranger, whether it's for a search and rescue, to report a wildfire, or to report illegal activity on state lands and easements, they should call 833-NYS-RANGERS. If a person needs urgent assistance, they can call 911. To contact a Forest Ranger for information about a specific location, the DEC website has phone numbers for every Ranger listed by region.

NYS ECOs on Patrol

Sullivan County -On Feb. 14, ECOs Wood and Doroski responded to a complaint in Cochection where a resident reported people discharging firearms within 500 feet of her residence without her consent. With the homeowner's approval, Officer Wood searched the property and deployed K9 CJ to detect burned gun powder. The trained dog located a spent 12-gauge shell casing within 500 feet of the caller's residence. The Officers later identified the suspects and took enforcement action. K9 CJ was then rewarded for another successful day on the job.

What a Discovery - Suffolk County On Feb. 14, ECOs Kaufherr and Zullo received a report of a large snake, approximately 12 feet in length, on the side of the road in the town of Medford. The Officers arrived and observed the reptile curled up in a ball. A closer look revealed it to be deceased. The ECOs removed the snake from the roadway to appropriately dispose of it. The reticulated python measured 14 feet in length. It is illegal to keep these types of snakes as pets in New York and they may only be possessed by holders of a Dangerous Animal License. An investigation into the owner of the snake is ongoing.

DEC Announces 2022 Hunting Season Ties Record for Safest-Ever Year

Data Shows Lowest Hunting- Related Shooting Incidents Since Establishment of DEC's Hunter Education Program

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) Commissioner Basil Seggos today announced the 2022 hunting seasons tied 2021 for the safest-ever year, with the lowest number of hunting-related shooting incidents since record-keeping began. DEC Environmental Conservation Police Officers (ECOs) investigated nine hunting-related shooting incidents (HRSIs) in 2022, including one fatality.

"It's clear from these findings that the vast majority of New York hunters follow the State's stringent safety guidelines and do their part to ensure a safe and enjoyable season," Commissioner Seggos said. "This record year for safety is a testament to the DEC expert staff, volunteers, and local hunting clubs that work collaboratively to teach safety to hunters of all ages. I commend their efforts and for all hunters who safely and responsibly contributed to our conservation efforts this season."

Four of the nine HRSIs that occurred in 2022 involved two-party firearm incidents, while the other five were self-inflicted. The one recorded fatality occurred due to a self-inflicted gunshot wound by a turkey hunter. All identified shooters were experienced hunters with an average of 30 years of hunting experience, emphasizing the need for all hunters to remain vigilant when heading afield. Each incident could have been prevented if those involved followed the proper hunting safety rules.

All first-time hunters, bowhunters, and trappers must successfully complete a hunter, bowhunter, or trapper education safety course before being eligible to purchase a hunting or trapping license or bowhunting privilege in New York State. DEC-trained and certified volunteer instructors have taught hunters and trappers to be safe, responsible, and ethical since 1949. Recently, DEC announced the results of the second year of a pilot program allowing mentored 12- and 13-year-old hunters to harvest deer with a firearm or crossbow. The results showed youth big game hunters enjoyed another safe, successful, and well-attended season afield. Learn more about DEC's Hunter Education Program.

DEC encourages hunters to remember the primary rules of hunter safety:

Treat every firearm as if it were loaded;

Control the muzzle, keep it pointed in a safe direction;
Identify your target and what lies beyond;
Keep your finger off the trigger until ready to fire; and Wear hunter orange and pink.

For the past several years, DEC has also tracked and investigated Elevated Hunting Incidents (EHIs), previously referred to as tree stand incidents. EHIs are underreported and DEC is not always notified when falls occur. In 2022, DEC received reports of 13 EHIs, four of which were fatal. Only two of the 13 hunters involved were wearing a safety harness. Tree-stand safety is integrated into DEC's hunter education course because those incidents have become a major cause of hunting-related injuries. The proper use of tree-stands and tree-stand safety equipment will help prevent injuries and fatalities. Used correctly, a full body harness and a lifeline keep hunters connected from the time they leave the ground to the moment they get back down.

