Tri-Valley Lions Dinner Meeting at Casa Mia

The Tri-Valley Lions had its first in-person Dinner Meeting on Monday, November 7, 2022 at Casa Mia in Hurleyville, NY. It was wonderful to meet in person over dinner and get reacquainted with our members, many of whom we haven't seen in person since the start of Covid. It was a terrific and warm meeting, and we accomplished many tasks. Adele Barnard, Chairperson of the Route 42 Community Playground Project Committee, was our guest speaker and discussed the particulars of the project which will install a playground designed to accommodate ages 2 thru 12 at the Ballfield on Route 42 in Grahamsville. After hearing the rationale for the playground and how it was being funded, the Tri-Valley Lions donated $500 toward the Playground Project.

Based on successful fundraising events at the Soda Booth for this year's Annual Little Worlds Fair, Antique Machinery Show, Sportsmen Youth Day, and Pumpkin Party, the membership of the Tri-Valley Lions once again agreed to donate $500 each to the following 5 Churches for their Food Pantries and/or Holiday Food Baskets to those in need in their community: Grahamsville United Methodist Church, Grahamsville Reformed Church, Ulster Heights Methodist Church, Immaculate Conception Church in Woodbourne, Claryville Reformed Church. See photos of Lion Carmen Salvemini presenting the $500 Tri-Valley Lions check to Father Ignas Das of Immaculate Conception Church, and Lion Leah Exner presenting $500 check to Colleen Lepke, Food Pantry Coordinator for Ulster Heights Methodist Church in Ellenville. The Immaculate Conception Church hopes to provide some 65 or more food baskets to those in need. (Contd. Pg. 4)

The Rod and Gun Club Hall in Grahamsville is being offered for sale. The principal use of the hall has been for town elections and for town meetings the last few years. The Rod and Gun Club, which owns the hall, has not been very active this past year and seeks to dispose of the property. At one time the hall was the only meeting place in the village and was in great demand for all large gatherings.

The first edition of the Ellenville Times was published last Thursday. Douglas Hasbrouck is the Grahamsville correspondent for this paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schick are the parents of a son, Stephan George, born October 29, 1952. Stephan is their second son.

She was married on September 20, 1920 to Myers Groo at the Ellenville Episcopal Church. She was a member of St. Andrews Episcopal Church of Fallsburg: Sullivan County Historical Society and Midland Grange of Woodbourne. Is Anyone Missing a Black & White Goat?

On Monday, November 14 around 10:30 in the morning an adult-sized black goat with white markings around its neck and on its back was standing in the middle of the road about a quarter mile past Peekamoose Lake on Peekamoose Road in Denning.

We tried to get close to the goat, hoping we could see if there was a collar on it, or something to give a clue as to whom it belonged.

The goat retreated about 75 feet up the side of the mountain over the rocks.

We are hoping that it found its way home, or perhaps by getting the word out the owner will be able to track the goat down.

The DEC has been notified.

Our experience was that we had to stop and wait before the goat decided to go to the side of the road.

Please drive a little slower over Peekamoose, as it might decide to go back down in the road again.

Household Hint:

Get Rid of Unpleasant Odors

Has your child's lunch box has taken on the odor of a bouquet of week-old tuna? What about that musty old car trunk? Quit holding your breath every time you open it. Instead, soak a slice of white bread in white vinegar and leave it in the malodorous space overnight. The smell should be gone by morning. Nature Column - L. Red Fox - Friend or Foe

Over the past few years we have seen an increase in the number of red fox in the area, especially in Sundown.

Red fox are master mousers and considered a good friend by some farmers. They will eat big quantities of rodents, along with their diet of berries, fruit, vegetables, rabbits, carrion and of course, poultry.

Red fox(Vulpes fulva) range over most of the U.S. and southern Canada.

Fox meet to mate during the winter. After mating the pair prepare a safe burrow under a rock wall or tree roots for the 4 to 8 pups that will arrive fifty some days later. The pups are born blind and helpless. They have very little fur that is brown or gray. The new red coat usually grows in by the end of the first month. Since red fox have several color phases - black, silver and cross (brown) - any color can occur in the same litter. In two weeks the pups can see but remain down in the den for five more weeks. Then they come out to play near the entrance hole where they retreat to safety at a parental warning bark. Both parents care for their young. The male, or dog fox, will stay around and feed the vixen while she nurses the pups. He will help with teaching the pups to hunt for a few weeks until they are independent. If the vixen is killed while the pups are young, the dog fox will raise them himself.

A Red Fox attains a body length, ranging from 18 inches to 35 inches up to its tail that the is between 13 inches and 21 inches when mature. An adult a Red Fox will reach a height between 14 inches and 20 inches at the shoulder.

The length of the front footprint of the Red Fox has a dimension of 2.4 inches with a breadth of 1.8 inches, whereas its back footprint has a length of 2.2 inches and a breadth of 1.5 inches. A fox will trot at a velocity, ranging from 3.7 to 8 mph and have a maximum sprinting velocity of 31 mph. They are extremely nimble. They are competent and can jump a 6 foot fence and they are good swimmers, too.

Red fox belong to the dog family and can suffer from diseases like mange, distemper and a canine bronchitis. They can also carry rabies.

The average life span of the Red Fox ranges from 2 years to 5 years in the wild.

Red fox live in many diverse habitats including forests, grasslands, mountains, and even deserts. They also adapt well to human environments such as farms, suburban areas, and even large communities. The red fox's resourcefulness has earned it a legendary reputation for intelligence and cunning.

There were quite a few of us in Sundown who prided ourselves on our egglaying poultry pets and viewed the fox as Jaws dressed in fur! To each of us and our flock of hens, the Red Fox was a foe. Each of us had different deterrents to keep them away, but there was none that was a 100% guarantee. The fox outwitted us and on occasion had chicken dinner!

Among the suggestions were: get a large guard dog; get goats; spread lion dung (not a popular import) around the yard; human urine; electric fences. We tried everything but getting goats and spreading lion dung. Eventually we found a new home for our flock of hens. Fortunately, our friend and the flock's new owners have a very efficient setup designed for chicken safety, and they have goats, too!

No wonder farm fresh free-range eggs are so expensive!

Once we didn't have the makings for a fox gournet dinner \neg -chicken feed and hen -the neighborhood Red Fox was forced to eat rat, thus taking care of the prolific rat family that made their home close to the chicken coop. The Red Fox became our friend and we have to admit they are especially entertaining in spring as they frolic in the fields playing with their young pups.

Tri-Valley Lions Dinner Meeting at Casa Mia

(From Pg. 1) Special thanks to all volunteers who helped at the soda booth for events, but particularly to Hugh Delaney, Gary Buley, Tom Manell, Lauree Novogrodsky, and Mike Ryan - all who spent many, many hours coordinating and managing booth events and tasks. Of course, thanks to all who stopped by our booth to say hi, purchase beverages, and give generous donations. Without the support of all who stopped by our booth, none of what we do could be done, so a big THANK YOU to one and all.

