Don't Understimate a Dandelion

Whether you love them or hate them, dandelions are among the most familiar plants in the northern hemisphere. Just about anyone can identify a dandelion at a glance. The Dandelion (Taraxacum officinale) is a hardy perennial that can grow to a height of nearly 12 inches. Each bloom is made up of numerous strap-shaped florets of bright golden yellow. This strap-shaped corolla is notched at the edge into five teeth, each tooth, a petal, narrows down into a claw-like tube, which rests on a single-chambered ovary containing a single ovule where the Dandelion produces considerable quantities of both pollen and nectar in the early spring. No matter how cool the weather may be the Dandelion continues to produce a small succession of flowers until autumn providing pollen and nectar especially for bees.

The Dandelion has a thick tap root, that is dark brown, almost black on the outside and milky white within. Its long jagged leaves rise directly from a rosette form lying close upon the ground. Each leaf is grooved and created so that falling rain goes straight to the center of the rosette to the root allowing the plant to obtain sufficient moisture.

The leaves are deeply-notched, toothy, spatula-like that are usually shiny and hairless and the edge of each leaf is cut into great jagged teeth. The larger teeth are cut into lesser teeth resembling the teeth of a lion; thus its name. According to the French the name is Dent de Lion. In Latin the name would be Dens leonis; and in the Greek Leontodon.

Before the invention of lawns, the golden blossoms and liontoothed leaves were more likely to be praised as a bounty of food, medicine and magic. Gardeners used to weed out the grass to make room for the dandelions. Dandelions were a common and beloved garden flower in Europe, and the subject of many poems. In the terrifying New World, the cheerful face of a Dandelion was a sweet reminder of home.

Dandelions were considered a green and growing first aid kit in olden times, as they were prescribed for every ailment from warts to the plague, dandruff, toothache, sores, fevers, rotting gums, weakness, lethargy and depression. Not until the twentieth century was the underlying cause of many of those symptoms realized as vitamin deficiencies. Dandelions have more vitamin A than spinach, more vitamin C than tomatoes, and are a powerhouse of iron, calcium and potassium.

Despite their reputation in most neighborhoods, Dandelions are actually good for your lawn. Their wide-spreading roots loosen hard-packed soil, aerate the earth and help reduce soil erosion. The deep taproot also pulls nutrients s from deep in the soil and makes them available to other plants.

Dandelions are hardy, healthy and just plain fun. The Dandelion seems to be the flower earmarked for children. In a park or a garden, it's one of the flowers a child can pick without getting into trouble. A child in a field full of dandelions never ran out of things to do. Blowing on Dandelion puffball can tell you if it's time to go home, how many years until you get married, or how many children you'll have - and of course, if you catch a flying dandelion seed, you can make a wish!

Dandelions are fast growers. The sunny yellow flowers go from bud to seed in just a few days. They are also long-lived. An individual plant can live for years. Just think, the dandelion hidden in a corner of your yard or on the playground might be older than the children running past it.

LOOKING BACK

by Beatrice Akerley

From May 23, 1996 Townsman

A few nights ago I was listening to one of my favorite programs over T.V. when we were interrupted by a commercial advertising a certain weed killer and among the weeds listed was the dandelion. This made me feel real angry. How can anybody mistake the dandelion for a weed? To me it is one of our prettier flowers. My eight babies thought so too.

Before my babies learned to walk I always got a big kick taking them in the green fields when dandelions were in bloom. When I set them down, they would smile, kick out their little feet and reach out for a dandelion.

I also cooked dandelions as a vegetable for my table, and cut them up green and served them with vinegar and sugar as a salad

When my children were growing up the girls curled the stems, making "curls" for their hair, made chains to wear around their neck and tied the blossoms in their shoe laces, while my sons searched for the large stems to use as whistles. Dandelions can also be used in wine. When the little fuzzy balls appear on the end of the stems we know the dandelion season has ended and they wiill all too soon be blown away on the sweet summer breeze. Following is a poem written by my daughter, Vera Atkins.

The Dandelion

Sometimes a friend, sometimes a foe,
On our lawns it likes to grow,
With dress of green and hair of gold
-A flower lovely to behold.
It sleeps by day and waits at night
Till its hair grow long and white,
And in the breeze will swing and sway
When its hair is blown away.
No matter whether big or small,
God created one and all;
And though its popular with none,
The dandelion can be such fun!

How can a plant being both beautiful and useful be listed as a weed?

This Storm Mysterious Book Report No. 381

by John Dwaine McKenna

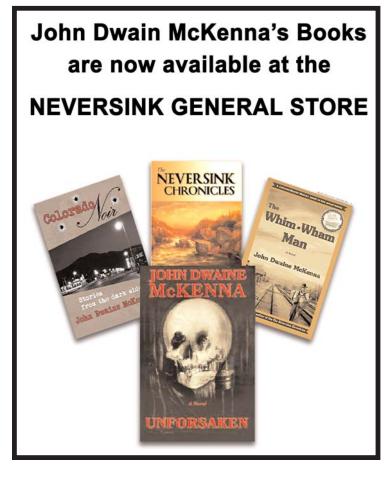

The writer James Ellroy is a genius, and a living legend who follows no rules but his own. He cuts, slashes and burns the English language however he sees fit, then reassembles it at will in his own inimical style to bring forth what can only be called masterpieces of American literature. He writes fiction; he writes about crime, criminals and criminality, but

This Storm, (Knopf, $29.95, 590 pages, ISBN 978-0-307-95700-9) by James Ellroy, is the follow-up to 2014's Perfidia, and picks up the narrative in January 1942. The city of Los Angeles, and the whole country, is reeling in shock from the unprovoked sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. In the City of Angels, local Japanese citizens are being rounded up and slammed in jail as widespread and violent anti-Japanese sentiment sweeps the nation, and the internments begin. That's when a massive thunderstorm hits the city, causing floods, mudslides, and a body in a burnt wooden box to wash up in Griffith Park.

The cops tag and bag it as routine evidence, but they're wrong. It's an early warning sign of chaos, and an indicator of the tectonic social shifts that are about to grip the city.

Told with a robust cast of characters who never seem to run out of schemes, malice or bad intentions, the twists, turns and treachery, as well as the debauchery, depravity and savagery is unending in this hard-boiled look at a country at war with the world, and a city at odds with itself.

From the author's booknotes:

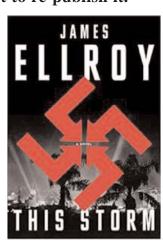

"THIS STORM is the second volume of the second L.A. Quartet. The first volume, PERFIDIA, covers December 6 through December 29, 1941. The L.A. Quartet: THE BLACK DAHLIA, THE BIG NOWHERE, L.A. CONFIDENTIAL, and WHITE JAZZ-covers the years 1946 to 1958 in Los Angeles. The Underworld U.S.A. trilogy: AMERICAN TABLOID, THE COLD SIX THOUSAND and BLOOD'S A ROVER covers 1958-1972, on a national scale."

It is a remarkable body of work by the man "Widely considered to be the greatest living crime novelist and a major literary figure . . ." In a just world he would already be a Nobel Laureate.

The Olive Jar by Carol Olsen LaMonda

Recovery

I am 11 days post spine fusion surgery. My L-4 and L-5 vertebrae were badly herniated and impinging on the root nerve causing sciatica. Removing the disc and putting some space age metal mesh in its place should cure my pain and muscle atrophy. I am blessed to have good insurance, an experienced spine surgeon, and a state of the art hospital. I also had a husband who could care for me until I can function on my own.

What do people do without help? What ever I need is "over there:". What I try to carry, I drop and cannot bend over to pick it up. I cannot see my surgical incision because it is behind me and I cannot bandage. I have staples (about 40) to be removed on Monday, but I cannot drive. I need a driver to get me to doctor in Kingston.

drive. I need a driver to get me to doctor in Kingston.

I also need a cook, a shopper, a dishwasher, a laundress, and a dog walker. I need someone to fetch my meds. I have never felt so helpless in my life. I do not like it, Honestly, what would a single person do? I know my condition is only temporary as I heal and feel better each day.

Being incapacitated has given me a new outlook on life. Instead of saying, "what can I do to help?" I will show up on the door step with the mail, a cheery plant or bouquet, a casserole, a daily text or email, and give ten minutes of "step and fetch it" time.

I have been blessed with friends and family that do that for me. Be aware that there are those out there who need that care and attention. Let us be OUR BROTHER'S or SISTER'S KEEPER.