Most tree-stand incidents are preventable when hunters follow the "ABCs" of tree stand safety:

Always inspect the tree stand before every use;
Buckle full body harness securely every time; and Connect to the tree before your feet leave the ground.

A video showing the proper way to climb into and out of a tree stand can be viewed on DEC's YouTube channel. More information, including the 2022 Hunting Safety Statistics (PDF) and 2022 Tree Stand Safety Statistics (PDF), is available on DEC's website.

Governor Hochul Announces $3.2 Million to Support Outreach and Engagement Services for Addiction

Governor Kathy Hochul today announced the availability of $3.2 million to expand outreach and engagement services in high-need areas of New York State. Administered by the New York State Office of Addiction Services and Supports, the grants through the Opioid Settlement Fund will expand harm-reduction and other healthcare services to engage New Yorkers unable to access care due to a variety of factors.

"My administration remains committed to using every tool at our disposal to help struggling individuals receive the supportive services they need," Governor Hochul said. "By investing in innovative outpatient treatment programs and services in underserved locations, we are ensuring that we deliver equitable access to live-saving treatment for those who need it most."

Funding awarded through this initiative will allow existing outpatient substance use disorder providers, integrated outpatient services licensed providers, and certified community behavioral health service providers to expand harm reduction and treatment services. These services include increasing access to medication for addiction treatment, in addition to increasing the availability of fentanyl test strips. They also include expanding overdose education and prevention training with naloxone distribution, peer services, and substance use disorder assessments and treatment.

Providers can apply for up to $400,000 to support both the expanded services and to purchase vehicles for outreach efforts, according to the request for applications. The funding will allow up to eight awards in designated high-needs areas, including:

- o Chautauqua and Cattaraugus counties
- o Allegany and Steuben counties
- o Southern Delaware and Ulster counties
- o Otsego and Northern Delaware counties
- o St. Lawrence County
- o Franklin and Clinton counties
- o Hamilton and Herkimer counties
- o Essex and Warren counties

The funding expands a program that has been in place in New York State since 2017. There are 18 providers now receiving federal funding to provide similar services in their communities, bringing critical, lifesaving services to underserved areas, and connecting thousands of people to care.

New York State will receive more than $2 billion through various settlement agreements with opioid manufacturers and pharmaceutical companies that were secured by Attorney General Letitia James. A portion of the funding from these settlements will go directly to municipalities, with the remainder deposited into a dedicated fund to support prevention, treatment, harm reduction, and recovery efforts to address the ongoing opioid epidemic.

The same legislation that established the dedicated fund also created the Opioid Settlement Fund Advisory Board, which is tasked with making recommendations on how settlement dollars should be allocated to best serve those in need. Board members issued their first recommendations on November 1, identifying the expansion of harm reduction services and treatment as top priorities.

New York continues to grapple with opioid-related deaths, with fentanyl now involved in most overdose deaths statewide, according to a report on 2021 data released by the state Department of Health. Other key findings include:

- o 4,766 overdose deaths involving opioids, a 14 percent increase over the prior year.
- o 10,430 outpatient emergency department visits due to opioid overdoses, a 12.6 percent increase over the prior year.
- o 19,139 instances of naloxone being administered by Emergency Medical Services, an 11.8 percent increase over the prior year.

New York State has instituted an aggressive, multi-pronged approach to address the overdose epidemic, and created a nation-leading continuum of addiction care with full prevention, treatment, harm reduction, and recovery services. The state has worked to expand access to traditional services, including crisis services, inpatient, outpatient, and residential treatment programs, as well as medication to treat addiction, mobile treatment, and transportation services.

Governor Hochul was a member of the New York State Heroin and Opioid Task Force, which recommended new, non-traditional services, including recovery centers, youth clubhouses, expanded peer services, and open access centers to provide immediate assessments and referrals to care in 2016. These services have since been established in numerous communities around the state and have helped people in need access care closer to where they live.

New Yorkers struggling with an addiction, or whose loved ones are struggling, can find help and hope by calling the state's toll-free, 24-hour, 7-day-a-week HOPEline at 1-877-8-HOPE-NY (1-877-846-7369) or by texting HOPENY (Short Code 467369).