Lion Stuart Wizwer updated the number of students who received sight screenings at Tri-Valley School to 160 students, with 30 of them requiring referrals. In addition to Lion Stuart, Lions Claire Rennison, and Lion Lauree Novogrodsky assisted with these screenings. We were also informed that while Tri-Valley student Santino Haffner won the local Lion Peace Poster Contest, that his poster did not go further in the District Peace Poster Contest. Santino's gorgeous and thoughtful Peace Poster was displayed at Monday's dinner meeting for all to see. Lions Leah Exner, Claire Rennison, Lauree Novogrodsky, and Esta Jacob judged the local Peace Poster Contest. The Tri-Valley Lions approved sending appreciation checks to both Santino and to art teacher, Maureen Winter, to be used for the Tri-Valley Art program.

As you can see, the Tri-Valley Lions truly help those in our community in so many ways. We are always looking for new members who are passionate about helping our community and the missions Lions serve, such as Sight, Hearing, Diabetes, Feeding the Hungry, and so much more. If you have any questions about Lionism or would like to explore becoming a member of the Tri-Valley Lions, don't hesitate to contact Lion President, Stephen Miller at 845-798-1981 or sgrecords@hvc.rr.com or Lion Stuart Wizwer at 845-798-2152 or stuartwizwer@gmail.com.

We wish one and all a happy, healthy and safe holiday season!

by John Dwaine McKenna

Dark of Night, (Thomas & Mercer, PB, $15.95, 388 pages, ISBN 978-1-6625-0081-7), by Barbara Nickless, continues her inexorable march to fame with the latest installment of the adventures of her endearing and brilliant, but height challenged semiotician, Dr.

Evan Wilding. At four feet six inches tall, his body suffers from dwarfism, but his mind is brilliant as he studies signs and symbols and their relationship to the physical world. He's an expert with Middle Eastern languages, cuneiform and hieroglyphics, a full professor at the University of Chicago, as well as a consultant for the Chicago PD at the behest of Detective Addie Bisset . . . with whom he's in love. But it's a courtly love from afar, unrequited and one-sided, never to be consummated.

Detective Bisset calls Dr. Wilding in when an old friend and mentor of his, Elizabeth Lawrence, is found dead –bitten by an Egyptian Cobra. Wilding is certain her death was murder, based upon his long-standing friendship with the irascible historian. The police believe she may have committed suicide because she had just months to live with terminal cancer. Evan thinks Elizabeth's work with a privately funded biblical museum over some sketchy-provenances in their antiquities acquisitions from the Middle East may be the real reason for her death. That's when Evan meets a stealthy Israeli named Ronen Avraham, a likely Mossad operative who helps in the quest to repatriate looted artifacts which properly belong to the country of origin. Then there's the ethically challenged multi-multi-millionaire named William Kelley, who's financing the museum. Known as the Moses Papyri, the scrolls in question may contradict the known gospels and have the power to re-write biblical history. The problem is that they may have been acquired legitimately, or they may have been stolen by looters. But you'll have to read this outstanding, well-researched and exciting thriller for yourself to find out. Ms Nickless is writing with a style and grace that will put her on every mystery fan's reading list and propel her name to the top of the best-seller charts!!

The Olive Jar by Carol Olsen LaMonda Useless Things

I have come to the conclusion that there are many things in my life that I could easily do without. This is a personal rant, and the complete list is not necessarily one upon all would agree:

Landline telephones Girdles and stockings The box around the plastic bag of cereal Sewn in labels in clothes The Electoral College Changing the clocks twice a year Amounts that end in .99. Just round it to the next dollar. Campaign signs littering the streets Telemarketers Plastic containers (clam shells) that cannot be recycled Negative political ads. Tell me what you stand for...not what y our opponent did or did not do. Two candidates create a "we" versus "them" mentality Three candidates could run at large. Clothing without pockets. Melon ballers Packing peanuts High heel shoes Men's ties

While I am pontificating, I'd like to rid the world of prejudice, Cancer, Covid, homelessness, hunger, and poverty. On those we can all agree.

NYS Environmental Conservation Police on Patrol

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation's (DEC) Division of Law Enforcement enforces the 71 chapters of New York State's Environmental Conservation Law (ECL), protecting fish and wildlife and preserving environmental quality across New York. In 1880, the first eight Game Protectors proudly began serving to protect the natural resources and people of New York State. In 2021, 282 Environmental Conservation Police Officers (ECOs) and Investigators across the state responded to 26,207 calls and worked on cases that resulted in 11,562 tickets or arrests for violations ranging from deer poaching to solid waste dumping, illegal mining, the black market pet trade, and excessive emissions violations.

"DEC Environmental Conservation Police Officers and Investigators are on the front lines each and every day protecting our natural resources by upholding New York's environmental laws and regulations and safeguarding public health," DEC Commissioner Basil Seggos said. "From ensuring hunters and anglers follow rules and regulations afield and on the water, to sustaining partner-ships with local law enforcement agencies investigating crimes that include solid waste dumping and air emissions violations, ECOs and Investigators are on patrol, ready to serve their communities. Each year brings new challenges, and fortunately, these Officers and Investigators are expertly trained to perform their duties with persistence, integrity, and good judgment, as they've done for over a century."

On Oct. 24, ECO Grose received reports from Ulster County 911 about a rollover involving a fuel truck in the town of Olive. The truck was carrying approximately 2,850 gallons of fuel oil and had overturned on its roof. ECO Grose responded along with DEC Spill Responders, Olive Police and Fire Departments, and the New York City Department of Environmental Protection. After several hours of well-coordinated recovery, crews removed the fuel truck from the ditch. The driver suffered minor injuries. However, responders determined the fuel tank was not punctured and none of the fuel oil had leaked into the surrounding New

DEC Forest Rangers -Week in Review Recent Statewide Forest Ranger Actions

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) Forest Rangers respond to search and rescue incidents statewide. Working with other state agencies, local emergency response organizations, and volunteer search and rescue groups, Forest Rangers locate and extract lost, injured, or distressed people from across New York State.

In 2021, DEC Forest Rangers conducted 426 search and rescue missions, extinguished wildfires, participated in prescribed fires that served to rejuvenate hundreds of acres of land, and worked on cases that resulted in thousands of tickets or arrests.

"Over the last decade, as well as during the COVID-19 pandemic, DEC saw an increase in people visiting State lands to experience New York's abundant opportunities for outdoor recreation," said DEC Commissioner Basil Seggos. "DEC's Forest Rangers continue to be on the front lines to help visitors get outside responsibly and get home safely, as well as to protect our state's irreplaceable natural resources. Rangers' knowledge of first aid, land navigation, and technical rescue techniques are critical to the success of their missions, which for more than a century have taken them from remote wilderness areas with rugged mountain peaks, to white water rivers, and throughout our vast forests statewide."

On Nov. 5 at 12:50 p.m., Forest Rangers Franke, Jahn, and Kreft responded to a report of a hiker with an ankle injury approximately one mile into the red trail in Shawangunk Ridge State Forest. Ellenville Volunteer Ambulance examined the hiker at the trailhead and she declined further medical treatment. Resources were clear at 3:30 p.m.

Note from Matthew Mackey -Matthew For Change

While the results may not be what we wanted, I am very proud of the hard fought campaign that we have done for our Assembly District.

I want to thank my husband Carlos for being the most wonderful campaign support throughout the last 9 months, all the wonderful volunteers and supporters who believe in our message of change for our district, who phonebanked, textbanked, knocked on doors, and who donated. There are so many people that have worked so hard for our campaign, and I truly appreciate each and everyone of you.