The Scene Too

By Jane Harrison

Weekend before last, I spent a beautiful day at the most successful music festival in Sullivan County: FROGGY DAZE. This was Number 15 and even though this was the last day, LANDERS CAMPGROUND in Narrowsburg was still packed with tents, RVs and even a teepee! The festival has always attracted people from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut but I also met people from as far away as Minnesota and Arizona.

Landers was the site of the first festival oh those many years ago and remains a favorite of the festival goers. They can bundle the kids into their vehicle of choice and spend a fun filled four days in the beautiful western part of our county. I was told the amenities (showers, bathrooms etc) are more than adequate and the on-site vendors are expectedly priced. And if on-site purchasing or cooking was something uninteresting to them, they mentioned several places not too far away where they described as excellent meals.

Many that I spoke to had been coming for years, made friends and coordinated with their friends to be as close as possible. I found a strong camaraderie among the attendees that is often found in successful events of this type. And despite a press pass snafu, everyone was more than willing to talk about their experiences.

Saturday, was the FROGGY DAZE CIRCUS COSTUME PARTY. Face painting and paint on tattoos for the kids, and after dark, fire twirlers, stilt walkers, and an amazing laser show in circus colors. The fact that each festival had a theme is something I heard over and over. Kids and grownups have a great deal of fun dressing up to mirror the theme.

And of course, we talked about the music. Some were there because of a band they knew that had performed. Some said all the music was great, no matter who was on stage, often saying that as many times as they had been, it was always excellent. And I would say at least one out of every five mentioned THE JOHNNY JULES BAND would be playing around 1 and that I should stay and hear them. I didn't let on that I knew him, his music, that he is one of my dear friends, and he's been trying to get me to come to this for years. Truth is, I did a lot of camping when I lived on the West Coast in my 20s and the idea of camping now...well...is a nice hotel room. (I hope Johnny doesn't read this!)

I saw NOAH LEMHRMAN, excellent style with a strong story telling in his songs.

DRIVE BREAK is a mesmerizing high energy trio with a real JIMI HENDRIX feel to their original music. They are booked at the STITCH BLUES BAR, 247 w 37th in New York City, July 29th for the pre-show to PHISH at Madison Square Garden so you can catch them then walk to the show.

Then THE JOHNNY JULES BAND closed the music part of the festival, with a stunning ten-piece band including TRISH MURPHY on fiddle, and HOPE on flute....and a crowd so large in the stage area that one had to stand in order to see. This band has quite the following!

Coming up:

Friday, May 26th, HOLLYWOOD HERB THE SEVEN will be at the 17 West Brewery in Liberty; 6-9

Saturday May 27th, SHADES will be at the 17 West Brewery in Liberty; 6-9

May 28th Sunday, THE JOHNNY JULES BAND will be at HECTORS INN in Bethel with special guest stars for their HAMBURGER DAY festivities beginning at 3pm.

Sunday May 28th, ALBI BELULLI will be at the 17 West Brewery in Liberty; 1-4

That's all I have so far dear readers. Until next time......

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Improving My Community

My name is Ashley Miller and I am a senior at Tri-Valley Central School. During my senior year I took a Civics and Social Justice class taught by Mr. Matthew Haynes and Mr. Tyler Eckhoff. In the class I learned about injustices within our community.

Halfway through the year we started our Capstone Project. I decided I wanted to improve feminine hygiene within the schools of Sullivan County for my project. After discovering the State Assembly Bill passed June 1, 2018 that states all public school bathrooms are required to have feminine product dispensers free of charge, I knew I had to take action.

I have worked for months to ensure there is proper feminine hygiene within our schools. To help ensure feminine hygiene, I made posters to help students who are unaware of proper procedures. But most importantly, within our school I have improved access to feminine hygiene products and dispensers. I am happy to say I have made such an impact on the women in our community.

If you are having trouble getting access to feminine products in your school and would like help, contact me at ashleymiller@trivalleycsd.org.

I would like to give a big thank you to my teachers and all the people in the community who were willing to help me. I am proud to say I have successfully made an impact on my community.

Family Engagement Day held at Fallsburg CSD

On May 13, 2023, the Fallsburg Central School District hosted a Spring Family Engagement Day.

The free-of-charge event was filled with a variety of fun and family-friendly festivities. There were inflatable bounce houses for children, arcade games, sporting competitions, face painting, and gift raffles.

Many members of the Fallsburg CSD community volunteered their time to support this wonderful event. The Benjamin Cosor Elementary PTA brought their own popcorn machine and prepared a seed planting activity for children. The high school art, Key, Interact, robotics, and Leo's clubs showcased their projection.

ects and offered a variety of engaging activities for attendees. High school students supervised the concession stations and helped with clean-up efforts.

Advocacy organizations from throughout the region participated as well. Many distributed brochures and educational materials, but Sullivan 180 brought their blender bike, which is a bicycle that powers an attached blender through peddling, for attendees to ride.

Cafeteria staff provided food and drinks for this occasion, but was given a helping hand by Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Ivan Katz, who volunteered to work the grill.

The Fallsburg Central School District wishes to extend their gratitude to all attendees and volunteers for making this event a huge success.

Bluebird Trail Brings Happiness to Family and Community

By Tom Kelly May 17, 2023 Updated 3 hrs ago Comments

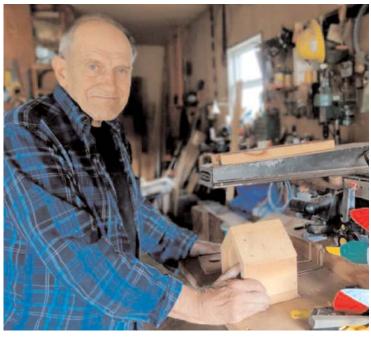

Snipes Farm and Education Center - a regional presence since the Morrisville, Pennsylvania, farm began operating in 1808 - has a new addition this spring: The Blade Bluebird Trail. The nature trail featuring 30 bluebird nest boxes opened to public in May.

The boxes were donated by a family of one of the participants in the Penn State University Extension's Master Gardener Program held at the center and reflects Snipes' mission to connect people to the land.

It was Yardley, Pennsylvania, resident Heidi Blade who saw the need to foster the bluebird population on the farm and surrounding area.

It happened while she was engaged in the required 50-hour hands-on-portion of the master gardener program that a conversation with Snipes Farm board president Carolyn Dorph led to the idea to install the bluebird boxes around the farm.

Blade engaged her father, Ward, who lived in her hometown of Neversink, New York, about 100 miles north of New York City.

The late Ward Blade in his workshop.

Blade says her father has made more than a 100 bluebird boxes over the years, but "he never sold them. He gave them away to people for their properties."

A civil engineer who was a graduate of SUNY, Delhi, Ward Blade's career was spent managing the reservoir system in New York State that supplies the drinking water for New York City. Born in 1938 and generally self-taught in farming and woodworking, Ward Blade was also skilled enough to build his own two-story home and farm apples and blueberries.

"He really enjoyed making things from wood. The house was filled with the outcome of his woodworking. He made tables, picture frames, tool boxes, duck boxes, and bird houses. The woodworking fit in with his engineering mind, and he really could figure out how to make anything."

That included something for the New York State Bird, the Eastern Bluebird.

"My dad did not have a real strong affection for the species, but he knew they were in decline and thought by his making nesting boxes for them he could help out and help keep them safe," says Blade.

It was in the fall of 2022 that Blade suggested installing a quantity of the bluebird boxes from her father's inventory at the farm, in an attempt to lure more bluebirds to the farm and to keep them coming back.

Bluebird Trail.JPG

One of the bluebird boxes Ward Blade built has been installed at Snipes Farm.

"I loved the idea," Dorph says. "It was so generous of the Blade family and was a great fit for the mission of the farm. The bluebirds eat insects and like to nest out in the open. In February we had the boxes installed on posts, facing east-southeast, as is the prescribed best practice. We have begun monitoring the boxes by performing daily rounds and recording the data. We already have bluebirds nesting in two of the boxes, which is very exciting. The offspring tend to stay close by, so we are counting on the coming years to achieve full bluebird occupancy."

When Heidi Blade told her father of the idea, he was excited to help and see his work put to good use. He was also very sick at the time. "The bluebird box project 175 miles away invigorated him enough that he went to his garage workshop and built five more boxes."

However, Ward Blade passed away in December, 2022, at the age of 84 and was unable to witness the installation of the boxes on the trail that would come to bear his name.

Nevertheless, his work connects with the Snipes founding family's Quaker tradition of helping the community and building relationships with the people therein.

Now a nonprofit educational organization, Snipes employs about 25 people to make the farm work and run its programs. "We are always in need of volunteers and would love to help people get out of their pandemic malaise and get them out into the fresh air. We will need monitors for the Blade Bluebird Trail if people would like to ease into volunteering around the farm," Dorph says.