Available addiction treatment including crisis/detox, inpatient, residential, or outpatient care can be found using the NYS OASAS Treatment Availability Dashboard at FindAddictionTreatment.ny.gov or through the NYS OASAS website. If you or a loved one have experienced insurance obstacles related to treatment or need help filing an appeal for a denied claim, contact the CHAMP helpline by phone at 888-614-5400 or email at ombuds@oasas.ny.gov.

Governor Hochul Announces New Measures to Combat Rise in Child Labor Violations and Labor Trafficking

*New York State Department of Labor Will Develop New Child Labor Task Force, Create
Employer Pledge Program to Protect Youth
Workers, Establish Labor Trafficking Response
Unit*

Builds on Department's Existing Public Education Campaign to Inform Workers, Parents, and Employers

Governor Kathy Hochul today announced new efforts to combat child labor violations and labor trafficking in New York State. In light of a significant 68 percent spike in reports of child labor violations in 2022 in New York State, Governor Hochul and the New York State Department of Labor are strengthening their commitment to ensuring the safety and well-being of youth workers. This follows the New York State Department of Labor's recent campaign to educate young workers on their rights in the workplace. The New York State Department of Labor will also develop a new Child Labor Task Force, create an employer pledge program and expand the Division of Immigrant Policies and Affairs' anti-trafficking work to establish a Labor Trafficking Response Unit.

"We all have a moral responsibility to protect our children and tackle exploitative labor practices," Governor Hochul said. "For decades, New York State has led the nation in establishing child labor protections like limiting working hours on school nights and establishing minimum wage standards for minors. With the recent uptick in reports of child labor violations, these new measures will educate youth workers on their rights in the workplace and hold employers accountable, creating safer workplaces for all New Yorkers."

New York State Department of Labor Commissioner Roberta Reardon said, "Protecting and empowering New York's workers is central to what we do at the New York State Department of Labor, so we are determined to lead the nation in guarding our most vulnerable workers from exploitation. I'm grateful for Governor Hochul taking this matter seriously and immediately working to expand the efforts we began earlier this year. This new task force and our continued campaign will give us the tools to protect vulnerable workers who are just entering the world of work."

Child Labor Task Force

Governor Hochul will launch a new interagency Child Labor Task Force to work directly with local schools and municipalities to ensure children, parents, and employers are educated on their rights and responsibilities in the workplace. This task force will be a collaborative effort with a variety of state-level partners, led by NYSDOL with participation from the New York State Police, New York State Education Department (NYSED), New York Department of State's Office for New Americans, New York State Division of Human Rights, New York State Office of Temporary and Disability Assistance, New York State Office of Children and Family Services, and the New York State Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Services. NYSDOL will coordinate with other agencies in the task force to increase enforcement capabilities.

Extended Public Education Campaign

NYSDOL will extend the public education digital campaign that began in January 2023 to highlight important information on labor trafficking, as well as additional information about young workers' rights, including the types of jobs that minors cannot work. NYSDOL will partner with NYSED to provide labor rights and labor trafficking information to schools to distribute to, in coordination with working papers.

Employer Pledge

NYSDOL will encourage employers in hospitality, restaurants, fast food, and physically-taxing industries like manufacturing, food processing, construction, farming, and landscaping to educate their employees on labor rights and the signs of labor trafficking. This will include encouraging employers to take a pledge to protect youth workers.

Labor Trafficking Response Unit

Labor trafficking, or forced labor, is the use of force, fraud, or coercion to compel an individual to work against their will. It is estimated that over 27 million people around the world are being exploited by human traffickers. Labor trafficking can affect adults and children from all walks of life, but a disproportionate number are minorities and people from marginalized and underserved communities.

To expand on New York State's commitment to support and protect victims of labor trafficking, NYSDOL is growing to include a new Anti-Trafficking Unit under its Division of Immigrant Policies & Affairs. The new Anti-Trafficking Unit includes Labor Trafficking Response staff stationed in New York City and Albany, and it will ensure those most vulnerable to labor trafficking know the signs and resources available to help them if they become a victim.

Signs of labor trafficking include:

- Being told you must work to pay off a debt.
- Being promised a benefit like a green card or money that you don't receive.
- Being told your employer will keep your passport or employment contract.
- Being threatened that someone will call the police or immigration if you do not work.