I also want to Thank Brian, my opponent for keeping our race civil, unlike most races that we have recently seen. I wish him the best on the next phase of his career.

I will be taking some time to reflect, catch my breath, and recooperate, but know that I am in Good Spirits! This is not the last you have heard from me District 101, onward to the next race!

Josh Riley – Concession Statement

Growing up here, I learned some important values: work hard; be humble; have each other's backs; there's more that unites us than divides us. I also learned the importance of grace in defeat.

I've called Marc Molinaro to congratulate him on his hardfought victory, to wish him all the best in Congress, and to thank his family for the sacrifices they've made in the spirit of public service. I appreciate Marc's stated commitment to opposing a national abortion ban, improving funding for mental health services, and creating good jobs in Upstate New York.

With the ballots cast, votes counted, and campaign ended, it's important to set aside our divisions and do our best to unite. It's in that spirit that I wish Marc success as he goes to Washington to serve us and represent us.

This is not the result we had hoped for, and I'll be honest: I'm disappointed. But I'm not discouraged. In fact, quite the opposite: this campaign has inspired me. It has been the privilege of my career to build this campaign with all of you and take it across Upstate New York, meeting with so many people who have given me hope.

There was the little girl I met in Chatham who was fighting cancer – who was going through so much yet had a huge smile on her face as she told me about her new passion –horses. It offers perspective: with all the challenges in the world, it's our kids who know best.

There was the farmer I met in Tompkins County who had opened up her land so that Burmese refugees who had come to America could continue their own farming traditions in their new land, on hers –a reminder that what really makes America great is our diversity and our generosity of spirit.

There have been so many workers and entrepreneurs I've met along the way who share my vision for building a new economy that works for working families. Let's invest right here at home, creating the high-tech jobs of the future, making the things the world needs to meet this moment –solar panels, semiconductors, clean energy batteries. Good jobs. Good wages. Good benefits. A clear path to the Middle Class and a brighter future.

I told my team last week, I don't know if we will win or lose, but I do know that we will not be outworked. And we weren't. My campaign team is the best team I've ever been part of, and I'm eternally grateful to them. There's one person who, by far, did more than anyone to make this campaign possible: my wife, Monica. She's been my closest advisor, my best friend, and the love of my life. She's been my partner throughout this campaign, and there's nobody I'd rather have as my partner in whatever we do next.

My son, Patricio, is too young to appreciate all this campaign has entailed, but I'm old enough to appreciate the perspective and inspiration he's given me to do it. Being his dad is and always will be my most important and gratifying role.

And most of all, I want to thank everyone who supported our campaign. You stepped up and participated in our Democracy at a time when it would have been easier not to. For everyone who was part of this effort-knocking doors, making phone calls, chipping in, offering encouragement -there are no words to express how much it means to me, how much it has inspired me, and how much it has kept me going -so thank you.

With gratitude and high hopes, I offer my congratulations to Marc Molinaro and my endless thanks to Upstate New York.

Letter to the Editor

Lessons From The Ukraine War

After occupying the Crimea in 2014 without any pushback by world powers, President Putin decided to invade Ukraine in the east in 2022. He and his puppet advisors thought the Russian military would quickly vanquish Ukraine, but the Ukrainians, with equipment support from NATO, have put up a fierce resistance.

The destruction of civilian infrastructure by Russia has infuriated the Ukrainians and hardened the resolve of world powers to help Ukraine. The Ukrainians are fighting to preserve their country and have the advantage of territorial knowledge. Also, elements of the Russian army have tortured, sexually assaulted and murdered Ukrainian civilians, which has stiffened Ukrainian resistance.

Ukraine is fighting an undeclared proxy war for NATO, and the NATO military support could have a long term impact for peace in Europe by standing up to Russian aggression in Ukraine. The supply of military equipment to Ukraine by NATO, including massive amounts of military hardware and ammunition by the U.S., has enabled it to conduct operations to defend the country. Additional sophisticated drones, antiaircraft missiles, and long range missiles should be added to the arsenal. We are obligated to help Ukraine because we convinced Ukraine in 1991 to give up its arsenal of nuclear weapons and send them to Russia in return for U.S. security guarantees.

NATO countries now realize they have to increase their military forces in response to Russian ambitions in Europe, and NATO should expeditiously approve Ukraine's admission and then deploy defensive military forces into Ukraine.

The U.S. has gained valuable military planning information about the Russian military, including the use of our weapons systems against them. This could help us in the future if we have to implement military planning and operations against Russian forces. Additionally, the Ukraine War is depleting Russia's military equipment and bloodying its military personnel.

Proposed 2023 Sullivan County Budget Doesn't Increase Taxes, Ends Solid Waste Fee No Layoffs; New Initiatives Announced

Monticello, NY - County Manager Joshua A. Potosek today presented a 2023 Tentative Sullivan County Budget to the Legislature that continues to reduce debt, expands existing services, avoids layoffs and eliminates the unpopular Solid Waste Access Fee - all without raising taxes.

"As proposed by my office, the 2023 Tentative Sullivan County Budget prioritizes what's important to our residents: tax relief, debt reduction, road and bridge investment, and costeffective government," Potosek said. "At the same time, it does not burden taxpayers with further tax hikes but carefully positions the County for a stable financial future."

The $ 267,069,580 budget, as currently proposed, actually features a slight tax rate decrease, projected to be .127%. It does not propose incurring new debt or dipping into the fund balance of the General Fund.

Full details of the budget are available via a new "digital budget book" at https://county-sullivan-ny-budget-book.clear-gov.com/5073 (also accessible through www.sullivanny.us).

"This is more than an online budget viewing tool," noted Potosek. "It allows users to easily search for information, quickly find what they're most interested in, and even generate their own charts and graphs. It opens up our books like never before, ensuring government transparency."

Highlights of the Tentative 2023 County Budget include: o An historic $21 million for road and bridgework throughout the County, to be achieved without going into debt by bonding o $5 million for a 20-year building plan with County facilities and the creation of an indoor arena at SUNY Sullivan

o $1 million to keep Move Sullivan's buses running along four newly expanded routes

o $200,000 to implement the recommendations of the justcompleted Housing Study

o $200,000 to invest in employee training, higher education and leadership development

o $200,000 to demolish blighted properties via the Sullivan County Land Bank

o $150,000 for a Countywide Parks Master Plan

o Plus more funding for the Sullivan Promise Scholarship (doubling the tuition reimbursement from one year to two years), the Youth Bureau, and the Bureau of Fire's firefighter recruitment effort

The County Clerk's Office and the Department of Motor Vehicles (which it oversees) will renovate their offices to improve workflow and customer service, while the Office of Emergency Management is proposed to add a deputy commissioner and support staff.

"Thanks to the continuingly robust economy, the 2023 Tentative Budget can add staff and services while eliminating short-term debt," Potosek explained. "Nevertheless, we are keeping a close eye on fiscal responsibility, and this budget prepares the County to weather a recession, should it occur."

Legislators now have until December 20 to review, discuss and adopt the budget. They may make changes to the proposed version before it is adopted, and the public is welcome to watch their deliberations during special Management & Budget Committee meetings to be announced over the next month. Meetings will be livestreamed on the Legislature's webpage.