In addition to its various programs, Snipes Farm offers CSA shares, community supported agriculture weekly vegetable subscriptions to the public, from spring to fall.

The farm also allocates at least 50 percent of the food grown to local organizations that are on the front lines of providing nutritious food to underserved segments of the community. Some of the organizations helped are Bucks County Emergency Homeless Shelter, the Trenton Health Team, the Interfaith Food Coalition, Robert Wood Johnson Barnabas Health, and Bucks County Senior Centers.

Heidi Blade, who moved to Yardley in 2017 with her husband Chris Gesenberg, says the family is moved that Snipes Farm named the trail after her father. "My mother, Sandra Blade, has recently moved nearby," she says, and they were joined by Heidi's Connecticut-based sister, Amanda, at the trail's dedication.

The trail itself is about a half mile and an easy walk. It is also a celebration of life, of nature, of conservation, and of community

"I think my dad would really enjoy this. His woodworking is doing what it was designed to do, help support the bluebirds and enhance the community. Yes, I think he would like this a lot."

Current and Former Athletes Honored at Fallsburg CSD Senior Night scholarship to play track & field at the University of Rhode Island.

"I'm glad to see that Fallsburg track has come a long way because when I ran track here, we did not have a track," said Mr. White. "We used to practice on the soccer field, in the cafeteria, on the front lawn, and on the hard concrete."

President of the Fallsburg Central School Board of Senior Night for the baseball and track & field teams took place on May 12, 2023 at Fallsburg Junior-Senior High School.

Seniors were accompanied by family, coaches and teammates as they commemorated their final season as a Fallsburg Comet. Baseball head coach, Dylan Gaucher, and track & field coaches, Danielle Halikias and Loren Rapaport, congratulated the seniors on their milestone achievement and wished them the best of luck in their futures.

This year's Senior Night also marked a special occasion for the district. Fallsburg graduate and standout athlete, Albert White, was invited to speak with students about his experience as a former Fallsburg athlete. In 1997, Mr. White was a state champion in the 100-meter race and runner-up in the 200-meter race. He was state champion again in 1998; coming in first in the 200-meter race and runner-up in the 100-meter race. Upon graduation, he earned a full Education, Michael Weiner, also gave remarks about Mr. White. He stated, "I've had the honor of coaching at Fallsburg for nearly forty years, and Albert was one of the best athletes we've ever had in this district."

Fallsburg Central School congratulates its seniors and is honored to welcome back Albert White.

County Plans to Build Temporary Bridge in Yulan Will Serve While New Bridge Is Created

Yulan, NY - In collaboration with Town of Highland officials, Sullivan County's Division of Public Works (DPW) has agreed to install a temporary bridge across Beaver Brook while replacing a heavily used bridge on County Road 22 (Beaver Brook Road) in Yulan.

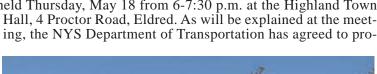

"We had a great meeting with Highland Supervisor Jeff Haas, Town Councilwoman Kaitlin Haas and DPW Commissioner Ed McAndrew to ensure a solution that wouldn't inconvenience Highland residents and travelers more than necessary," Legislature Chairman Robert A. Doherty said.

The NYS Department of Environmental Conservation is mandating County Bridge 77 - a combination of a bridge over Beaver Brook and a dam holding back Toasperns Pond - be reconstructed to double its span from 50 feet to 100 feet in length, in order to widen the spillway beneath.

A public informational meeting about the project will be held Thursday, May 18 from 6-7:30 p.m. at the Highland Town vide a grant funding 95% of the estimated $5 million project. Work is expected to begin in the spring of next year and last into the fall. A temporary, single-lane, traffic light-controlled bridge will be installed immediately downstream so that traffic can pass during construction.

"Emergency responders and school bus drivers won't have to make time-consuming detours, and travelers won't have to spend more gas driving out of their way," Doherty noted. "I'm glad we were able to make this happen, and I thank my colleagues on the Legislature for continuing to make historic major investments in roads and bridges Countywide.'

The Draft Design Approval Document, prepared by planning and design consultant Barton & Loguidice DPC, will be presented at the meeting and is available for public review at the DPW office inside the Government Center, 100 North Street, Monticello. DEC Urges New Yorkers: If You Care, Leave It There Public Cautioned Against Disturbing Fawns and Other Young Wildlife

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) Commissioner Basil Seggos today reminded New Yorkers to appreciate wildlife from a safe distance and resist the urge to touch or pick up newborn fawns and other young wildlife. Human contact with wildlife can result in unintended consequences detrimental to the animals people intend to help.

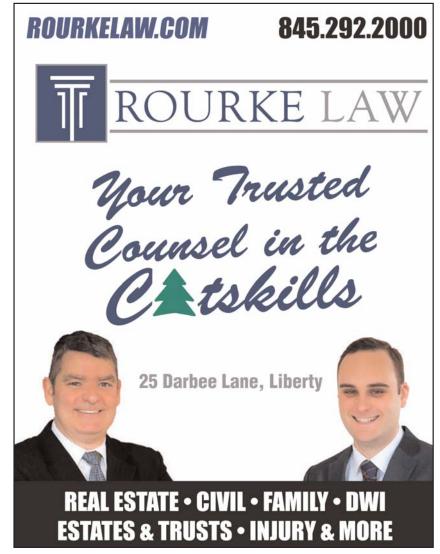

"This is the time of year New Yorkers are more likely to see young or newborn animals in their yards and mistakenly think these animals need help," Commissioner Seggos said. "The recently fledged birds or baby rabbits in your yard likely have parents hiding nearby keeping an eye on their offspring. Please resist the urge to touch these wild animals and instead enjoy the encounter from a safe distance. Remember - if you care, leave it there."

During spring months, animal sightings and encounters are common. Young wildlife quickly venture into the world on wobbly legs or are unable to fly on their own. While most young wildlife learn survival skills from one or both parents, some receive little or no care. Often, wild animals stay away from their young, especially when people or pets are present. For these young animals, the perils of survival are a natural part of life in the wild. Unfortunately, well-intentioned individuals may attempt to care for young wild animals they believe to be abandoned or in need of assistance. These human interactions typically do more harm than good.

For example, white-tailed deer fawns are born during late May and early June. Although fawns can walk shortly after birth, they spend most of their first several days lying still in tall grass, leaf litter, or sometimes relatively unconcealed. During this period, a fawn is usually left alone by the adult female (doe), except when nursing. People occasionally find a lone fawn and mistakenly assume it has been abandoned, which is rare. Fawns should be left alone. Take a picture, but don't take the fawn or attempt to feed it. If human presence is detected by the doe, the doe may delay its next visit to nurse. A fawn's best chance to survive is to be raised by the adult doe. Fawns nurse three to four times a day, usually for less than 30 minutes at a time, but otherwise the doe keeps her distance, which helps reduce the chance a predator will follow her to the fawn. A fawn's protective coloration and ability to remain motionless help it avoid detection by predators and people. By the end of its second week of a fawn's life, it begins to move about and spend more time with the doe. It also begins to eat grass and leaves. At about 10 weeks of age, fawns are no longer dependent on milk, although they continue to nurse occasionally into the fall.

DEC also reminds the public that young wildlife are not pets. Keeping wildlife in captivity is illegal and harmful to the animal. Wild animals are not well-suited for life in captivity and may carry diseases that can be transferred to humans. Anyone who observes wildlife that appear to be sick or behaving abnormally should contact their DEC regional wildlife office.

Anyone that encounters a young wild animal that is obviously injured or orphaned should call a wildlife rehabilitator. Wildlife rehabilitators are trained volunteers licensed by DEC. They are the only people legally allowed to receive and treat distressed wildlife. They have the experience, expertise, and facilities to successfully treat and release wild animals.

DEC advises to keep pets indoors when young animals are present. Many fledgling birds cannot fly when they first leave the nest and are easy prey for a house cat.

For more information and answers to frequently asked questions about young wildlife, visit DEC's website.

DEC Announces New Display of Elephant Ivory Seized from Illegal Trade at New York State Museum

Display Shines Light on Global Fight to Save Elephants from Extinction

(From Pg. 31) "The senseless and horrific poaching of these awe-inspiring animals to create trinkets and trophies is grotesque," Commissioner Seggos said. "New York City remains the nation's largest port of entry for illegal wildlife goods and DEC's Division of Law Enforcement is working diligently to stop the businesses fueling the trade. DEC cannot do this work alone and this new display at the New York State Museum will shed light on a decades-long crisis that threatens the very existence of elephants and rhinoceros and encourage museum visitors to join us in the fight against poachers and sellers of illegal ivory."