New Yorkers who believe that they or someone they know may be a victim of labor trafficking should contact NYSDOL at 877-466-9757 or email trafficking@labor.ny.gov. NYSDOL will never ask a worker's immigration status.

New York State Office of Temporary and Disability Assistance Commissioner and Co-Chair of the Interagency Task Force on Human Trafficking Daniel W. Tietz said, "It is unconscionable that any business would exploit recently arrived immigrants, let alone children, and we will address this issue head on. We must redouble our efforts to identify potential trafficking victims and ensure they can access supportive, culturally appropriate, holistic services to meet their needs."

New York State Education Department Commissioner Betty A. Rosa said, "The exploitation and abuse of immigrant children being forced into grueling, often dangerous jobs, must be stopped. I am grateful for the partnership with the Department of Labor on this important task force, and NYSED is committed to working with our schools and state agency partners to bring awareness to these injustices."

NYSDOL Resources for Businesses and Young Workers

In order to prevent businesses from exceeding hour limitations for young workers because of worker shortages, NYSDOL will also continue promoting resources available to help businesses recruit employees to ensure they have an adequate workforce. Through NYSDOL's Business Services, businesses can post job openings, learn about hiring incentives, and access free consultation services. (Contd. Pg. 38)

Governor Hochul Announces New Measures to Combat Rise in Child Labor Violations and Labor Trafficking

(From Pg. 37) NYSDOL's Division of Employment and Workforce Solutions includes a youth team to help young people entering the workforce. Guides for young New Yorkers are available online to educate them on what they need before filling out applications. The guides are broken down by ages 14-17 and 18-24, and cover important topics like getting working papers, proper identification, resume preparation, and more. Some important tips to remember for young workers and hiring businesses are: Workers aged 14 to 17 need an employment certificate, also called working papers, in order to hold a job in New York State. There are limits to the length of shifts, time of day and the number of hours minors can work depending on their age, and if school is in session.

Minors are prohibited from night work and have different restrictions than adults.

Minimum wage laws apply to all workers (unless otherwise noted), including minors.

Minors may not perform certain tasks or occupations deemed dangerous. These tasks and occupations are prohibited at the state and/or the federal level.

Visit NYSDOL's social media channels to see the new campaign, and check out NYSDOL's Know Your Rights landing page for more information on child labor laws. For more information on human and labor trafficking, visit NYSDOL's Human Trafficking webpage.

THE MOLINARO MEMO

Welcome to the Molinaro Memo: catching you up on my latest moves and work for Upstate New York!

Eleven County Town Hall Tour

Last month, I launched an eleven county town hall tour. I'm doing a town hall in EVERY county in New York's 19th Congressional District. So far I have hosted events in Chenango, Sullivan, Cortland, Broome, Tompkins, and Greene counties.

We will be having our next town hall in Columbia County today at 5:30pm at the Claverack Library. I look forward to another productive conversation.

Combating Inflation in Upstate New York

Inflation is crushing Upstate families. This past week, Congress took action to force President Biden to disclose how much his Executive Orders cost and I introduced the Combating Rural Inflation Act to fully account for the costs rural communities bear. We have to stop the reckless spending & drive down costs.

Protecting Social Security & Medicare

REP. MOLINARO ON THE LATEST FROM D.C.

I was on Spectrum's Capital Tonight and talked about debt ceiling negotiations, the war in Ukraine, and Governor Hochul's budget, and my commitment to protecting Medicare and Social Security. Cuts to these programs are off the table and I will do everything in my power to protect both.

Introduced Bill to Stop Hochul from Undermining Medicaid Programs

Governor Hochul is moving forward with a budget that steals federal Medicaid dollars from programs that vulnerable New Yorkers rely on. I introduced a measure to stop the Governor from putting these programs on the chopping block.

Getting Answers on the Ohio Train Derailment's Impact on New York

We deserve transparency and accountability. I'm calling for answers from the EPA on how the Ohio train derailment could impact our communities in New York. This information is essential to protecting air and water quality in New York and preventing future failures.