Formal public hearings about the proposed 2023 County Budget will be set in December. In the meantime, written comment is being accepted by Clerk of the Legislature AnnMarie Martin at annmarie.martin@sullivanny.us or 100 North Street, Monticello, NY 12701.

Ulster County Invites the Public to Provide Feedback on the First Phase of Development of a Natural Resources Inventory Project

• Ulster County will host two public workshops to present information and receive feedback during the first phase of developing the County's Natural Passurges Inventory developing the County's Natural Resources Inventory A Natural Resources Inventory was planned as an essential element of the Green New Deal Plan for Ulster County

KINGSTON, N.Y. - The Office of the Ulster County Executive announced today that the County will host two public workshops on November 14th and 16th to provide information and seek input on the development of a Natural Resources Inventory and Municipal Toolkit for Ulster County. The County's Natural Resources Inventory will assemble information on natural features such as streams, wetlands, forests, wildlife, scenic and recreational assets and provide an important foundation for informed land-use planning and decision-making. The Natural Resources Inventory was planned as essential to the Green New Deal Plan for Ulster County.

"In mapping out a Green New Deal for Ulster County, we felt it essential to ensure that where and how we position our environment for economic development, tourism and recreation, energy production and housing is compatible with ongoing resource and ecosystem health," Acting Ulster County Executive Johanna Contreras said. "Including the public is an important first step in developing a countywide Natural Resources Inventory (NRI) that is aligned with our goals to protect our drinking water, identify areas that can support development and needed housing, site solar projects and safely return brownfield sites to productive use."

As part of its Natural Resources Inventory, the County will provide online mapping applications and a municipal toolkit to centralize and simplify access to current natural resource-related information for the public, municipal leaders, planners, conservation organizations, economic developers and educators.

The public workshops will provide stakeholders and the community with an opportunity to learn about the project, help shape the vision and provide information on natural resources in the beginning stages of project implementation. The first will be held in person on Monday, November 14th at 7:00 pm at the Rosendale Recreation Center (1055 Rt 32. Rosendale); the second will be a virtual Public Workshop on Wednesday, November 16th at 11:30 am via Zoom. These are free events, but registration is required (space is limited at the in-person event). Visit https://natural-resources-inventory-ulstercounty.hub.arcgis.com/ to register and learn more.

This project was funded by a grant to Ulster County from the New York State Environmental Protection Fund through the Hudson River Estuary Program of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation.

For more information, contact the Ulster County Department of the Environment at (845) 338-7287 or visit https://naturalresources-inventory-ulstercounty.hub.arcgis.com/

SC Warming Center Opens for the Season

Liberty, NY - Sullivan County will open its Liberty warming shelter tonight (Tuesday, November 15) and keep it open every night of the winter season from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. The shelter is located at the Liberty United Methodist Church at 170 North Main Street.

"In collaboration with the State, we have sufficient funding to keep this warming center available throughout the winter to anyone who needs it, and we're working on doing the same at the Ted Stroebele Recreation Center in Monticello, though that location is not yet in operation," said Sullivan County Health & Human Services Commissioner John Liddle. "In addition to the benefit to the public, staying open seven nights a week makes it easier for our valued partners, who run these shelters, to ensure adequate staffing and supplies."

During the daytime hours, various public buildings (like the Government Center in Monticello), stores and libraries are available as places to get warm, and Sullivan County's Department of Social Services can assist in more challenging circumstances (845-292-0100).

In addition, the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) - which can provide funds for fuel and heating system repair/replacement - is currently taking applications. For more information, call 845-807-0142.

For a warm meal, from 12-1 p.m. Mondays through Fridays (except holidays), the Federation for the Homeless at 9 Monticello Street in Monticello offers takeout food, and afterhours emergency food requests can be made to the Federation at 845-798-8774. The Federation's pantry is open to all (no documentation required) from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. every Friday, as well.

DEC Reminds Outdoor Enthusiasts to Share the Woods Safely this Season New Yorkers Encouraged to be Safe, Responsible, and Respectful during Fall and Winter Hunting Seasons

With the Southern Zone regular big game season beginning Saturday, Nov. 19 throughout much of the southern part of New York State, Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) Commissioner Basil Seggos is encouraging outdoor enthusiasts to respectfully share the woods and follow commonsense safety precautions this fall and winter.

"With most public land across New York State open to multiple forms of recreation, from hiking and nature photography to hunting and trapping, visitors should be cautious, courteous, and responsible when sharing the woods to ensure a safe and enjoyable experience," said Commissioner Seggos. "DEC encourages all visitors to review the safety guidelines for hunting and recreating in the woods before going afield and respectfully sharing the outdoors with others."

DEC requires big game hunters using a firearm to wear hunter orange or pink and encourages nonhunters to wear blaze orange, blaze pink, or another bright color during fall and winter months to be seen more easily and from greater distances. In addition, wearing bright colors makes it easier for Forest Rangers, Environmental Conservation Police Officers, and other rescue personnel to find lost, sick, or injured people afield.

Pet owners are also encouraged to affix a bright colored vest or scarf on their dogs and keep pets leashed at all times. Trapping seasons for many species are open throughout the fall and early winter. Although rare, traps set for furbearers like raccoons and coyotes can also capture dogs that are not under control. Trapping is a highly regulated activity and regulations are strongly enforced. Trappers are required to take an educational course before getting a license and DEC works closely with the trapping community to minimize risks to non-target wildlife and domestic animals.

Hunting is among the most popular forms of wildlife recreation in the state, drawing an estimated 600,000 New Yorkers afield each year. Hunting is safe and economically important, helping to manage wildlife populations and promote family traditions, while fostering an understanding and respect for the environment. Hikers should be aware that they may encounter hunters bearing firearms or archery equipment on trails. Hunters should likewise recognize that they may encounter hikers and others enjoying the outdoors. Hunting-related shooting incidents involving non-hunters are extremely rare and the 2021 hunting seasons in New York were the safest ever, with the lowest number of incidents since record-keeping began.

Hunters can minimize the potential for disturbance by and to other forms of recreation by following a few tips. Before a season opens, when hunters are scouting for the perfect spot or stand location, take the time to check if the planned location is popular. Avoiding locations that crowd other hunters or are near a soughtout hiking spot can improve both the hunting and recreational experience. If a preferred hunting spot is too crowded, identify an alternative location ahead of time.

DEC maintains hiking, biking, skiing, and snowmobile trails in many areas of Forest Preserve lands in the Adirondack and Catskill parks, as well as in State Forests, Wildlife Management Areas, and Unique Areas open to hunting. DEC launched the 'Love Our New York Lands' campaign to encourage visitors to State-owned and managed lands to practice responsible recreation. The campaign is responsive to the steady increase in the number of visitors to State Lands, both during the COVID-19 pandemic and in the decade prior. Love Our New York Lands bolsters ongoing State-and partner-led efforts to educate the public about how to responsibly enjoy outdoor recreation on public lands without negatively impacting natural resources.

Find recreation options by visiting DEC's Trails Less Traveled or checking out DECinfo Locator. Many trails are accessible to people with disabilities. Check out DEC's YouTube playlist, with tips for how to plan and prepare for a hike Hiking Essentials, and DEC's Hunter Education playlist for more information Basic Rules of Hunter Safety.