From 2015 to 2018, DEC's Division of Law Enforcement launched an undercover operation in New York City dubbed "Operation White Gold," focusing on high-end antique dealers and wholesale distributors throughout the five boroughs. Operation White Gold resulted in the largest-ever crackdown on the illegal ivory trade in New York State history with 18 corporations and 25 associated individuals charged with felony-level crimes. In addition, DEC Officers executed multiple search warrants and seized thousands of pieces of illegal elephant ivory, ranging from jewelry and small statues to five and seven-foot raw tusks, that make up a multi-billion-dollar-per-year industry. The seized ivory weighed in at nearly two tons and had a combined market value of more than $12 million. DEC destroyed most of the seized ivory in a massive crush in New York City's Central Park in 2017. Video is available on DEC's YouTube page.

State Education Department Commissioner Betty A. Rosa said, "We must all take responsibility for helping to protect our endangered wildlife by joining the global movement in support of safeguarding precious wildlife and preventing the illegal trade and sale of ivory in our state. The display of confiscated elephant ivory and other items at the New York State Museum serves as a powerful reminder of the devastation caused by these insidious activities, and why more education, awareness, and collaboration are needed to combat them and effect long-term change."

In 2014, New York State strengthened its laws on interstate ivory sales, increasing penalties against buyers and sellers whose actions further endanger elephant populations worldwide. Since the law took effect, DEC enforcement has focused on the illegal ivory trade and resulted in charges against approximately 40 corporations and 75 individuals, including those brought down during Operation White Gold." Today, Environmental Conservation Police Officers (ECOs) routinely conduct unannounced and undercover visits of retail stores and wholesale dealers throughout New York State to ensure that ivory is not being sold or trafficked illegally.

The New York State Museum is open to the public Tuesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information on New York State ivory laws (PDF), visit DEC's website.

To contact an ECO or Investigator to report an environmental crime or to report an incident, call 1-844-DEC-ECOS for 24-hour dispatch or email central.dispatch@dec.ny.gov (for non-urgent violations).

Long-Awaited Flood Reduction Project Begins End of May in Kohlertown

Jeffersonville, NY - The Kohlertown Flood Risk Reduction Project - which is funded in part by the Climate Smart Community Grant Program, Title 15 of the Environmental Protection Fund through the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation - will be starting construction the week of May 30.

"I am thrilled to announce the beginning of this work," said District 5 Legislator George Conklin, who chairs the Legislature's Public Works Committee and represents that part of the County. "It will help many residents and business owners avoid repeated damage to their buildings and properties, as this area has seen way more than its fair share of floods."

The project is overseen by Sullivan County's Division of Public Works, which intends on utilizing an innovatively designed flume to be constructed adjacent to the tributary of the East Branch of Callicoon Creek, approximately 450 feet uphill from the intersection of State Route 52 and County Road 164 near Jeffersonville.

The flume will skim off excess stream flow and transport the flood water directly to the East Branch of Callicoon Creek through a 46" high by 60" wide arch pipeline, reducing flooding down CR 164 and to the south, behind the homes and businesses west of Route 52. The work is being undertaken by Sullivan County Paving & Construction.

Traffic on CR 164 and Route 52 will be regulated by traffic lights in order to maintain a single bi-directional lane on each road when needed. Depending on circumstances, CR 164 may occasionally require brief shutdowns, detouring traffic to Miller Road and Route 52.

Substantial completion is scheduled for the end of July; however, that is only an estimate. For any questions concerning this project, please contact Sullivan County Bridge Engineer Robert Trotta at 845-807-0278 or Robert.Trotta@sullivanny.us.

Attorney General James Co-Leads Bipartisan Coalition of 39 AGs to Protect Communities from the Dangers of Illicit Xylazine

NEW YORK - New York Attorney General Letitia James today co-led a bipartisan coalition of 39 attorneys general in urging Congressional leadership to pass the Combating Illicit Xylazine Act (H.R.1839/S.993), which would provide critical measures to combat the widespread illicit use and trafficking of xylazine and help prevent xylazine-related deaths. Today's letter comes following a surge in overdose deaths nationwide related to xylazine, a potent veterinary medication that has been widely mixed with opioids like fentanyl and is easily obtainable online. Over the past few months, multiple federal agencies, including the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), have issued public alerts about the dangers of xylazine. Most recently, the White House declared fentanyl-adulterated or -associated xylazine (FAAX) an "emerging threat" to the nation.

"New Yorkers, and all Americans, are under threat from yet another dangerous drug that is claiming lives at an alarming rate," said Attorney General James. "When used correctly, xylazine is an important veterinary medication, but it was never meant to be used by humans, especially as an additive to fentanyl. The emergence of xylazine is the latest iteration of the opioid crisis that has claimed thousands of lives throughout the country. We know the grave dangers of these drugs and we must pass the federal Combating Illicit Xylazine Act to provide New York, and all states, with the tools we need to combat this emerging threat before it's too late."

Xylazine is only approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) as a veterinary medicine used to sedate and relieve pain in large animals. In humans, xylazine is known to depress breathing and heart rate, lower blood pressure, and cause unconsciousness, necrosis, and even death. Xylazine is not an opioid, thus existing medications like naloxone are not effective in reversing the drug's effects even if used with opioids.

According to the DEA, there was a dramatic increase in xylazinerelated overdose deaths across the United States between 2020 and 2021, with an increase of 1,127 percent in the Southern region, 750 percent in the Western region, 516 percent in the Mideast region, and 103 percent in the Northeast region. Xylazine has also been linked to hundreds of deaths throughout New York state, with more than 180 fatal overdoses in Monroe County alone since 2019. According to the Office of the New York City Special Narcotics Prosecutor, New York City has also experienced an increase in xylazineinvolved deaths with a jump of 36 percent between January and October of last year compared to the same time period in 2021. Additionally, in 2022, approximately 23 percent of fentanyl powder and seven percent of fentanyl pills seized by the DEA contained xylazine. To prevent the proliferation of FAAX in communities and keep people safe, Attorney General James and the coalition emphasized the importance of the measures outlined in the Combating Illicit Xylazine Act, which includes:

- o Classifying the illicit use of xylazine as a Schedule III drug under the federal Controlled Substances Act;
- o Allowing the DEA to track the manufacturing and sales of xylazine to ensure that it is not diverted;
- o Requiring the U.S. Attorney General, acting through the DEA and in coordination with the FDA Commissioner, to submit a report to Congress detailing the prevalence, risks, and recommendations on how to regulate the illicit use of xylazine; and
- o Ensuring all salts, isomers, and other forms of xylazine are also covered when restricting the drug's illicit use.

Joining Attorney General James in co-leading today's letter are Connecticut Attorney General William Tong, Florida Attorney General Ashley Moody, and Tennessee Attorney General Jonathan Skrmetti. They are joined by the attorneys general of Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

This action is the latest in Attorney General James' efforts to combat the opioid epidemic and keep New Yorkers safe. In March 2019, Attorney General James filed a historic lawsuit to hold various opioid manufacturers and distributors responsible for their roles in the crisis. Attorney General James has recovered more than $2.6 billion to support New York opioid abatement, treatment, and prevention efforts from companies including Teva Pharmaceuticals, Mallinckrodt, Allergan, Endo, McKesson, Cardinal Health, and Amerisource Bergen. Attorney General James has also led multistate coalitions in reaching settlements for billions of dollars with CVS, Walgreens, and Walmart for their role in failing to properly regulate opioid prescriptions. Additionally, Attorney General James has also cracked down on dozens of drug trafficking rings, taken action against drug peddlers, and removed dangerous drugs out of New York communities.

Gillibrand Calls for Investigation of AO-Related Senior Scams

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Today, U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand is calling on the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to assess the prevalence of artificial intelligence (AI)-related scams targeting older adults. Recent reports suggest that scams using AI-powered technology, including voice clones, chatbots, and "deep fake" videos, are a growing problem and may be used to target vulnerable populations, particularly older Americans.

"As artificial intelligence becomes increasingly widespread, older adults are at particular risk of becoming victims of AI-powered scams," said Senator Gillibrand. "The FTC must take this threat seriously and provide Congress with a thorough assessment of the prevalence of these scams and its plan to fight them."

Scammers can use AI-powered technology to create deceptive emails, phone calls, and images. Chatbots can be used to mimic a writing style, find personal information, and generate more convincing fake documents, while voice-cloning technology provides scammers with another avenue for upgraded impersonation. In one recent case, a scammer posing as a kidnapper used voice-cloning technology to duplicate the sounds of a mother's crying daughter and demand ransom.