Legislative Update: Supported Bill to Prevent Albany's Farm Overtime Rule from Taking Effect

New York State handed down a new rule that dramatically lowers the farm labor overtime threshold. For some farmers, Albany's new rule will make things even tighter. For others - this is a death blow. I'm fighting back and pushing for enactment of a federal bill that prevents Albany's overtime rule from taking effect.

Federal Investments for New York

$8 million is being sent to Opportunities for Otsego and Tompkins Community Action for Head Start early education programming.

$7 million is being delivered to the Greater Binghamton Airport for improvements to the airport's terminal.

$500K is being sent to Greater Opportunities for Broome and Chenango and Ithaca Neighborhood Housing Services to expand affordable housing options.

Around New York

I have been on the road talking non-stop with Upstate New Yorkers. Here are some of the highlights:

- Toured BAE Systems in Endicott. It's amazing to see the innovative technologies and advanced manufacturing processes being used to support our national security.
- Met with the Delaware County Chamber of Commerce and the Delaware County Industrial Development Agency Board. We discussed strategies to support small businesses, farmers, and entrepreneurs in the region, and the importance of investing in workforce development.
- Met with Ulster County Executive Jen Metzger to discuss the needs of our community.
- Visited the Binghamton Zoo and learned about their conservation efforts.
- Toured Lourdes Wellness Center in Johnson City. I was so impressed by the state-of-the-art facilities that I had to try some of the equipment out myself!
- Visited the ShopRite grocery and convenient store in Ulster.

Supporting local businesses is key to strengthening our community and creating job opportunities.

- Had a productive meeting with Kamal Johnson, the Mayor of Hudson. We discussed ways the federal government can collaborate with the City to make Hudson an even better place to live and work!
- Sat down with Town of Ulster Supervisor Jim Quigley to discuss our work to bring opportunities to Ulster and make our community better.
- Stopped by Deja Brew for a cup of coffee in Norwich. It's a family operation with two sisters running the coffee shop for the past two years.

How Can I Help You?

You can also give us a call if you need help purchasing U.S. flags, getting tours and tickets for your visit to Washington, DC, or have questions about internships and military academy nominations.

Wrapping up Another Week – Congressman Pat Ryan

As we wrap up another productive week, I wanted to give you an update on all that I've been doing on behalf of the Hudson Valley!

ENSURING RAIL SAFETY AND HOLDING CORPORATIONS ACCOUNTABLE

We've seen a disturbing pattern of CSX consistently putting profit over safety, creating serious risk that what happened in Ohio could repeat itself right here in the Hudson Valley.

We can't let that happen.

That's why I've called on CSX to immediately adopt common-sense safety standards, and demanded that the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee hold a hearing so that we can protect families in the Hudson Valley and across the United States.

INCREASING SOCIAL SECURITY ACCESSIBILITY

Since the Social Security Administration (SSA) closed its Kingston field office, Ulster County seniors are forced to travel upwards of an hour to reach an office - and the support they depend on. With limited internet and many unable to drive, accessing these services is nearly impossible for New Yorkers who need these earned benefits.

On Friday, I wrote to the Acting SSA Commissioner, Kilolo Kijakazi, demanding the reopening of the Kingston office.

We must right this wrong so that Hudson Valley seniors can access these much-needed services.

COMMUNITY PROJECT FUNDING APPLICATIONS

The federal government works best when it works directly on behalf of the communities that it serves.

I'm excited to open the application period for Community Project Funding (CPF) so this much-needed funding is delivered to projects right here at home. Local governments and non-profits can learn more about the process and request direct federal funding for Fiscal Year 2024 here . Applications are due by March 17.

My office is hosting a webinar on the CPF process that you can join on Thursday, March 9, at 4:00pm EST.

Please register in advance for the webinar here. https://ushr.zoomgov.com/webinar/register/WN\_zMDrhW-VS4C8Ov0BbDuTcw

LOWERING THE COST OF LIVING

Nearly one million New Yorkers are eligible to receive additional support to heat their homes, but they are not all able because the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) is so grossly underfunded.

That's why I joined colleagues from across the state in demanding an additional $500M in LIHEAP funding. New York families shouldn't have to pick between heating their homes and paying for groceries.