Hunting Within State Parks

The New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation offers many places to hunt, including 81 parks, three historic sites, three golf courses, and 50 boat launches that provide opportunities to hunt a variety of wildlife including big game, small game, turkey, furbearers, waterfowl, and migratory bird species. In addition to a valid hunting license, all hunters wishing to take advantage of select hunting seasons within State Parks must obtain a regional hunting permit for each park.

DEC Announces Regular Firearms Season for Deer and Bear Hunting in Southern Zone Begins Nov. 19 Hunters Reminded of Additional Opportunities and Responsibilities

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) Commissioner Basil Seggos today announced deer and bear hunting seasons in New York's Southern Zone begin Saturday, Nov. 19. Hunters can continue to enjoy the longer hours, youth hunts, and other changes enacted last year, including requirements for blaze orange and pink to help maintain New York's record of safe hunting.

"The regular firearms season for deer and bear in New York's Southern Zone is the state's most popular big game hunting season, drawing hundreds of thousands of hunters afield each year," Commissioner Seggos said. "As a cherished annual tradition in New York State, these hunting seasons are managed to maximize conservation value and balance deer and bear populations, while providing more than 11 million pounds of quality, locally grown, organic meat to families statewide. I wish all hunters a safe and successful season."

The 2022-23 regular deer and bear hunting seasons in New York's Southern Zone begins Nov. 19, and runs through Sunday, Dec. 11, and includes participation from approximately 85 percent of New York's 550,000 licensed hunters. Harvest during this season accounts for nearly 60 percent of the total statewide deer harvest and a substantial part of the statewide bear harvest.

Following the regular deer and bear seasons in the Southern Zone, late bowhunting and muzzleloading seasons will run from Dec. 12 through Dec. 20, and again from Dec. 26 through Jan. 1. Hunters taking part in these special seasons must possess a hunting license and either bowhunting or muzzleloading privileges.

In the Northern Zone, the regular deer and bear hunting season opened Oct. 22, and will close on Dec. 4. The Northern Zone includes the Adirondacks, Tug Hill Plateau, Eastern Lake Ontario Plain, and the Champlain and St. Lawrence valleys. A late bowhunting and muzzleloading season for deer will be open in portions of the Northern Zone from Dec. 5 through Dec. 11.

For a breakdown of New York's hunting seasons visit DEC's website.

Opportunities for Youth Hunters, Longer Hunting Hours

Again this year, 12- and 13-year-old hunters may hunt deer with a firearm when accompanied by a licensed, experienced adult. This pilot program, established by the New York State Legislature through 2023, applies to counties that choose to participate. The program does not apply to Westchester or Suffolk counties. Of the eligible upstate counties, only Erie and Rockland counties have not opted into the program.

Hunters are reminded that the daily hunting hours for deer and bear now include the full daylight period, beginning 30 minutes before sunrise and continuing until 30 minutes after sunset. Hunters should check the sunrise and sunset times before hunting each day.

Go to: https://www.dec.ny.gov/outdoor/111994.html

Hunters should also remember that anytime they are pursuing deer or bear with a firearm, they must now wear fluorescent orange or fluorescent pink clothing-either a hat, vest, or jacket visible in all directions. New York hunters have an excellent safety record, but this change will make hunters even safer.

Hunters are also reminded to follow the basic rules of firearm safety:

A Job Well Done

Roofs • Decks • Additions • Kitchen • Bathrooms Interior & Exterior Painting and Staining Flood Damage Repairs Foundations • Beam • Sil Plates • Joists Repairs • Concrete Projects 845-500-8057 • Free Estimates

Point your gun in a safe direction. Treat every gun as if it were loaded. Be sure of your target and beyond. Keep your finger off the trigger until ready to shoot.

When hunting in tree stands, use a safety harness and a climbing belt, as most tree stand accidents occur when hunters are climbing in and out of the stand. Also, hunters should never climb in or out of a tree stand with a loaded firearm. Let Young Bucks Go and Watch Them Grow

Hunters are proving that voluntary choice works to yield more older bucks. By choosing to Let Young Bucks Go and Watch Them Grow, New York hunters are now seeing and taking more older bucks than ever before. Older deer yield more meat and have larger antlers.

Hunters are Key Partners in Protecting NY Deer from Chronic Wasting Disease

Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) continues to spread in other states, and hunters have great responsibility to prevent CWD introduction to New York. CWD is always fatal to deer. If introduced, CWD could spread rapidly and be practically impossible to eliminate once established. Hunters can help protect New York's deer herd from CWD by following these tips

If you hunt any type of deer, elk, moose, or caribou outside of New York, you must debone your animal before bringing it back. See CWD Regulations for Hunters. DEC will confiscate and destroy illegally imported carcasses and parts, including whole deer and deer heads.

Do not use deer urine-based lures or attractant scents, as these could contain infectious material.

Dispose of carcass waste in a landfill, not just on the landscape. Report any deer that appears sick or is acting abnormally.

Hunt only wild deer and support fair chase hunting principles.

Take It - Tag It - Report It

With DEC's HuntFishNY mobile app, reporting a deer or bear harvest is easier than ever. Through this mobile app, hunters, anglers, and trappers can access an electronic version of their licenses and report the harvest of deer, bear, and turkey immediately while afield on their mobile device in seconds. Hunters may still use the phone report system (1-866-GAME-RPT) or report online, but the mobile system is faster, more convenient, and easier for hunters to accurately enter information. Reporting your harvest is required by law, so please remember to Take It - Tag It - Report It!

(From Pg. 30) Other Reminders for the 2022 Southern Zone Regular

Hunting Season

Choose non-lead ammunition for high-quality meat and reduced risk of lead exposure to non-target wildlife.

Hunger Has A Cure - Hunters can Donate Venison to help those less fortunate while also assisting with deer management in New York.

For specific descriptions of regulations and open areas, hunters should refer to the 2022-2023 Hunting and Trapping Regulations Guide available on DEC's website. Hunters are urged to review all regulations and safety tips containedLaws (PDF). DEC Recognized 'New York Recycles Day' Annual America Recycles Day Raises Awareness of Recycling's Benefits

Annual America Recycles Day Raises Awareness of Recycling's Benefits New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) Commissioner Basil Seggos recognized Nov. 15 as 'New York Recycles Day,' celebrating the state's leadership in promoting recycling and reducing waste. New York's efforts complement America Recycles Day, a national initiative to raise awareness of the economic, environmental, and social benefits of recycling.

"New York Recycles Day is a reminder for all of us to commit to the core conservation principles of reduce, re-use, and recycle and do our part to help reduce waste going to landfills," Commissioner Seggos said. "New York continues to be a national leader in developing recycling strategies, programs, and policies focused on reducing solid waste and protecting the environment. With the help of all New Yorkers, DEC remains focused on improving the recycling process and helping communities reach the state's recycling goals."

Across the state, individuals, community groups, businesses, schools, and government agencies celebrate New York Recycles Day in a variety of ways, from encouraging others to reduce their waste by pledging to start an office or school recycling program, participating in the New York Recycles poster contest, hosting a reuse exchange, and improving awareness of local recycling requirements. These efforts help educate and inform New Yorkers about the advantages of waste reduction and recycling. Additional information about America Recycles Day events is available at the Keep America Beautiful America Recycles Day website. (Contd. Pg. 32)

DEC Recognized 'New York Recycles Day'

(From Pg. 31) New York State has a long history of implementing many of the nation's strongest recycling initiatives, including the Solid Waste Management Act of 1988, which requires the separation of recyclable or reusable materials from solid waste and has inspired local source-separation programs across the state that have captured and diverted millions of tons of recyclable materials from disposal resulting in the reduction of carbon dioxide emissions, energy usage, and the use of natural resources.