Senator Gillibrand is asking the FTC to provide answers to the following questions:

- 1. What is the FTC's understanding of recent developments in AI-related scams?
- 2. What information and data does the FTC have on the prevalence of AI-related scams and accompanying risks?
- 3. What steps is the FTC taking or preparing to protect older Americans from AI-related scams?
- 4. Is the FTC preparing to update its counter-scam educational and awareness materials, including the "Pass It On" campaign's materials directly intended for older Americans, to account for the rising risks of AI-related scams?

The full text of Senator Gillibrand's letter to FTC Chair Lina Khan can be found below:

Dear Chair Khan:

As members of the Special Committee on Aging, we write to request information on your efforts to protect older Americans from increasing threats posed by artificial intelligence-related (AI) frauds and scams. Combatting frauds and scams has been a long-standing priority for the Committee across annual hearings, the Committee's fraud hotline, and its fraud book. You recently noted how "generative AI risks turbocharging fraud." While AI contains significant promise as an innovative technology, it can also be manipulated by malicious actors targeting vulnerable populations, particularly older Americans.

Federal Trade Commission (FTC) warnings have noted that scammers can use AI-powered technology, including voice clones and chatbots, to create deceptive emails, phone calls, and images in order to take advantage of consumers and targeted populations. Recent reports suggest that such scams are a growing problem. Voice-cloning technology in particular may facilitate imposter scams by allowing scammers to closely replicate an individual's voice using just a short audio sample. In one case, a scammer used this approach to convince an older couple that the scammer was their grandson in desperate need of money to make bail, and the couple almost lost $9,400 before a bank official alerted them to the potential fraud. Similarly, in Arizona, a scammer posing as a kidnapper used voice-cloning technology to duplicate the sounds of a mother's crying daughter and demand ransom.

Chatbots can also be used to mimic a writing style, find personal information, and generate more convincing fake documents, while "deep fake" videos and other AI-generated images can provide scammers with another avenue for upgraded impersonation. For older Americans, targeted by countless scams every year that result in multimillion-dollar financial losses, anxiety, and even anguish, this threat of powerful, newly enhanced fraud is acute.

As the FTC considers reasonable strategies to safeguard older Americans from frauds and scams, we request that you provide the following information by June 20th, 2023:

- 1. What is the FTC's understanding of recent developments in AI-related scams?
- a. What, if any, analyses are available to help policymakers better respond to them?
- b. How is the pace of innovation and improvements in AI technology likely to influence the incidence of these scams?
- c. Are there any specific policy suggestions that FTC can highlight to protect older Americans from these scams?
- 2. What information and data does the FTC have on the prevalence of AI-related scams and accompanying risks?
- a. How do these scams affect older Americans?
- b. Are older Americans at higher risk of being targeted?
- 3. What steps is the FTC taking or preparing to protect older Americans from AI-related scams?
- a. To what extent is the FTC working with other agencies and state and local governments to identify and combat the unique threat and challenge these scams pose to older Americans?
- b. To what extent is the FTC partnering with private sector actors to develop options that could better protect older Americans from these scams?
- 4. Is the FTC preparing to update its counter-scam educational and awareness materials, including the "Pass It On" campaign's materials directly intended for older Americans, to account for the rising risks of AI-related scams?
- a. What other resources can FTC make available on these scams to help inform and protect older Americans?

Statement from Sullivan County Legislature Regarding NYC Busing People to County

Monticello, NY - On behalf of the Sullivan County Legislature, Chairman Robert A. Doherty released the following statement last week:

With less than 24-hour notice, Sullivan County had been informed that 80 New York City social services clients are being transported today from the City to the Knights Inn in Liberty.

The way the City, New York State and the Federal government are approaching this issue is reckless and unsustainable, as many County leaders have said across the State. In Sullivan's case, we fear that this will displace a number of our otherwise-homeless residents, who we house in this and other lodging establishments.

Speaking on behalf of my colleagues on the Legislature, we in no way agree with this forced approach to a problem that leaders at the City, State and Federal level have had years for which to plan. By this action, they are unfairly and illegally making their problem our problem.

Sullivan County will do what it needs to do - including availing itself of all rights and remedies provided by law - to oppose this ill-timed and poorly planned process, while at the same time ensuring the safety of our residents and businesses, and those who come here.

UC Executive Jen Metzger has released the following statement:

"At this time, Ulster County has not been contacted by the New York City government regarding the relocation of migrant asylum seekers to temporary housing in Ulster County. We are taking proactive steps to prepare for any possible developments and continue to actively monitor the situation. I want to thank Governor Kathy Hochul for traveling to Washington yesterday to meet with Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas and members of the New York Congressional Delegation to press for expedited federal resources to address this crisis.

Ulster County is committed to protecting all of our residents and providing them with the safety, respect, and dignity they deserve. I will continue to engage with every level of government to ensure that we are meeting that commitment."

Approval

KINGSTON, NY - Ulster County Executive Jen Metzger announced today that she has appointed Roseann Daw as Commissioner of Finance. Daw comes to Ulster County with over 25 years of accounting and managerial experience, including in all aspects of accounting and in office management, and staff supervision. The appointment is subject to approval by the County Legislature.

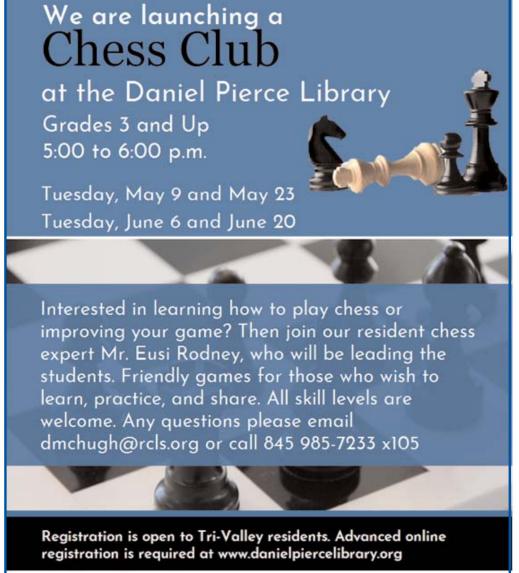

"Roseann Daw has the integrity, leadership skills, and decades of experience necessary for this important position, and I know that she will hit the ground running on Day 1," said Ulster County Executive Jen Metzger. "I am confident that Rosann will lead the finance department with a commitment to open and transparent government, and will ensure the highest level of efficiency and accountability."

"I am excited and honored to be chosen for the position of Commissioner of Finance for the County of Ulster and look forward to working with and being a part of the County Executive's team in strengthening the County's financial health," said Roseann Daw.

Roseann Daw has been serving as the Controller of Ellenville Regional Hospital for the past seven years and has garnered more than 25 years of solid accounting experience with an emphasis on strong internal controls, and improved, streamlined processes. She has previously held the positions of Fiscal Administrative Officer for the County of Sullivan and Assistant Controller for Sullivan County Community College. She holds a Bachelor of Professional Studies in Accounting from Empire State College and a Master of Business Administration degree from SUNY New Paltz, and is a Certified Payroll Professional. Daw currently lives in Neversink with her fiancée and son.

Wrapping up Another Week in Washington Congressman Pat Ryan

As we wrapped up another productive week, I wanted to give you an update on all that I've been doing on behalf of the Hudson and Delaware Valleys!

FIGHTING FENTANYL TRAFFICKING

Stopping the fentanyl epidemic isn't about partisan politics- it's about public safety. No mother in Chester, father in Kingston, or grandparent in Beacon should have to experience the pain of losing a loved one to an over-

I joined with a bipartisan group of local elected leaders on a letter calling on the U.S. House Committee on Appropriations to increase funding and resources to stop the flow of fentanyl into our communities.

We must act now. We need to attack the crisis head-on and crack down on nation's mental health crisis with meaningful legislation. this drug that is devastating Hudson Valley families. FIGHTING FOR EQUAL HEALTHCARE FOR SERVICE MEM-BERS

Our service members fight to protect this country every day - they shouldn't also have to fight for equal healthcare.

I'm proud to cosponsor the Access to Contraception for Servicemembers and Dependents Act that was introduced this week during Women's Health Week and Military Appreciation Month. The bill will ensure that all TRICARE enrollees have access to:

Coverage of contraceptives without cost-sharing, the same as civilians Comprehensive DoD-provided family planning programming

Emergency contraceptives for sexual assault survivors

PROTECTING WOMEN'S HEALTH

I served 27 months in combat fighting to protect our foundational freedoms and that includes a woman's right to make her own healthcare deci-

Amidst extreme attacks on a woman's right to choose, I'm continuing that fight in Congress.