SUPPORTING WORKERS - STRENGTHENING UNIONS

The middle class built this country. And unions built the middle class.

That's why this week, I introduced the bipartisan PRO Act. Every American should have the right to negotiate for higher wages, better benefits, and safer conditions.

COMBATING ANTISEMITISM

This week, I was proud to launch the 118th Congress' Combating Antisemitism Task Force by meeting with special envoys from around the globe to discuss how we can lead in the fight against hate.

We must work together to condemn antisemitism and spread tolerance around the world.

CELEBRATING WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

This Wednesday marked the start of Women's History Month, where we celebrate the trailblazing women who fought to move our country forward.

We must honor their legacies by continuing to work together in the march toward true gender equality.

Standing with our Brave Northern Border Agents

There's been an unprecedented surge in illegal crossings at our Northern Border, including an 846% increase across the North Country alone. Under President Biden's failed leadership, our borders are less secure, and our communities are at risk. The Northern Border Security Caucus, which launched this week, is needed now more than ever for members of Congress to come together with one voice to advocate for our brave Border Patrol agents at our Northern Border.

Yesterday, I met with Border Patrol agents across the Buffalo Sector at the Buffalo and Rochester stations to discuss the growing challenges they face. The worsening crisis at our Northern Border is real, and the Biden administration must take steps to address it immediately. Our CBP agents face unprecedented challenges because of Joe Biden's failure to address his disastrous open border policies. During the meetings, I reiterated my commitment to our law enforcement officers at the border - I will continue to do whatever it takes to ensure they have the resources and support they need to do their jobs effectively and continue to keep our nation safe.

Thank you to Chief Thomas Martin and Chief Luis Tafoya for welcoming us to the Buffalo and Rochester stations, respectively, and to all the CBP officers who took the time to share their perspectives with me. Thank you also to New York Senate Republican Leader Rob Ort and Assemblyman Angelo Morinello who joined me for the tour of the Buffalo Station.

NORTHERN BORDER FAST FACTS:

Drug smuggling has increased by 596% along the Northern Border since Fiscal Year 2021, including a 26% increase in fentanyl.

Since President Biden took office nearly two years ago, there has been an almost 15 times increase in Northern land border encounters.

There were only 997 Northern land border encounters in January 2021. But that number has increased each month since. In October 2022, there were 15,938 Northern land border encounters. In FY2020, there were 32,376 border encounters. In FY2022, there were 109,535 encounters.

Border Patrol staffing has remained flat since FY 2009. Since FY09, staffing levels along the Northern border sectors have been between 1,887 and 2,263 personnel. FY2020 Northern border sector staffing was 2,019.

Non-Citizens Should NEVER Vote in American Elections

As co-chair of the Election Integrity Caucus, I introduced a resolution calling for an amendment to the Constitution to prohibit individuals who are not citizens of the United States from voting in federal, state, and local elections. Recently, multiple jurisdictions around the nation, including New York City, San Francisco, Vermont, and the District of Columbia, have attempted to water down our sacred right of citizenship by extending the right to vote to non-citizens.

The right to vote is one of the most sacred rights we have as citizens. A citizen of another nation should not be allowed to vote in elections that will influence government officials and U.S. laws at any level.

It is time to restore confidence in our elections and rebuild faith in our self-governing Constitutional Republic by making it explicit that only American citizens are permitted to vote in local, state, and federal elections.

Ending COVID Vaccine Mandates for Colleges and Universities

This week I introduced the Ending COVID Vaccine Mandates for Colleges and Universities Act. This legislation would prevent colleges and universities like SUNY from continuing to impose unconstitutional and overreaching COVID-19 vaccine mandates. Specifically, it restricts access to federal higher education funds for institutions that continue to impose vaccine mandates on students.

The decision to receive the COVID vaccine is between a student and their doctor, not their university or the government. President Biden has said it himself: the pandemic is over. Now it is time for colleges and universities to lift the mandates, as other institutions have done. Whether a young adult receives the vaccine should not impact their ability to access educational opportunities. It is time to end all unscientific and unconstitutional vaccine mandates, including those that remain in effect on our college and university students.