Over the last three decades, New York State has invested millions of dollars in recycling grants through the State's Environmental Protection Fund to support municipal waste reduction and recycling programs with recycling infrastructure, equipment, collection vehicles, local education and outreach programs, and municipal recycling coordinator salaries. Additional targeted funding and focus over the last several years includes food recovery, food waste collection, and organics recycling.

Additional programs to encourage waste diversion in New York include extended producer responsibility programs like the electronic equipment recycling and reuse act, the rechargeable battery recycling law, mercury thermostat collection act, and the drug take-back law, as well product stewardship programs such as the postconsumer paint collection act, lead-acid battery recycling law, and the bottle bill. Bans on single-use items such as plastic bags and expanded polystyrene (foam) reduce litter and make recycling programs more effective by removing these hard to recycle items from the recycling stream.

New York State partners with several of the state's finest research institutions to help tackle the most pressing recycling challenges. In collaboration with the State University of New York (SUNY) University at Buffalo, SUNY Alfred, SUNY College of Environmental Science and Forestry, and Stony Brook University, DEC, is working to increase the recyclability of glass, paper, and plastics, and to boost public awareness of best practices for reduction, reuse, and recycling.

How New Yorkers Can Help 'Recycle Right'

To decrease contamination in recyclables and increase the marketability of those recyclables, DEC encourages all New Yorkers to 'Recycle Right.' Each community has specific recycling rules and all New Yorkers should check with their municipality or waste hauler on the types of paper, metal, plastic and glass items that can be recycled. Recyclables have the best market value when they are clean and dry before being placed in the collection bin. One way contamination can happen is when non-recyclable items that are not accepted in a recycling program are placed in recycling bins throughout the act of "wish-cycling". This causes recyclables to be mixed with non-recyclable material, which harms the recycling stream and reduces the value of recyclables.

To help achieve the State's waste reduction goals and keep land and waterways clean, the New York State Bag Reduction Act took effect on March 1, 2020. This act prohibits the distribution of plastic carryout bags by retailers in New York State and is significantly reducing plastic bag waste. Get more consumer information on the plastic bag ban. The New York State Food Donation and Food Scraps Recycling law took effect this year, requiring businesses and institutions that produce two tons of wasted food per week or more to donate excess edible food and recycle all remaining food scraps through composting or other means if a local facility is able to accept the material. DEC is partnering with Feeding New York State and regional food banks, resulting in over one million extra pounds of food being donated to hungry New Yorkers, while reducing waste and climatealtering emissions caused by landfilling. DEC is partnering with the Center for EcoTechnology to create Rethink Food Waste NY, a program offering personalized recommendations for New York businesses, institutions, and organics recyclers to properly manage food waste and further develop food scraps recycling opportunities. Through a $2 million grant program, municipalities have an opportunity to further develop food scraps recycling initiatives, with prioritization to disadvantaged communities, to tackle food waste in their communities.

Tips to Recycle Right:

Keep recyclable items loose in the bin; do not bag recyclables in plastic bags (unless required by your municipality or waste hauler);

Do not recycle single-use cups and plates, condiment packages, coffee pods, stirrers, straws, paper napkins; plastic cutlery (unless specifically accepted by your local recycling program or recycling hauler);

Return rechargeable batteries to retail recycling locations;

Compost at home or send yard trimmings and food scraps to a local or municipal composting program;

Donate dishware, mirrors, glassware and ceramics if in good condition;

Donate textiles --even if there no longer wearable or useable, as long as they are clean, they can be recycled;

Do not put any type of rope, hose, or twine into your recycling bin; and Return needles to appropriate collection locations. Visit DEC's Household Sharps webpage for more information.

DEC urges the public to "keep it out when in doubt," as contamination in the recycling supply chain reduces the quality of recyclable materials. For more information contact your local recycling coordinator or visit the DEC website for information and resources on the "Recycle Right NY" campaign.

Governor Hochul Issues Proclamation Declaring November as NYS Apprenticeship Month

Celebrates New York's Nation-Leading Apprenticeship Program With More Than 17,000 Registered Apprentices in Various Skilled Trades and More Than 900 Programs Across the State

New York State Department of Labor Kicks Off Statewide Apprenticeships Tour at World-Renowned Tiffany & Co. for U.S. Launch of LVMH's Registered Apprenticeship Program

Governor Kathy Hochul today issued a proclamation declaring November as New York State Apprenticeship Month. The proclamation celebrates New York's apprenticeship program, which is one of the largest in the nation with more than 17,000 registered apprentices in various skilled trades and more than 900 programs across the state. Registered apprenticeships offer a critical pathway for New Yorkers to access quality career opportunities through hands-on learning and direct work experience with high wages and good benefits. The New York State Department of Labor visited Tiffany & Co. today to celebrate the launch of their parent company, LVMH's first New York State Registered Apprenticeship program. NYSDOL will continue to visit other apprenticeship programs all around the state throughout the month.

Apprenticeships act as a critical launch pad for impactful, highwage careers, and we are proud to have one of the nation's strongest and most robust apprenticeship programs right here in New York," Governor Hochul said. "During the inaugural New York State Apprenticeship Month, we celebrate the many local businesses that are expanding opportunities for New York job seekers and the thousands of registered apprentices, labor groups, and trade organizations working to fill critical jobs and build our state's talent pipeline."

New York State has one of the largest apprenticeship programs in the country. There are currently 17,113 registered apprentices participating in various skilled trades in 912 programs powered by 622 sponsors across New York State. Participation in New York State registered apprenticeships continues to grow, with 79 new programs and 15 new trades in the last year alone.

Registered apprenticeships have been the backbone of the construction industry for decades. However, in recent years, companies outside of the construction trades have recognized the value in this educational pathway and launched their own apprenticeship programs. Organizations like the Manufacturers Alliance of New York and companies like Tiffany & Co. are paving the way for the future expansion of apprenticeship programs that will open new doors for New Yorkers and build the state's talent pipeline to fill critical jobs.

"As the entries have poured in, it is remarkable to be in the presence of such creativity. DVAA's 'Sixes' exhibition reminds us every year what incredible artistic talent both emerging and established - there is to be discovered here in the Sullivan Catskills and Upper Delaware Region."

- Ariel Shanberg, DVAA Executive Director Buyable. Giftable. Collectible.

Whether you are an art connoisseur, a browser, a collector, or looking for that perfect gift, "Art in Sixes" is sure to delight and surprise with original artworks in all media -no reproductions are accepted. This year's 'Sixes' features paintings, photographs, sculptures, ceramics, woodwork, fiber arts, collage, and a few surprises. Each artwork is

Opening Reception, Saturday, November 19th, 3pm - 6 pm

With so many collectible artists on display, the "Art in Sixes" opening reception is quite the party. In-the-know collectors scoop up pieces while perusing the gridded walls in search of their next favorite artist. The local arts community gathers and supports their fellow artists over wine and food. Patrons line up to make purchases and claim artworks with a simple red dot marking SOLD.