For Women's Health Week, here's a look at some of that work so far:

THANKING LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT

During this National Police Week, I want to thank the police officers of MODERNIZING HUDSON VALLEY INFRA-NY-18 for your service to our communities and for the great risks you undertake to keep us and our loved ones safe.

I will keep fighting every day to get you the resources and support you deserve. Last year, I announced that Hudson Valley local law enforcement agencies received $2.6 million in federal funding from the Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) Program.

Learn more about how we can bring more grant funds home to the Hudson Valley through the Department of Justice's Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) program to hire community police, develop and test innovative policing strategies, and provide training and technical assistance to community members, local government leaders, and all levels of law enforcement.

WORKING TOWARDS COMMON SENSE GUN CONTROL

Last Sunday marked one year since the supermarket shooting in Buffalo, New York. This upcoming Wednesday, we will remember the lives lost due to gun violence at Robb Elementary in Uvalde, Texas.

Enough. This week, the Congressional Gun Violence Task Force met to discuss our work towards passing common sense gun control.

I'm proud to already cosponsor the Assault Weapons Ban of 2023, Ethan's Law for safe storage, and the Enhanced Background Checks Act of 2023 and I will continue to proudly work towards legislation that will keep our children and communities safe.

MAKING MENTAL HEALTHCARE ACCESSIBLE

May is Mental Health Month. Everyone should have access to the care and support they need - it saves lives, creates stronger communities, and builds a more resilient nation.

Our federal government is working to make accessing care easier. HHS launched FindSupport.gov to help anyone find the mental health resources that are right for

As a member of the Bipartisan Addiction and Mental Health Task Force, I'm committed to addressing our I also encourage you to check on those around you and know that you are each an invaluable member of the Hudson Valley community. Together, we can strengthen the connections that make the Hudson Valley home to all.

HONORING OUR ARMED FORCES

Saturday was Armed Forces Day. Thank you to my brothers and sisters in uniform for your bravery, unshakable faith in our country's ideals, and sacrifices that allow us all to live in safety and freedom.

From being the first West Point graduate to represent the USMA in Congress, to serving on the House Armed Services Committee, know that I am working to honor your service with the resources and support you deserve.

PLANNING A HOMECOM-ING TO WEST POINT

I'm honored that this week I was named to West Point's Board of Visitors. I cannot wait for the homecoming at the Board's next meeting on Monday, July 24.

STRUCTURE

It may be Infrastructure Week here on the Hill, but the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law (BIL) is making it Infrastructure Decade in the Hudson Valley.

From bridge replacements and repairs in Highlands, Cornwall, and New Windsor to cleaning the Hopewell Precision Superfund site in East Fishkill, you can track every project coming to NY-18 on the GSA's BIL interactive maps dashboard.

On the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, I'm looking forward to continuing to bring federal dollars back to NY-18 projects to make the Hudson Valley a safer, cleaner home for us all. (Contd. Pg 54)

MAKING EV ACCESSIBLE TO RURAL COMMUNITIES

As Ulster County Executive, I fought to bring a green bus fleet to the streets. In Congress, I want to ensure that the future of electric vehicles can be accessible to all communities, no matter where you live.

The Energy and Transportation Agencies joined together to produce this toolkit to arm rural communities with the resources to start planning and implementing EV infrastructure projects and ultimately realize the benefits of electric transportation.

Keep an eye out for grants announcements, like the Department of Transportation's new Charging and Fueling Infrastructure (CFI) Discretionary Grant Program that can help make a green future your community's reality.

GRANTS CORNER

REMINDER! Applications are open for:

The Enhancing Agricultural Opportunities for Military Veterans Program provides grants to non-profits to increase the number of military veterans gaining knowledge and skills through comprehensive, hands-on and immersive model farm and ranch programs offered regionally that lead to successful careers in the food and agricultural sector. The program encourages the development of training opportunities specifically designed for military veterans.

The Promoting Resilient Operations for Transformative, Efficient, and Cost-Saving Transportation (PROTECT) Program will plan for and strengthen surface transportation to be more resilient to natural hazards, including climate change, sea level rise, flooding, extreme weather events, and other natural disasters through formula and competitive discretionary grants.

The U.S. Department of Transportation's new Charging and Fueling Infrastructure (CFI) Discretionary Grant Program , established by the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, will provide $2.5 billion over five years to a wide range of applicants, including cities, counties, local governments, and Tribes. This round of funding makes up to $700 million from fiscal years 2022 and 2023 funding available to strategically deploy EV charging and other alternative vehicle-fueling infrastructure projects in publicly accessible locations in urban and rural communities, as well as along designated Alternative Fuel Corridors (AFCs). Gillibrand, Delauro Introduce New and Improved Family Act in Fight for Universal Paid Leave

- Far Too Many Americans Left Vulnerable With Paid Leave Legislation Enacted in Just 11 States and DC;
- Nearly Every Single Worker Will Need Paid Leave At Some Point, Whether They Are Dealing With Another Pandemic Or A Personal Emergency

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Today, U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand (D-NY) and U.S. Representative Rosa DeLauro (D-CT) are introducing an updated version of their signature legislation to create a permanent, national paid family and medical leave program, the Family and Medical Insurance Leave (FAMILY) Act. The FAMILY Act would ensure that every worker, no matter the size of their employer or if they are self-employed or part-time, has access to paid leave for every serious medical event, every time it's needed. Paid medical and family leave is especially helpful for new parents and older Americans, who are more likely to have health issues or caregiving obligations for older relatives. Notable improvements in this year's introduction of the bill include expanding benefit eligibility to truly cover all workers, bringing the definition of "family" into the 21st century, a progressive wage replacement rate for benefits, no unpaid waiting period to receive benefits, and extending leave benefits to cover non-medical needs in relation to sexual or domestic violence.

"Without universal paid leave, millions of Americans must choose between their livelihood and the health and well-being of themselves and their families. After ten years fighting for paid leave, we are still the only industrialized nation without this essential program," said Senator Gillibrand. "I am proud to join my partner, Representative DeLauro, to introduce an improved version of the FAMILY Act with marked changes that will help serve all workers and all loved ones for major life events. Now is the time to deliver on paid leave for the future of our families, our middle class, and our country."

"Thirty years ago, we broke ground by enshrining the Family and Medical Leave Act into law, providing unpaid family and medical leave for working Americans," said Congresswoman DeLauro. "Let's break ground again by making it paid. Since 2013, I have been proud to be joined by Senator Gillibrand in introducing the FAMILY Act, which would establish the nation's first universal, comprehensive paid family and medical leave program. This year, the fight continues, as we reintroduce a strengthened FAMILY Act to meet families where they are now and ensure no one has to make the impossible choice between their job and the health of themselves or their loved ones."

Gillibrand and DeLauro's FAMILY Act delivers a key solution to the country's public health and economic challenges and is modeled on successful state programs. This year's introduction of the FAMILY Act includes notable changes that strengthen paid leave protections for all workers. Most notably, the new bill would:

1. Bring the definition of "family" into the 21st century: The new definition of "family" ensures a broader range of caregiving relationships are covered, including a spouse, registered domestic partner/civil union partner, spouse or domestic partner's parent (parent-in-law), children of any age, child's spouse (child-in-law), parent, parent's spouse (step-parent), sibling, sibling's spouse (sibling-in-law), grandparent, grandparent's spouse (step-grandparent), grandchild, grandchild's spouse (grandchild-in-law), or any other individual who is related by blood or affinity and whose association with the individual involved is equivalent of a family relationship.

Previously, "family" for caregiving eligibility was defined as: spouse, domestic partner, parent, or child under 18 or age 18 or older if incapable of self-care because of a physical or mental disability.

- 2. Expand eligibility to cover all workers who have worked in the past two years: The new bill expands benefit eligibility to protect all workers regardless of whether or not they are subject to Social Security taxes. Previously, only workers subject to Social Security taxes would have been eligible for paid leave benefits-excluding certain state and local government employees who are exempted from those taxes. The bill now extends eligibility to any worker who has earned at least $2,000 in income in the prior two years.
- 3. Improve program financing: Previously, the bill applied a 0.4% payroll tax, shared evenly between employers and employees, to income subject to the Social Security taxable wage base, which is currently capped at $160,200. To eliminate the cap on taxable wages and expand eligibility, the new bill instead applies the same payroll tax to the Medicare HI taxable wage base.
- 4. Include a progressive wage replacement rate for benefits: The progressive wage replacement rate still has a $4,000 cap per month and would help working-class and low-wage workers access resources to match their level of need. The progressive wage replacement provides:

o 85% on the first $1,257 of monthly wages o 69% of monthly wages from $1,258-$3,500 o 50% of monthly wages from $3,501-$6,200

Previously, the rate was approximately 67% of monthly wages, up to $4,000 per month.