Election Integrity Roundtable with Chief Election Officers from Around the Nation

This week, the House Election Integrity Caucus hosted a roundtable discussion with election officers from around the country to discuss the 2022 midterm elections. As co-chair of the Election Integrity Caucus, I led this meeting.

The panelists shared with our congressional members what went right in 2022 and where we can improve as a nation moving forward. I appreciated their unique perspectives and the debates that took place. I look forward to continuing to work with them and other election officials to maintain faith in the democratic process. Together, we must always work to improve election administration and deliver secure, transparent, free, and fair elections. (Contd. Pg. 57)

This Week With Claudia

(From Pg. 56)

With more than 60 members of Congress, the Election Integrity Caucus is the only caucus in Congress devoted solely to restoring faith in the democratic process by improving election administration. The caucus has hosted several roundtables on key election issues, including the merits of voter ID as well as discussions with state legislators across the nation on measures to strengthen election transparency, oversight, and accountability.

Stopping Hochul's Theft of Medicaid Dollars from Local Counties

Congress delivers federal funds directly to states to cover a share of their Medicaid programs and other healthcare initiatives. Congress intended these funds, referred to as eFMAP funds, to be shared with the New York counties and local governments that sustain the Medicaid program

However, under Governor Hochul's 2024 budget plan, the funds would bypass counties altogether, with up to $1 billion in eFMAP funds going directly into state coffers. This will force counties across the state to further raise property taxes on local taxpayers to cover the difference. This week I joined with members of the New York delegation to introduce a resolution clarifying that it was Congress' intent for eFMAP funds to be shared directly with the county and local governments that are actually covering the associated costs.

Governor Kathy Hochul's state budget proposal amounts to an egregious theft of taxpayer dollars. She proposes that Albany Democrats steal federal funds that Congress intended to go directly to our counties. If Kathy Hochul and Albany Democrats think they are entitled to these federal funds, they should shift the burden of funding Medicaid from our counties back to our state's capital, as every other state in the country does. New York is the only state that demands local governments cover half of the Medicaid share. It is unfair, and it must end.

Senator Oberacker Named to Anti-Semitism Working Group Roundtables with stakeholders to take place across the state

ALBANY, 03/01/23 -- State Senator Peter Oberacker (R/C - Schenectady) today announced that he has been appointed to a special Anti-Semitism Working Group by New York State Republican Leader Rob Ort. The senate panel will hold roundtables throughout the state to hear from stakeholders and make recommendations on ways to best address the alarming rise in anti-Semitic incidents in New York State.

"Heinous, violent acts in the name of anti-Semitism have been on the rise in New York and we must take decisive action to halt these disturbing crimes," said Senator Peter Oberacker. "I want to thank in advance those from the Jewish community who will be coming forward to describe very personal tragedies; your words will be instrumental. Working together, we will develop true solutions to ensure no one comes under attack because of their faith or religion. While I am honored to serve on this special senate panel, I am deeply troubled that it is needed at all."

"We continue to see an alarming rise in anti-Semitic hate crimes here in New York. These types of violence have no place in our state and nation - no innocent, law-abiding New Yorker should ever feel threatened, especially on the basis of their faith. The Senate Republican Conference is committed to restoring public safety, and protecting our Jewish brothers and sisters from hateful acts of violence. This working group will gather information and formulate solutions on how the Legislature can best reverse this rising trend, and I look forward to their report," said Leader Rob Ort.

Anti-Semitic incidents reached an all-time high in the United States last year, according to a recent report by the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) and a recent poll by the ADL. Most recently, a report was conducted by the AJC State of Antisemitism in America Report 2022 outlining five key takeaways:

1. More Jews feel less secure in America.
2. American Jews are proud, but altering behavior out of fear.
3. Antisemitism online and on social media is a continuing threat. But young American Jews experience it differently.
4. American Jews pursuing higher education are experiencing some lows.
5. Americans know antisemitism is a problem for society, but more can be done.

The working group will hold a series of discussions throughout the state, hearing testimony from stakeholders who have experienced and witnessed anti-Semitism, and those who work to educate about anti-Semitism. At the conclusion of the roundtables, the working group will issue a report and make a series of legislative recommendations.

The first roundtable will be announced soon.