Young Artists

This year DVAA extended the invitation to local school districts to participate in Art in Sixes. Students were offered free 6-inch canvas boards in what will surely become a yearly tradition.

"This is the first year we reached out to local schools for 'Sixes'. I am really excited to see the young artists' faces when they see their work hanging in the gallery. The kids did a great job!" - Signe Ballew, DVAA Gallery Manager

Attorney General James Cracks Down on Online Ammunition Sellers Illegally Shipping Ammunition to New York OAG Identified 39 Ammunition Sellers Illegally Sending Ammunition to NY Residents

NEW YORK - New York Attorney General Letitia James today cracked down on online ammunition sellers illegally shipping ammunition to New York residents and failing to keep records of these sales. An investigation by the Office of the Attorney General (OAG) found that 39 ammunition sellers have been shipping ammunition directly to New York residents in violation of New York's SAFE Act, which prohibits direct online sales of ammunition to New York residents. Attorney General James sent cease and desist orders to these ammunition sellers demanding that they stop shipping ammunition directly to New York and warned them of serious legal consequences if they continue to violate New York's law.

"Shipping bullets to New Yorkers' doorsteps is illegal and ammunition sellers that ignore the law will face the full force of my office," said Attorney General James. "Online sales of ammunition are dangerous and could end up in the wrong hands. We are taking action to protect communities and enforce our responsible gun laws. Ammunition sellers must stop illegally bringing ammo into New York. My office will continue to use every tool at our disposal to protect the safety of everyday New Yorkers."

New York's SAFE Act requires all ammunition sales to be conducted in person between a licensed firearms dealer or registered seller of ammunition and a customer. The law also requires ammunition sellers to create and maintain a record of every ammunition transaction in New York that includes the age, occupation, and residence of any person buying ammunition. Direct shipments of ammunition and a failure to keep records of ammunition sales in New York violates the SAFE Act and New York's consumer protection statutes. Online ammunition sales are unsafe and illegal because sellers circumvent legal requirements that are intended to protect New Yorkers.

The OAG identified 39 ammunition sellers, including two based in New York, that were illegally shipping ammunition to New York residents. Attorney General James warned sellers that such violations could carry penalties of up to $5,000 for each individual violation and may subject them to disgorgement of all income resulting from these illegal sales. In addition, Attorney General James demanded that the sellers take every necessary step to preserve all physical and electronic records related to these sales.

Today's action continues Attorney General James' efforts to protect New Yorkers from gun violence and enforce New York's responsible gun safety laws. In June, Attorney General James filed a comprehensive lawsuit against 10 gun distributors for illegally selling and bringing ghost gun parts into New York. Earlier this year, Attorney General James sent cease and desist letters to online gun retailers illegally advertising and selling ghost gun parts to New Yorkers.

In April 2021, Attorney General James_sent a letter to U.S. DOJ urging them to strengthen federal regulations on ghost guns. In February 2021, Attorney General James led a coalition of 21 attorneys general from around the nation in filing an amicus brief in the case_Grewal v. Defense Distributed_before the U.S. Supreme Court, where the coalition fought a lawsuit that seeks to stop states from enforcing their laws against a company disseminating dangerous 3D-printed gun files on the internet.

In September 2019, Attorney General James sent cease and desist letters to a number of websites selling ghost gun parts. In July 2020, Attorney General James_announced that all those companies had complied with her cease and desist letters.

To date, Attorney General James has taken more than 3,700 guns out of communities through gun buyback events and takedowns of violent drug and crime rings since taking office in 2019.

Senator Kristen Gillibrand Visits Elizabeth Seton Children's Center

Yonkers, N.Y. - On Saturday, November 5th, U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand visited Elizabeth Seton Children's Center to talk with patients and staff about their work and concerns. Senator Gillibrand discussed the need to create pathways to continue the specialized care of children with medically complex conditions who age out of stand-alone pediatric long-term care facilities like Elizabeth Seton Children's Center. Children age out due to the restrictions enacted through New York State law that limit care to patients 21 years old and younger.

Elizabeth Seton Children's Center is one of NYS's largest nonprofit pediatric residential facilities providing long-term care for medically complex and technology-dependent children. Most of the children and families at Elizabeth Seton Children's Center come from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, with about 99% of families qualifying for Medicaid assistance.

"Ensuring that health care facilities such as Elizabeth Seton Children's Center have the resources they need is critical to providing a full and happy life to children with challenging and limiting medical conditions," said U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand. "Creating residential centers for medically fragile young adults would address significant gaps in our health care system and ensure a continuation of care for those who have aged out but who are too young to enter adult group homes or geriatric nursing homes. Elizabeth Seton Children's plans to build such a center and I support their effort and others like it."

Senator Gillibrand is looking to support Elizabeth Seton Children's Center by working to build a robust health care workforce that is able to support the needs of medically complex patients. She makes yearly requests to increase funding for Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) Title VII health professions and Title VIII nursing workforce development programs.

Age restrictions in New York State law require that once a patient in a stand-alone pediatric long-term care facility like Elizabeth Seton Children's turns 22, they MUST be transferred to an adult care or geriatric facility. Of its 169 medically complex patients, 52 (many of whom are ventilator-dependent) will age out within 5 years, creating a pressing need to find pathways to continue their specialized care that adult and geriatric facilities may not be able to provide. Adult care centers don't have the equipment and staffing to support these patients.

Ulster County Extends Deadline for Artist Submissions for COVID-19 Memorial

• The COVID-19 Commemoration Commission is extending the deadline for artist design submissions to December 15th, 2022

• Ulster County will install a sculpture and memorial garden at the Fairgrounds to commemorate the sacrifices and strength of the community during the pandemic community during the pandemic KINGSTON, N.Y. - The COVID-19 Commemoration Commission has extended the deadline for submitting design proposals from artists for a sculpture that will become the centerpiece of a memorial garden in Ulster County. The Request for Artist Designs will remain open through December 15th. The project, planned for a spring installation at the Ulster County Fairground complex, is to be a space for rest and reflection with interpretive signage linked to a comprehensive website which will feature the stories of front-line workers and other members of the community.

The commission, made up of front line workers ranging from nurses, EMS responders and teachers, to food service, police officers and other essential workers, was established in March of 2022. The effort has multiple prongs of focus, including front line workers who put their lives on the line during the pandemic, community members who were lost, as well as the spirit of unity among neighbors as they banded together.

Designs can be submitted by mail or in person to the Office of the Ulster County Executive at 244 Fair Street, Kingston NY 12401 or through the Ulster County Covid-19 website: https://codev.ulstercountyny.gov/covid-commemorate/ For more information, call 845-340-3800.

Ulster County Voters Sue Reapportionment Commission over Illegal Gerrymandered County Redistricting Map

Kingston, NY, Mid-Hudson Valley, November 9, 2022 - A group of Ulster County Democratic voters today filed a lawsuit in New York State Supreme Court to force the Ulster County Commission on Reapportionment (COR) to comply with an October 2021 New York State law that set a legal standard of 5% difference between the mean population of the largest and smallest county legislative districts.

The Ulster County Legislative redistricting map, officially adopted by the COR on July 13, 2022, does not comply with the 5% standard set by State law.