- 5. Provide safe leave for sexual and domestic violence: The new bill would ensure workers have the ability to take safe leave to address non-medical needs in relation to sexual or domestic violence. These benefits extend assisting family in these activities, including people like parents, siblings, or adult children of any age.
- 6. Remove the unpaid waiting period for benefits: Benefits were not previously available for the first 5 caregiving days.
- 7. Acknowledge legacy states: States with paid leave laws in place can qualify for special status if they demonstrate that their program is at least as generous as the federal program. If a state qualifies for special status, workers will receive benefits through their state program. If a state qualifies for special status and enters into a data-sharing agreement with the federal government, the state program will be reimbursed for the cost of providing benefits guaranteed by federal law.

STATEMENT FROM NYS SENATOR OBERACKER

ALBANY, 05/18/23 -- State Senator Peter Oberacker (R/C - Schenevus) today commented on the ongoing migrant crisis and the potential of more individuals being bussed to rural communities and housed in SUNY dorms in the 51st Senate District.

"The rural communities I represent are not sanctuary cities and are not prepared to house undocumented immigrants being shipped upstate. Local officials requesting additional information are being stonewalled when it comes to even the most rudimentary questions. The lack of transparency is deplorable and it is clear that New York City, Albany, and Washington are simply passing the buck.

"I have grave concerns about utilizing SUNY dorms for immigrant housing. Many of these individuals have not been fully vetted and with summer school and youth sports camps taking place on many campuses, security questions are appropriate. Additionally, the absence of a comprehensive long-term plan leaves no guarantee that the dorms will be cleared and ready for the return of full-time students in August.

"Many counties I represent have already declared states of emergency and others will be following suit because they cannot handle this unplanned influx - they need to be respected."

Senator Oberacker Demands Transparency on Migrant Crisis

Cosponsors legislation supporting local control and protecting vulnerable populations

ALBANY, 05/17/23 -- State Senator Peter Oberacker (R/C - Schenevus) today joined members of the Senate Republican Conference to call out the lack of transparency and leadership from state and federal officials regarding the rising migrant crisis.

"The rural communities I represent are not prepared to house undocumented migrants being shipped upstate and should not be on the hook for the failures of New York City, Albany, and Washington D.C.," said Senator Peter Oberacker. "Once again, this is a case of passing the buck and usurping the will of local communities. New York City may have declared itself a sanctuary but other communities have not. Additionally, the lack of transparency and proper communication is inexcusable."

New York City Mayor Eric Adams, who indicated the city is struggling to keep up with the incoming flow of migrants, announced he would begin bussing migrants to Rockland and Orange Counties, despite the counties not being properly equipped with resources to handle it. Additionally, other counties are being contacted by the state with an eye toward housing migrants at SUNY campuses.

"Several counties that I represent have already declared states of emergency because they do not have the resources to take on a large influx of migrants. Additionally, forcing other vulnerable individuals into the streets to make way for this surge from outside is flat out wrong. We have already seen this occur in Orange County where homeless veterans were forced to leave a hotel - this is repulsive," added Senator Oberacker.

Senator Oberacker joined his Senate Republican colleagues in sending a letter to the governor asking for greater transparency as to where migrants will be housed, where monies are being spent, and better communication between the administration and local municipalities. The letter reads in part: "With that, local elected officials should have the option to decline hosting migrants in their communities should they not have the necessary accommodations and other resources. This local option is imperative to ensuring local municipalities are held harmless and are adequately prepared."

Senator Oberacker is also co-sponsoring a pair of related bills. SenateBill 6995 would clarify that a local state of emergency supersedes a state of emergency issued by the Governor when the two are in conflict. This would restore local control and allow municipalities to make decisions in the best interests of their communities.

Senate Bill 7009 would protect vulnerable populations - including veterans, victims of domestic violence, and the disabled - by prohibiting them from being ejected from a hotel, motel or shelter in order to make room for migrants.

"We must also recognize that there are very real security concerns that must be taken into consideration. Our country was founded by immigrants and I stand in support of those who come here legally. However, the current vetting process is extremely flawed and the federal government needs to take immediate action and enact policies that will protect the public," added Senator Oberacker

Assemblyman Brian Maher apologizes to vets, hotel and community

Statement from Assemblyman Brian Maher (R,C-Walden): "I am devastated and disheartened upon a conversation with Sharon Toney-Finch at approximately 3:15 p.m. today, where I learned that the information regarding the YIT Foundation about homeless veterans being displaced is false. Their gross misrepresentation of the facts surrounding our homeless veterans is appalling.

"The YIT Foundation purports to protect and support veterans, but the dishonest claims and fabrication of the facts by YIT does enormous harm to our homeless veterans by creating mistrust

"I am no longer affiliated in any capacity with YIT nor offering itny more of my help. I am calling for an immediate investigation by the New York State Attorney General's office and the Orange County District Attorney into the YIT Foundation based on the new information that came to light today.

"While I believed Sharon was telling the truth, I do want to apologize for those that have been negatively impacted since this news broke."

Molinaro Introduces Bipartisan Bill to Protect Telehealth Access for Upstate New Yorkers Living in Rural Communities

Washington, DC - U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro (R-NY-19) today announced he introduced the Protecting Rural Telehealth Access Act. Rep. Molinaro introduced this bipartisan bill alongside U.S. Reps. Chis Pappas (D-NH-1), Lisa McClain (R-MI-09), Jake LaTurner (R-KS-02), Alex Mooney (R-WV-02), and Zach Nunn (R-IA-03). Companion legislation has been introduced in the Senate by U.S. Senator Jeanne Shaheen (D-NH).

The Protecting Rural Telehealth Access Act will expand access to health care and save patients time and money by making permanent Medicare coverage of telehealth services allowed during the COVID-19 pandemic. These changes would include allowing patients to be treated at home, allowing rural health clinics and Federally Qualified Health Centers to provide telehealth services, and expanding coverage of audio-only services for certain conditions.

Rep. Molinaro said, "Access to quality healthcare should not be a luxury reserved for urban areas. Rural communities matter and deserve the same level of care and convenience. That's why I introduced the Protecting Rural Telehealth Act. This bipartisan legislation makes permanent telehealth flexibilities that were originally implemented during the COVID-19 pandemic. In doing so, we will ensure Upstate New Yorkers have access to the care they need, regardless of their zip code."

Rep. Pappas said, "Granite Staters, including those who live in rural areas, have benefitted in numerous ways from the expansion of telehealth. Being able to access care virtually has ensured more people can receive the right care at the right time while saving them both time and money by eliminating transportation costs. Making coverage of telehealth services permanent is a practical proposal that benefits patients and providers alike. I want to thank Representatives McClain, LaTurner, Molinaro, Mooney, and Nunn for partnering with me on this legislation, and I look forward to advancing it through the House."

Sounding the Alarm on Governor Hochul's Potential Plan to House Migrants at SUNY Facilities

My office has received information that Governor Kathy Hochul's administration is actively considering using SUNY facilities across New York, including at SUNY Geneseo and SUNY Oswego, to house illegal migrants.

This is a misguided decision that will make our communities less safe and put an enormous burden on local governments and taxpayers, not to mention one that would negatively impact our students.

Without extensive vetting, health screenings, funding, and background information, we have no idea who these migrants even are or where they came from. Just this week, yet another terrorist was apprehended crossing our border, this time from Afghanistan. This unmitigated disaster is a direct result of Joe Biden's open border agenda and Kathy Hochul's policies that have made New York a magnet for illegal immigrants.

Governor Hochul should immediately clarify that SUNY facilities will not be used to house illegal immigrants and take further action to make clear that those who travel here illegally will not receive taxpayer-subsidized housing under New York City's "right-to-shelter" policy, which was never intended to be applied in this context. Upstate New York counties that stand for the rule of law should not be forced to pay the price for those that have embraced disastrous and illegal sanctuary city policies.

Honoring Police Officers Across the United States Saturday marked the end of National Police Week.

Last week, I participated in a wreath-laying ceremony at the National Law Enforcement Memorial, where I laid a wreath to honor Rochester police officer Anthony Mazurkiewicz. Officer Mazurkiewicz, who was raised in Livingston County, was tragically killed in the line of duty in 2022.

And this week, I voted in favor of four pieces of legislation focused on supporting law enforcement officers. Law enforcement officers safeguard our communities, tirelessly dedicating their lives to serving and protecting, and we must stand united in support of these brave men and women. Their unwavering commitment to keeping our communities safe speaks to their valor and integrity.

President Biden MUST Negotiate in Good-Faith on the Debt Ceiling

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wkdNW--0YsA

I joined Newsmax's Wake Up America to discuss the Debt Ceiling crisis facing our nation. Since President Biden took office in January 2021, he and House Democrats have increased the 10-year spending trajectory by $10 trillion. This includes ramming through their $2 TRILLION so-called "American Rescue Plan" that ignited the highest spike in consumer prices in 40 years!

House Republicans are committed to a responsible debt ceiling increase, which is exactly why we passed the Limit Save Grow Act. This legislation will limit Washington spending, return federal spending to 2022 levels, hold future increases in spending to 1% annually, and save $3.6 trillion over ten years.

Marking my 500th Vote Explanation!

Transparency in Congress and a well-informed electorate are vital to preserving our self-governing Constitutional Republic. Constituents deserve to know how their members of Congress vote, which is why I have explained the votes I have cast in Congress since I was first elected. Those I represent will always know where I stand, and I will continue to prioritize transparency, accessibility, and integrity in everything I do on behalf of New York's 24th Congressional District.

To read more about my votes and see the full list with explanations of all the legislation considered this week by the House, please click here.

I voted "Yes" on H.Con.Res. 40, a resolution expressing support for local law enforcement officers and condemning efforts to defund or dismantle local law enforcement agencies. The Defund the Police movement combined with other failed policies like New York's disastrous bail law and attacks on qualified immunity, have led to an increase in crime and hindered law enforcement's ability to keep criminals off our streets. Particularly at a time when crime rates are on the rise throughout the country, it is vital to support our law enforcement officers. This resolution sends a clear message to state and local officials that the new House Republican majority will no longer stand by while these attacks on our public safety continue, an important step in finally turning this tide and backing the blue. This bill passed the House by a vote of 301- 119.

I voted "Yes" on H.R. 3091 the Federal Law Enforcement Officer Service Weapon Purchase Act. Currently, federal agencies needlessly destroy service weapons after they are retired from official use, at a cost to taxpayers. This bill allows law enforcement officers to purchase their service weapon after the weapon is officially retired, which not only saves taxpayers the cost of salvaging the weapon but brings in revenue. In addition to creating a revenue source, this commonsense bill also provides our law enforcement officers with a way of protecting themselves and their families with a tool they already have extensive training with. This bill passed the House by a vote of 232-198. (Contd. Pg. 59)

This Week with Claudia

(From Pg 58) (From Pg. 58) I voted "Yes" on H.R. 2494, the POLICE Act. This legislation clarifies that assaulting a police officer is a deportable offense. Illegal aliens who assault law enforcement officers should be subject to immediate removal from our country. At a time when both crime and illegal immigration have skyrocketed due to the Biden administration's open border policies, we must respond with commonsense legislation such as this to return safety and order to our communities. I am honored to be a cosponsor of this legislation and I am outraged that most of my Democratic colleagues oppose this commonsense bill. This bill passed by a vote of 255-175.

I voted "Yes" on H.Res. 363, a resolution memorializing law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty. This resolution celebrates National Police Week through recognizing the service of law enforcement officers in our society. Among others, the resolution honors Anthony Patrick Mazurkiewicz, a 29-year veteran of the Rochester Police Department. On July 21st, 2022 he was tragically killed in the line of duty, while working a surveillance detail. Officer Mazurkiewicz served our community with great distinction, and I was honored to support this resolution that recognizes his sacrifice. This resolution passed the House by a vote of 412-0.

I voted "Yes" on H.R. 3089, the NDO Fairness Act, which places commonsense limits on the electronic surveillance of Americans. Currently, the federal government is allowed to use Non-Disclosure orders (NDOs) to search an individual's electronic data without giving advanced notice. In response, this bipartisan legislation imposes important limits and qualifications on when NDOs can be granted. These enhanced guardrails would rein in the overuse and indefinite length of NDOs, restore due process and First Amendment protections for American citizens, and limit the ability of the federal government to disrupt the efforts of investigative journalists. Under the existing system, NDOs can be easily abused, but this important bill will fix our broken system. This bill passed 413-2.

The Town of Fallsburg would like to remind Residents of the Town of Fallsburg to sign up for the pop-up food pantry

Fallsburg, NY - The Town of Fallsburg would like to remind everyone about the launch of a new pop-up food pantry program. "We are excited to launch this program and provide a muchneeded resource to our community, I strongly urge everyone to sign up so we can account for the amount of food that should come" said Rappaport. "We hope that the program will not only address food insecurity but also bring our community together in support of one another."

"Knarf's Classic Movies"

And Justice For All

Yes, today –another time that tries men's souls. The message delivered by that Great Actor Al Pacino in this wonderful TCM family classic FILM, (2h 1979 Courtroom/Drama Rated TV-MA)

A defense lawyer with an immovable sense of integrity is confronted with defending a powerful judge whom he suspects is not so cool in the integrity department?

Directed by Norman Jewison, and starring, Al Pacino, Jack Warden, Lee Strasberg, former instructor at the Strasberg School of acting in the West Village.

This film inspired the And Justice for All album –the fourth studio album by American heavy metal band METALLICA –released on September 7, 1988 by Elektra Records. It was the first album following the death of bassist Cliff Burton in 1986, and the first to feature new bassist Jason Newsted.

METALLICA recorded the album with producer Flemming Rasmussen over four months in early 1988 at One on One Recording Studios in Los Angeles. It features aggressive complexity, fast tempos, and few verse-chorus structures. It contains lyrical themes of political and legal injustices, such as governmental corruption, censorship, and war. The cover, designed by Stephen Gorman based on a concept by Metallica guitarist James Hetfield and drummer Lars Ulrich, depicts Lady Justice bound in ropes. The album title is derived from the American Pledge of Allegiance. Three of its songs were released as singles: "Harvester of Sorrow", "Eye of the Beholder", and "One". The title track was released as a promotional single.

KNARF'S CLASSIC MOVIE'S KOREAN WAR ON AMAZON PRIME, IMOB,

THE STEEL HELMET (1951 / 1hr 25min / Action / Korea / War)

The Steel Helmet is a 1951 American war film directed, written, and produced by Samuel Fuller during the Korean War. The cast stars

Gene Evans, Robert Hutton, Steve Brodie, James Edwards, and Richard Loo. It was the first American film about the war, and the first of several war films by Fuller.

THE MANCHURIAN CANDIDATE

The Manchurian Candidate is a 1962 American neonoir, psychological political thriller about the Cold War and sleeper agents. The film was directed and produced by John Frankenheimer. Screenplay by George Axelrod and based on the 1959 Richard Condon novel The Manchurian Candidate. The film's leading actors are Frank Sinatra, Laurence Harvey, and Angela Lansbury, co-starring Janet Leigh, Henry Silva, and James Gregory.

The plot centers on Korean War veteran Raymond Shaw. Shaw is brainwashed by communists after his Army platoon is captured. He returns to civilian life in the United States, where he becomes an unwitting assassin in an international communist conspiracy to subvert and overthrow the U.S. government. The film was released in the United States on October 24, 1962, at the height of U.S.-Soviet hostility during the Cuban Missile Crisis.

VIETNAM WE WERE SOLDIERS

(R / 2002 / 2hr 18min / Action / History)

A 2002 American war film written and directed by Randall Wallace and starring Mel Gibson. Based on the book We Were Soldiers Once... and Young (1992) by Lieutenant General (Ret.) Hal Moore and reporter Joseph L. Galloway, it dramatizes the Battle of Ia Drang on November 14, 1965.

AMERICAN SNIPER

(2014, R | 2h 13min | Action, Biography, Drama |) This Clint Eastwood drama played it smart, slowly releasing the film into just a few theaters to build word of mouth, before opening the film wide. This slow burn release was accompanied by an incredibly strong marketing campaign that showed intense scenes from the film where sniper Chris Kyle is forced to decide whether to shoot a woman who may or may not be carrying a weapon. And then, of course, there was the resulting controversy after the film opened - as some were outraged by Kyle's purported real-life indifference to taking lives in Iraq. The film became a sort of litmus test for left vs. right, and in doing so, received huge amounts of free publicity, becoming the "talked about" movie of the moment. All of this helped propel American Sniper to be both the highest grossing R-rated movie of all time and the highest grossing war film of all time.