Recently, the COR was notified by the Ulster County Attorney that their map was out of compliance with Article 4 in Section 34 of the Municipal Home Rule Law 36-A and recommended that the COR recommendent and fix their errors.

However, the COR has not corrected the map and, in an October 18, 2022 letter to the Kingston Daily Freeman, COR chair Regis Obijiski stated: "Ulster County Reapportionment Commission that created the new map has no intention of going back and fixing their mistake...without a court order." The Commission evidently made this decision without holding a public meeting, as required by law.

Essentially, the UC Commission on Reapportionment does not feel it is their responsibility to correct their redistricting errors. The COR Chairperson, Regis Obijiski, has said that the Commission was ignorant of the new law when it approved the map in July.

In the civil complaint, community members argue that the COR's map must be corrected. Failing that, the 23 County legislative districts it defines would stand until 2033 without meeting the standard of the October 2021 law designed to make redistricting fairer and less partisan.

The complaint further alleges that the map submitted by the COR divides the Ulster County municipalities of Gardiner, Lloyd, Plattekill, Town of Ulster and Shawangunk into multiple legislative districts, while the law prioritizes keeping municipal districts whole whenever possible.

Prior to COR's adoption of the illegal map, officials and voters complained to the COR at their public hearings and in public statements, that towns had been divided unfairly on their map.

The refusal of Obijiski and the COR to correct their errors by redrawing the map to be in compliance with NY State law is unreasonable since the COR is empowered to act through Election Day 2023.

Ulster County officials agree.

"Since it was discovered that the map is legally defective about two months ago, I have argued that COR should reconvene and draw a new map that complies with the law," said County Legislature Chair Tracey Bartels. "It is ridiculous that it should take a lawsuit by private individuals to get a public commission to fix the illegal issues."

Bartels also stated that the Legislature and the County Executive, which established the COR, was written out of the redistricting process by the County Charter. Only the still fully-empowered COR can correct the errors.

"From its inception, the COR was dominated by Republicans whose party stands to benefit from the division of Gardiner for the next decade," said Tom Kruglinski, a plaintiff in the suit and Chair of the Gardiner Democratic Committee. "Gardiner is a town well below the target district population," Kruglinski adds. "The COR used the 'cracking and packing' gerrymandering technique to make it almost impossible for a Democrat to win a legislative seat even though Democrats outnumber Republicans by a ratio of 2-to-1," he explained.

"What they did is stack the deck for the benefit of one party," said Harold Chorny, a Shawangunk resident and a plaintiff. "The State law is expressly designed to avoid that."

In the Town of Ulster, three districts were created by the COR. Previously there were two. 'The town of Ulster is the business seat of the County," says plaintiff Laura Hartmann. "Three legislators dilute the priorities of the town's residents. We have big issues to deal with, issues that impact the entire County. It is important to keep the town as whole as possible," Hartman insists.

The lawsuit shows that Ulster County citizens are determined to force the COR to correct their map's legal defects and create districts that comply with the letter and spirit of the law. Links:

Monticello Rotary Meeting

Following an executive board meeting, the regular meeting of the Monticello Rotary was called to order by President Brad Rutledge at 630.

A warm welcome was extended to our newest Rotarian, Brad Matican, who has completed his fourth meeting. Formal induction will follow.

Amanda Langseder, Executive Director of Sullivan 180 provided a comprehensive overview of this essential community service organization, emphasizing the primary mission, "empowering a healthier generation."

In partnership with Sullivan Renaissance, Sullivan 180 continues to expand its health and wellness initiatives targeting all school districts in the county, in addition to the overarching "youth centric focus," which ensures that all children are aware of the importance of healthier lifestyles.

Alarming statistics; specifically those that place Sullivan County in danger zones with issues such as obesity, suicide and opioid use, were eye-openers that further amplified the importance of the Sullivan 180 partnership initiatives.

Outreach and Emergency Services Coordinator (and VP of the Monticello Fire District; Commissioner of the Joint Fire District of Monticello) Lindsay Wheat described a competitive grant initiative that will provide seed monies to 5 Sullivan County schools districts in the amount of 5000$ to be expended on programs that provide direct support for health and wellness programs. Examples included the Cooke School Staff Morale and Wellness.

This initial seed grant will pave the way for a larger grant, 50 - 75K, that will allow winning districts to provide more extensive programs.

Focusing on community first responders, programs that provide support for firefighters, who, as a group, have alarming issues with overall health and wellness (poor eating habits leading to obesity; highest suicide rate of all first responders; high blood pressure, and the like). In partnership with Garnet health, and further supported by a grant from Assemblywoman Aileen Gunther, teams of seven physicians, across multiple specialties, will travel to all 40 fire districts in the county to support the health and wellness initiatives.

In partnership with local businesses, "Turtle Awards' (the Turtle is the "mascot" of Sullivan 180 - "slow and steady wins the race"), will be given to local fire districts to be used for health and wellness programs. "Health Means Business" - the mission then, "Turn Around Health in Sullivan County," concluded this outstanding presentation.

Networking, dinner, 50-50 and Happy Dollars, rounded out yet another exciting meeting!

"Life is Good" (kudos to Orshii for the "power of positivity!")

Even Caregivers Need a Break Volunteers Needed for the REST Program

Jewish Family Services and The Ulster County Office for the Aging are extending an invitation to you to become involved with your community in a very meaningful way - as volunteer companions for the REST Program (Respite Education & Support Tools).

Respite is defined as a short period of rest or relief from something difficult or unpleasant. Caregivers are often the sole support for a loved one providing both physical and emotional assistance. Caregivers often neglect themselves to ensure that their loved one is OK, and they need a few hours for themselves to catch up on things that they cannot normally do when providing care including going to a doctor's appointment or shopping or going for a walk ... or just to de-stress and decompress. Becoming a REST Volunteer allows you to provide some much needed respite time for caregivers in your community.

Simple Requirements: The program requires all volunteers to provide proof of vaccination and a background check for inhome volunteers. Volunteers fill out an application and are then interviewed by the REST Program Coordinator. Then they are trained in the role.

The Coordinator will match a family with a volunteer that seems best suited to that family. It is this careful matching of a volunteer with a family that needs them that really makes the program work. Volunteers are accompanied on their first visit and mentored throughout their work. Monthly meetings of the volunteers allow people to exchange ideas and present their challenges in a supportive environment.

Volunteers need to be prepared to give up only four hours a month. However, we are flexible and have lots of ideas about how you can help. The Office of Aging reimburses mileage at 0.39 cents a mile. Companions are just that: Companions! They are there to reminisce, share stories or play cards or take a walk if allowable. They are not responsible for the physical care of the care recipient.

The Klyne Museum - Communications/Membership -Remote Volunteer

We're looking for committed volunteers with an interest in history to help support our museum!

The Klyne Museum is a National Historical Landmark, housed in the former Klyne Esopus Reformed Dutch Church. The building's unique architectural style from 1827 and the site's community presence since 1792 make the museum an important piece of history within the Hudson Valley. Thanks to 17 years of hard work, the passionate members of the Klyne Esopus Historic Preservation Committee saved this important historical site from demolition, made repairs to the building and preserved and collected artifacts. The museum finally opened to the public in 1986.

The Klyne Esopus Museum is looking to grow within the local community - but we need your help! We are looking for a volunteer interested in committing to an ongoing schedule to help with museum communications and outreach.
